THIEF LOCKS GIRL IN ICEBOX

Today

To Hire 600,000 Men.
Wanted, 1,000,000 Pledges.
Little Miss Guinan.
Wall St. Puzzled.

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

THE most important news for the world in general and for future generations is Lloyd George's promise to diminish unemployment in Britain by putting 600,000 men to work at once.

EVEN the most stodgy Tories no longer laugh at statements by Lloyd George. He arranged their finances before the war, financed the war, built ammunition factories and supplied ammunition, then ran the war.

HE SAYS he will employ the idle "without costing the taxpayers a penny, putting them at useful work which will more than pay what it costs to hire them."

American statesmen should read Lloyd George's book on the subject. Price sixpence.

THE Women's Christian Temperance Union wishes at least 1,000,000 persons between 14 and 30 to sign a pledge to obey the Eighteenth Amendment.

It's a good idea to select Americans from 14 to 30. They seem to do most of the drinking now.

IF HIGH SCHOOL girls and other young ladies continue at the present rate we shall have fathers and mothers outside the night clubs at 4 in the morning, saying, "Daughter, dear daughter, come home with me now."

MISS TEXAS GUINAN, who greets her night club customers appropriately with "Hello, Sucker," and is alleged by prohibition agents to sell them champagne for $25 a bottle, is on trial before 12 good men and true, middle-aged.

Covered with diamonds, the "little girl" says she cannot understand why a great big country like this should want to keep her from making a living.

THE prosecuting attorney said, "This lady's business is to make whoopee."

Can anybody hope that 12 gentlemen, even middle-aged, will object to that, in these days?

WALL STREET was "unsettled," didn't know what to think about anything.

From Cleveland, Harry W. Hosford wires: "Please get the Federal Reserve Board to attach to their next warning a list of the stocks they consider good short sales, and at what prices they think the same should be covered."

THE Federal Reserve, no doubt, sincerely desires to protect the public against itself, but seems not to know how to go about it. Part of an amusing situation is this: Corporations that don't need money have been borrowing from the Federal Reserve on commercial paper, then sending that money into Wall Street to be lent at 15 and 20 per cent as call money.

IT MIGHT be as well for the Federal Reserve to let the banks borrow direct on collateral loans.

The Bank of England devotes 20 per cent of its resources to such loans, protecting security buyers from usurious rates.

Britons apparently can be trusted to use sound investing judgment. Americans can't. British won't stand bossing. Americans, as Northcliffe said, are "docile."

ALFRED P. SLOAN, Jr., president of General Motors, in Paris, says there is nothing "in the report that General Motors has purchased for $50,000,000 the Citroen, biggest automobile plant in France."

General Motors, however, HAS bought the great German Opel automobile works. A while ago that was denied.

CARDINAL O'CONNELL, chief of the Catholic hierarchy in America, refers to Prof. Einstein's "relativity and utterly befogged notions about space and time" as having a basis "to produce a universal doubt about God and His creation."

THE Cardinal said he did not wish "at this time" to accuse Prof. Einstein of "deliberately wishing to destroy the Christian faith," but the Cardinal described the Einstein theory as a cloak "beneath which lies the ghastly apparition of atheism."

EINSTEIN, in Germany, said he did not wish to enter into any discussion and that Cardinal O'Connell's statement "left him cold."

It would not have left him cold had it been made in the days of Galileo or Giordano Bruno.

HELEN WILLS, champion California tennis player and champion American girl, will meet Queen Mary. The Queen will see something worthwhile.

She has already met Miss Ruth Draper. After Helen Wills is presented, the Queen will know two of the finest young women this country has produced. Fortunately for us, we have many more at home like them.

SOUTH SIDE GROCERY HELD UP

Locked in the refrigerator of the P. H. Butler chain store at 2237 Salisbury street, South Side, by an armed holdup man today, Miss Alice Junker, 20, of 2209 Arlington avenue, clerk, was held a prisoner until her tappings on the heavy refrigerator door were heard by a little girl who had entered the store for groceries.

The lone robber, flourishing a revolver, had looted the cash register of $60 before locking Miss Junker in the ice box. The robbery occurred a short time after Gerard Sommers, the manager, had gone downtown to obtain supplies. Miss Junker was alone in the store.

Miss Junker, who had been employed in the store only since Monday, said the robber was evidently a foreigner. She said the robber walked up to the counter, and without warning, drew a revolver.

She was forced to hand over the bills from the register and was then ordered to walk back to the refrigerator, the robber following her with the gun pressed against her side.

Miss Junker said it was several minutes before she could attract the attention of the small girl who freed her. The name of the child was not obtained.

LINDY OVERDUE, LANDS, HOPS

BROWNSVILLE, Tex., April 10.—(AP.)—Col. Charles A. Lindbergh landed here at 9:30 a. m. today from the interior of Mexico where he spent the night after taking off from Mexico City yesterday.

Col. Lindbergh took off from the Brownsville airport for an unannounced destination shortly after 11 o'clock.

HIS OWN BUSINESS

The flier declared it was of interest to himself and no one else where he spent the night, and explained he had no intention of flying beyond the border of Mexico yesterday when he left Mexico City.

Friends of Lindbergh here said they believed he might have stopped at a ranch near Tampico.

"I regret very much that the press has seen fit by an unauthorized statement to cause unnecessary anxiety for my safety," Lindbergh said.

Failure of Col. Lindbergh to reach the border last night caused the Mexican government to institute a check of air fields and air men on the American side of the line also became concerned over his whereabouts.

PLANNED SEARCH

Lights at Kelly Field, San Antonio, were kept on until late last night and this morning officers there had discussed sending out searching planes in the belief that Col. Lindbergh might have been forced down.

The flier was well rested apparently, but was hungry and ate a hearty breakfast at the Brownsville airport.

He would not announce to what point he would go from Brownsville, but was expected to fly eastward to be at New York Saturday for the arrival of the body of Ambassador Herrick from France.

Too Late

EDNA LOREY

JOY OVER JOB ENDS IN GRIEF

Only yesterday the thrill of holding her first regular job was sweet to 16-year-old Edna Lorey. But it had turned bitter-sweet today.

Since she was much younger than 16, Edna has been a self-dependent girl. In her hom. at 3445 Carson street there are two younger brothers and two younger sisters, and because they relied upon Edna, Edna learned to rely upon herself.

Edna has been looking for a job, and a week ago yesterday she found one. A North Side family hired her as a maid. Edna decided to wait until she had her first week's wages before she went home and told her people about her job.

A week ago today, Edna's mother, Mrs. Amelia Lorey, 41, was taken to the South Side Hospital. On Saturday, Mrs. Lorey became seriously ill and her husband, William Lorey, asked police to find his missing daughter.

On Sunday Mrs. Lorey died. The police appealed to the newspapers, and William Lorey asked that his daughter be found before her mother was buried. The story was published, and Edna's employers read it.

Last night Edna came home.

The funeral was to be held today.

John D. Not Up On His Literature

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Some literary sharpshooters have discovered that John D. Rockefeller was wrong in attributing to an English servant girl authorship of some verse he distributed at church in Lakewood, N. J., last Sunday. "The Divine Office of the Kitchen" was written by Cecily Hallock, a young British author of reputation. An English servant represented it as hers and deceived a London preacher.

White House Phones Cut Off by Workmen

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—The White House was cut off from all telephonic communication with the outside for some hours today, creating considerable confusion in the transaction of the normal business of the executive offices.

A gang of workmen, tearing out part of the basement in the remodeling scheme of the mansion, cut a cable which knocked out all the 'phones.

NOTE CLUE TO 'TORCH VICTIM'

GREENVILLE, Pa., April 10.—A letter shedding light on an ill-fated romance of a 61-year-old Greenville widow was pointed to today as further indication that the body of the murdered "torch victim" found in a Cranford (N. J.) road February 23 was Mrs. Richard M. Campbell, of Greenville.

The letter, written by Mrs. Campbell to her second husbad, was returned unclaimed, and was uncovered by Cranford detectives. It read, in part:

TELLS OF DESERTION

"Why, or why have you deserted me? I who need you so! And only two days after you married me!

"You told me you were rich; but you have nothing.

"Are you not going to live with me?

"I must have an understanding.

"What have you done with my money?

"If you do not return it to me I shall commit suicide. But first I shall let everyone know what you have done to me. I cannot let you get away!"

MARRIED IN AUGUST

The widow of Benjamin F. Mowry, former poor director of Mercer County, Mrs. Mowry was living a quiet, settled existence in this town until August 28, when she and Campbell, described as a doctor, then a realtor, were married in Elkton, Md.

Two days later Campbell deserted her, police reported.

She returned to Greenville until February. Then she moved to New York to locate her husband.

From New York, police declared, she went to Chester, Pa. Three weeks after she had left Greenville a gasoline-drenched body was

Ohio River Gives Up Bodies of 2 Victims

Two bodies were found in the Ohio River at Ambridge today. One was that of Joseph Dimorco, an employe of the Rodgers Sand Company, who lived in a hotel at 418 Third Avenue. He fell off a barge at Emsworth, March 14.

The second body was unidentified. In the man's trousers was a heavy rock. The body was that of a man aged about 50 and baldheaded.

Torch Victim?

MRS. RICHARD M. CAMPBELL

A letter and dental work indicate that the blazing gasoline-soaked body found on a New Jersey road was that of Mrs. Campbell, 61, Greenville (Pa.) widow who remarried and was deserted, according to police, two days later.

STEEL ORDERS SHOW GAIN

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—The United States Steel Corporation today reported a gain of unfilled tonnage during March of 266,377 tons, to a total of 4,410,718 tons on March 31. This contrasts with a gain of but 34,854 tons during February.

The total of unfilled orders at the end of March compares with 4,144,341 at the end of February, and 4,109,487 at the end of January. It shows a gain of 75,512 tons over March 31, 1928.

This gain from February 28 to March 31 is the largest since last December, and brings the total of unfilled tonnage to a level not closely approached since February, 1928, when it reached 4,398,189 tons. The March gain in new business was established despite record production and shipments.

The high rate of operations has led to predictions in Wall street that the company's earnings in the first half of this year will run from $9 to $11 a share.

Coolidge to Become Insurance Director

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Darwin P. Kingsley, president of the New York Life Insurance Company, announced today that Calvin Coolidge will become a director of the company, succeeding the late Myron T. Herrick. Coolidge was nominated at a meeting of the board today and will be elected at the May meeting.

MRS. GANN WINS HIGH RANKING

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(INS.)—The flag of social triumph was run up today from the tepee of Vice President Charles Curtis and his half-sister, Mrs. Edward Everett Gann.

The diplomatic corps of Washington, comprising more than two score representatives of kings, queens, sultans and plain presidents, decided to recognize Mrs. Gann as the Vice President's sister and to accord her the status usually held by the wife of the Vice President at all formal diplomatic functions.

CONFER FOR HOUR

This decision was reached at a special meeting of the diplomats, held at the British embassy under the tutelage of Sir Esme Howard, dean of the corps. The meeting lasted nearly an hour, and when it concluded Sir Esme announced the result. A formal letter will be written to Secretary of State Stimson apprising him of the action of the diplomats.

The diplomats were forced to take some action on the matter today after Stimson "washed his hands" of the whole affair, and declined to permit the State Department to define Mrs. Gann's social ranking.

"AX" TO FALL

Incidentally, there is to be a shakeup in the State Department as a result of the social warfare that has raged for a week over the question of Mrs. Gann's social status. It was the protocol division of that department which decided that Mrs. Gann should be seated below the wives of ambassadors and ministers.

The entire protocol division, set up by Secretary Kellogg, and which has acted as the social arbiter of official Washington, may be abolished, it was indicated today, and its personnel put to doing something else besides deciding whether Mrs. Tweedle-Dum shall be seated ahead of Mrs. Tweedle-Dee or vice versa.

While the diplomats courageously and courteously took upon themselves the duty of according Mrs. Gann the place she coveted, even they quailed before the more intricate question of where Mr. Gann, her husband, is to sit.

"How about Mr. Gann?" the ambassador was asked.

Sir Esme smiled his slow British smile, and said:

"Mr. Gann, I am informed, is a very estimable gentleman."

TEXAS FORGETS TRIAL, COMES IN LATE

NEW YORK, April 10.—(INS.)—Texas Guinan, the life of Broadway's night life, kept the United States Federal Court waiting 15 minutes today before she appeared for continuation of her trial for maintaining an alleged nuisance in connection with the sale of liquor at the Salon Royale, dusk-to-dawn club.

"I forgot all about it," explained Tex. "Besides, I don't want to go to jail dressed like Little Eva."

Tex didn't hurt anybody's eyes.

MORAL SUPPORT THERE

Texas again wore her diamond wristlet. It took a brave man to look it straight in the face.

Several of Tex's charming girls were in the courtroom to lend moral or other support to their boss. One was in a complete blue creation and the other in a fawn-colored ensemble. Their looks did credit to the establishment.

La Guinan was shown to be one of the biggest "bread-and-butter" girls along Broadway when a contract for her night club services at the Salon Royale was revealed at the trial.

GUARANTEED $1,000 WEEKLY

The contract read before the jury revealed:

1. That Texas had the option of taking either 50 per cent of the

DR. M. F. WALSH IN AUTO CRASH

Police Superintendent Peter P. Walsh's son, Dr. M. F. Walsh, a dentist on Mercy Hospital staff, and two couples who were riding with him were shaken up when the auto driven by Dr. Walsh skidded on the wet Manchester Bridge early today and crashed against a steel girder.

The automobile, which is the city-owned machine assigned to Supt. Walsh's office for police use, was damaged $150.

Mrs. Marie Murray suffered painful lacerations and was being treated at Presbyterian Hospital today. Others in the car were Mrs. Murray's husband, Dr. Paul Murray, of 2001 Fifth avenue, and Dr. and Mrs. Fred Ludwig, of 217 Oakland avenue, whom Dr. Walsh was driving home from a dance.

The police report of the crash stated the machine was being used with Supt. Walsh's permission.

Hit and Run Driver Hurts Whitaker Man

Struck by an automobile while walking in Whitaker street, Whitaker, early today, John Smith, 38, of 444 River avenue, Whitaker, was left lying unconscious in the roadway by the motorist who sped away. He was found a short time later and removed to the Homestead Hospital. Both legs were fractured and he also suffered severe bruises and lacerations.

PROTESTS BRING NEW ACTION BY BOSSES

HARRISBURG, April 10.—The fight of Senator William D. Mansfield to have the Musmanno coal and iron police bill reported favorably from the Senate Judiciary General Committee was won today when Gov. John S. Fisher threw the full weight of his administration behind the measure.

The Governor's action today was a reversal of his attitude yesterday when he apparently agreed to the strangling of all coal police legislation.

The bill was reported by Senator M. G. Leslie, Pittsburgh. The action was taken after Governor Fisher, after discussing the situation with Mansfield, had called in Senator A. F. Daix, chairman of the committee, and informed him that the bill must be reported.

BOSSES DEMAND ACTION

Daix stated later that the Governor, former State Chairman W. L. Mellon and State Chairman Edward Martin had urged him to use his influence to get the bill out of committee and on the floor.

The pickling process was stopped effectively when the Governor today took up the battle that was started yesterday by Mansfield.

Mr. Mellon, who is here for a series of conferences with the Governor and other state officials, declared at noon today that the conferees had not discussed the coal and iron police system bills. He stated that, as yet, he has received no telegram from the American

A petition for a writ of supersedeas was granted by the court and an appeal was taken to the State Superior Court. Pending disposition of the appeal, Mayor Caufiel was released under $18,000 bail.

In addition to the sentence, the mayor was removed from office in accordance with the provisions of the constitution.

Dening, British Polo Star, Dies by Gun

LONDON, April 10.—(AP.)—Capt. John Pitt Dening, who captained the British army polo team against the United States Army in 1925, was found shot dead in a hotel here last night. A revolver lay beside him. Capt. Dening also was a member of the British team which competed at Meadowbrook in September, 1927. He was one of Britain's eight goal players.

PORTER 'HERO' ADMITS HE MAILED ROOSEVELT BOMB

NEW YORK, April 10.—(INS.)—Thomas Callegy, middle-aged porter at the general postoffice here, confessed to the federal authorities today that he mailed the bomb to Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt which was found in the postoffice last Sunday.

He did it with the idea of being made a hero of, figuring that would bring him promotion in the government service, he is alleged to have admitted. It was Callegy who "found" the bomb on the postoffice floor and for a day or two was a hero.

Several years ago a porter in the Chicago postoffice was promoted after he had discovered a bomb.

HANSON BACK FROM SOUTH, NOW READY TO GO ON TRIAL

William Hanson, well-known man about this and other towns, has returned to his native heath.

After a winter spent beneath the shaded palms, Hanson has returned to Pittsburgh from Florida to stand trial on charges of maintaing gambling devices.

District Attorney Samuel H. Gardner revealed today that Hanson had returned and had sent word he was ready to stand trial. The trial is scheduled for April 22.

Hanson was not present when he was to have gone on trial Monday. He was returning overland from the sun-kissed South and was held up by floods, he said.

Hanson was indicted in the county's probe, along with Alfred Forney, missing defendant, and countless others.

VETS' BONUS MEASURE SHELVED

HARRISBURG, April 10.—The Purucker soldier bonus resolution has been pickled in the Senate Judiciary General Committee, the same body that tried to kill the Musmanno coal and iron police bill.

Senator William D. Mansfield, who led the fight to have the Musmanno bill reported favorably, also tried to get the bonus bill reported to the floor. He was overruled by Senator A. F. Daix, Philadelphia, the chairman.

CALLED FOR $50,000,000

The Purucker bill proposed a constitutional amendment providing a $50,000,000 bond issue for adjusted compensation to all living veterans of all wars.

"It's a big blow to the thousands of veterans in this county, but then the fight has just begun," said Col. Robert G. Woodside, county controller, when informed that Purucker $50,000,000 soldier bonus bill had been buried in committee.

"FIGHT JUST STARTING"

"There is no reason why the people of a state as big as Pennsylvania should not be given the right to have the last word on such a bonus, if they want it," he said. "If the bill loses out in the present Legislature, it is going to get another chance in the next. We have just begun our fight and will wage a more vigorous fight in the future."

Col. Woodside has been one of the most active supporters of the bonus measure in behalf of Allegheny County World War veterans. He is a leader in their affairs and a World War veteran himself.

profits of the club or 50 per cent of the "couvert charges."

2. That Texas was guaranteed $1,000 a week drawing account.

3. That her name should precede even her employer's in any electric light advertising.

4. That she was to be the sole "star entertainer."

Texas chose taking 50 per cent of the night club's profits and during a sample two-week period she received $3,393.29 for her little dinner pail.

This was testified by Mortimer Laisler, accountant, over the strenuous objection of defense counsel.

Texas frequently even did better than this. She averaged between $2,000 and $3,000 a week under her option of half the profits, although several weeks she was outdistanced by the couvert charge totals.

In the two-week period from May 15 to June 1, that quaint American custom—the couvert charge—returned $12,898 against only $5,762.54, half the profits.

To those out-of-town visitors to Texas' clubs, the following "sucker" chart may prove interesting, as brought out in today's testimony via the Salone Royale's accounting systems:

1928	Half Net Profits	Credit	Convert Charge Cash
Mar. 15-April 1	$3,346.59	$357	$8,067
April 1-April 15	2,480.53	478	6,316
April 15-May 1	5,035.57	452	7,585
May 1-May 15	2,400.76	309	7,111

AUTOIST FACES HIT-RUN CHARGE

Henry Oliver, 23, of Woodland road, Sewickley, was discharged today following a hearing in Traffic Court on a charge of violating the automobile law, which involved, police said, an attempt to flee after his automobile had struck another car.

He was arrested at Central Police Station after he had been taken there by H. B. Van Hook, manager of the boiler division of the American Radiator company, who gave his business address as 310 Second avenue. Oliver's machine collided with that of Van Hook.

Oliver spent 20 minutes in a cell, awaiting the arrival of friends who posted his security.

MARINES DENY BOMBING TOWN

MANAGUA, Nicaragua, April 10.—(AP.)—Explanations at marine headquarters of reports of the bombing of Las Limas, Honduras, yesterday contained a version of the affair different from that which caused excitement at Tegucigalpa, capital of Honduras.

The marine reports said that on March 31, as airplanes reconnoitered near the Nicaraguan-Honduran border, they were fired on by outlaws in the vicinity of Brajil, which is near Las Limas. A bullet struck the plane, and "a group of bandits was bombed by the United States marines, destroying one shack in that area."

Nicaraguan government officials are quoted as saying that the region in which the two villages are located is so close to the border that it is claimed by both Honduras and Nicaragua.

The story told in Tegucigalpa was that Las Limas, which was mentioned as in Honduras, was bombed by marine planes. Fire followed, destroying the entire town.

found blazing in a road near Cranford.

Campbell, the husband, has not been located.

DENTAL WORK SIMILAR

For seven weeks New Jersey authorities sought to establish the body's identity.

Yesterday they ascertained that the shoes she wore had been purchased in Greenville.

Today Dr. H. C. Sturtevant, of Linesville, near Greenville, described dental work he had done for Mrs. F. Mowry as being identical as that found in the torch victim's mouth.

In Fallston, Beaver Valley, today Mrs. Campbell's sister, Mrs. James Jackson, 62, a widow, was located. Mrs. Jackson had not heard from her sister since February 8, two weeks before she disappeared.

On that date Mrs. Jackson received a postcard from her sister in New York which said:

"I had no Christmas spirit this year. Dr. Campbell I have not seen for five months. I was afraid I would never see him again, but he sent me telegrams and registered letters. He is such a busy man—"

Mrs. Mowry told her sister she had met Campbell a year before the marriage in Baltimore, Mrs. Jackson said.

Identification of the murder victim, if she is Mrs. Campbell, will be determined finally tomorrow by Mrs. H. G. Dodds, with whom Mrs. Campbell lived here, and a neighbor, Mrs. John Straub, a neighbor. The two women were to leave here late today for Cranford.

MEDICS DEFEND 'ETHICS,' OUST FAMOUS PHYSICIAN

CHICAGO, April 10.—(AP.)—Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, distinguished as a physician and philanthropist, has been expelled from membership in the Chicago Medical Society for violation of the society's code, which regards advertising as unethical.

The action against Dr. Schmidt last night was based on his connection with the Illinois Social Hygiene League, which is affiliated with the Public Health Institute of Chicago. The institute, which advertises heavily, was organized by a group of prominent Chicagoans to combat a group of diseases constituting a social problem, and to provide treatment to persons of limited means. Among the directors of the institute are a number of wealthy men, including Marshall Field III, Col. A. A. Sprague and A. A. Carpenter.

Dr. Schmidt made a short defense, declaring that the medical profession must "quickly bring down the inexcusable high costs of medical care."

"Is it wrong for medical men to accept help from charitable organizations so they may aid humanity? Must I stop that work because the Public Health Institute, through its lay trustees, advertises the perils of certain disease?"

Ouster from the Chicago Medical Society ordinarily means similar action by state and national medical organizations, it was pointed out by physicians at the meeting.

Dr. Schmidt, a man in his 60s, is a member of the American, German, French and International Urological associations, and has been active in public health work in Chicago for many years.

HEFLIN WELCOMES SON, RUSHES PHOTOGRAPHERS

WASHINGTON, April 10.—Booming explosions and excited commands from Senator Heflin, of Alabama, created a commotion at Union station last night when his son, Tom, Jr., returned to his father.

"Arrest those men," shouted the fiery senator, when news photographers started to snap pictures.

"Officer, arrest those men for me," shouted Heflin repeatedly, as a crowd gathered.

Senator Heflin was at the station to receive and forgive his son for any indiscretion of conduct or conversation when he arrived at New York from a trip to Panama.

Senator Heflin saw to it that his son was not interviewed at the station, but indicated that perhaps today he would have a statement.

"Until then, not a word," he said.

SHAKE HANDS

The young man arrived at 7:45 p. m. His father had been waiting 15 minutes. Railroad station employes offered the Senator entrance to the train shed to receive his son, but Senator Heflin declined.

He stood at the gate and when his son appeared, walked forward 20 feet and shook hands with him. They conversed a minute or two and then started out of the station.

As they passed through the gates leading to the trains, cameramen began exploding their flashlights.

The son had his left arm entwined in his father's broad right arm.

When the father shouted to the photographers, the son spoke to him softly. Seeing that the photographers were insistent upon taking their "shots," the senator rushed forward toward them.

They boomed their flashlights, clicked their cameras and made a hasty retreat.

WILL STAND BY BOY

Senator Heflin and his son, arm in arm, then walked briskly through the station to an automobile while a crowd followed and saw them depart.

Before the train arrived Senator Heflin told a correspondent that he would not unbraid his son. The Senator said:

"My enemies are trying to hurt me through my son, but they will not deter me. My course has been marked by destiny. I shall go ahead in my work. We are born only once and die only once. After we are gone the only question is how did he die. Did he do good work?

Was he a good American?

"Whatever my boy has done, I want the world to know that I'm standing by my boy. I will take hold of him and try to straighten him out."

De King Tactics Taboo, Chicago Raiders Told

CHICAGO, April 10.—(AP.)—Strict instructions against police invasion of private homes by liquor raiders, unless under authority of warrants, have been issued by Commissioner Russell.

"Lest some overzealous policeman cause a repetition here of the Aurora, Ill., woman slaying during a dry raid, private homes under no circumstances are to be invaded," the Commissioner's order said.

A "dry up Chicago" edict, issued in the wake of the Valentine's Day assassination of seven men connected with the liquor "racket," has been followed by a campaign which has brought numerous complants, the Commissioner said.

CHARTER BILL VOTE IS DELAYED

HARRISBURG, April 10.—Late today it was apparent that action in the House on the Pittsburgh Metropolitan District Charter and the Harris Voting Machine bills will be delayed until tonight or perhaps tomorrow. Delay in printing the calendars, together with a prolonged debate on the Salus fire arms bill, caused the delay.

The charter has not been changed to prevent the board of commissioners from awarding millions of dollars worth of public contracts without advertising. Meanwhile the Marcus measure continuing the Metropolitan Commission passed the House last night after a minor fight, the result of which depended more upon the lack of members present and voting than upon the opposition.

Thirty-six men voted against the commission, but slipped through with 109 votes, only four more than needed. Allegheny county voted 16 to 8 in favor of continuing the commission, with three absent. The county vote was:

For the commission—Bell, Deltrich, Goehring, Hoffmann, Lynch, Marcus, McCann, Michel, Muldowney, Musmanno, Purucker, Soffel, Stadtlander, Steedle and Wettach.

Against — Baldridge, Davidson, Howe, Hagmaier, McClure, Rhodes, Riddle and Storer.

Absent—Grenet, Grimes and Sullivan.

COAL AND IRON FOES AROUSED

Protest over the attempted stifling in the Legislature of the coal and iron police bills, today had mounted to a peak only exceeded by the John Borkoski slaying by police Santiago, two months ago, as word was received here that two of the bills had been given a new lease of life.

In a telegram to W. L. Mellon, the executive committee of Pittsburg branch, American Civil Liberties Union, accused the former Republican State chairman of being "personally responsible for the continuation of the system."

DICTATORSHIP PLAYED

"It is time the people of the state realized that instead of a democracy we have a dictatorship of the moneyed interest. This control by W. L. Mellon and Joseph R. Grundy is well known," W. L. Nunn, instructor in economics at University of Pittsburgh and a member of the Civil liberties executive committee declared. "If the governor and his associates, Mr. Grundy and Mr. Mellon, had wished to do something about the coal and iorn police situation they could have whipped the legislature into line."

SECRET INFLUENCES

The Rev. F. Albert E. Day, of Christ Methodist Episcapal Church, said that "we are left with the conjecture that money counts far more than human welfare in the eyes of the legislators, and that secret influence of powerful corporations is stronger than the voice of an outraged civic conscience."

Philip Murray, international vice president of the United Mine Workers, declared killing the Musmanno bill was a deliberate affront to the taxpayers, and George P. Kountz, president of the Allied Boards of Trade, said it was a "grave mistake."

Liberal Sunday Bill Killed In Senate

HARRISBURG, April 10.—Following the lead set in the House, the Senate Law and Order Committee today killed the final bill of the series for a more liberal Sunday.

It was the bill of Senator C. J. Buckman, Bucks County, to legalize Sunday concerts. It would have permitted charging admission to the concerts and paying of musicians without violating the Sunday blue laws of 1794.

RAIN PREVENTS FRUIT DAMAGE

Only the rain prevented heavy damage to fruit crops by frost today, according to local orchardists, who anxiously watched thermometers drop to near the freezing point as the abnormally warm weather which brought trees prematurely into bloom departed ahead of a rough, cold wind from the Northeast.

The low mark of the weather bureau official thermometer was 42, although outlying district residents reported temperatures as low as 32.

"Rain today and probably Thursday," the Washington weather forecast for this district, was good news for gardeners and fruit growers if not for golfers.

A heavy coat of frost, blackening and searing the bloom covered peach, pear, plum and cherry trees would have been the lot of this district today, growers say, had today's temperature drop not been accompanied by rain.

Mrs. A. W. Burchard Married to Prince

PARIS, April 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Allene T. Burchard, widow of Anson Wood Burchard of New York City, was married to Prince Henry XXXIII of Reuss today.

Prince Henry was a widower and has two children. His first wife was Princess Victoria Marguerite, whom he married at Potsdam in 1913.

3 FARM GROUPS UNITE IN JOINT RELIEF PLAN

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—A joint proposal submitted by three national farm organizations which previously have been at odds regarding the nature of a farm relief program was made public today by Chairman Haugen, of the House Agriculture Committee.

The suggestion came from the Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union, the National Grange, and the American Farm Bureau Federation. The four requisites which they said "must be met by any legislation to permit it to qualify properly as farm relief," were enumerated as follows:

FOUR REQUISITES

"It should make the tariff effective on all farm crops so that surpluses will not be permitted to depress the domestic price to the world level of prices.

"It should be of such nature that the control and disposition of agricultural surpluses are adequately provided for.

"It should contain provisions, which are automatic in their operation, to check overproduction.

"It should provide for farmer ownership and control of marketing organizations with due consideration to co-operative associations already established."

HOOVER MESSAGE TUESDAY

After a call at the White House today, Senator Watson, of Indiana, Republican leader, said President Hoover will send his message to the special session of Congress next Tuesday and the McNary farm relief bill will be introduced on Wednesday.

The House will spend Monday organizing and then, in conjunction with the Senate, will appoint a committee to formally notify the President that the Seventy-first Congress is in session and ready to receive any communications the President might desire to make.

PROTESTS GET NEW ACTION

Civic Liberties Union asking that he lend his aid to force the bills through the Senate. There is a possibility that the telegram is in Mr. Mellon's room, as he had been in one conference after another since early morning, the chief topic being the repeal of the anthracite coal tax.

COAL OPERATORS FAIL

As a result of the Governor's firm stand it appears today as if the effort on the part of the coal operators of Western Pennsylvania to strangle efforts to regulate the vicious coal and iron police system will be unsuccessful. He has shown his power over the Legislature repeatedly and it is possible now that, because of the fact the effort to pickle the bills was brought to light and resulted in a storm of protest from members and citizens, that one of the measures will pass and be signed.

The successful bill, if the administration program goes through, probably will be that introduced by Representative Musmanno at the request of the Governor himself.

Michigan May Oust Woman Party Chief

MOTOR CODE'S FEES CUT

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 10.—Reductions of approximately $700,000, is contemplated revenue from increases in fees, were made in amendments to the motor code before it was reported to the Senate from the Roads Committee today. The code will be before the eSnate for final action oMnday night.

For trucks, registration fees were increased 10 per cent, for vehicles with pneumatic tires. The original increases had been 25 per cent. Increases of 50 per cent for trucks with solid tires and for trailers were unchanged.

The amendments make a flat increase of 100 per cent for all bus registration. The original code proposed 100 per cent increase for pneumatic-tired trucks and 125 per cent increase for solid-tired trucks. The amendments also increase registration fees for taxicabs 25 per cent.

The learner's permit is increased from $2.50 to $3 instead of $3.50, as originally proposed; and the operator's permit is increased from $1 to $2.

Thep resent increases are estimated to net $4,036,931 additional revenue. Before the reductions were made, the increases had been estimated to produce $4,714,384 a year.

The Senate committee also wrote into the code a legal maximum speed limit of 40 miles an hour for passenger automobiles, 35 miles an hour for buses and lower limits for trucks.

The entire program of road extension bills once more was reported to the Senate for action. It will be before the Senate with the 4-cent gasoline tax bill, which passed the Senate on second reading today.

W. G. Smith Named As Justice at Wall

HARRISBURG, April 10.—(AP.)—Four justices of the peace were appointed yesterday by Gov. John S. Fisher and the nominations confirmed by the Senate. The appointees are: Walter O. Goodbread, of Hyde Park, Westmoreland County; William G. Smith, of Wall, Allegheny County; Charles A. Baker, of catawissa, and Frank A. Eppley, for Middlesex Township, Cumberland County.

Woman's Attempt To Starve Self To Death Fails

RALEIGH, N. C., April 10.—(AP.)—A six-day search for Mrs. A. L. Burroughs, 34, who left home with the avowed purpose of starving herself to death, ended last night when she crawled from beneath the home of a next-door neighbor and called for water.

Organized searching parties had combed Raleigh and its suburbs and earlier had dynamited a pool in an effort to find her body.

EXPECTS CUT TO INCREASE PROSPERITY

CLARKSBURG, W. Va., April 10.—Central West Virginia, one of the most rapidly expanding regions in the country, looks for still greater prosperity if the government makes further reductions of taxes on earned incomes.

The people here are heavy contributors in income taxes, according to the average per capita figures of the Bureau of Internal Revenue. Their spokesmen contend for a revision downward of the tax on the incomes of wage earners and join in urging Congress to give attention to this matter at its next session.

"While the wage earners and salaried people have benefited most by the successive tax reductions that have been achieved, the results of this form of tax reduction as reflected in tax receipts and continued prosperity of the country fully justify a still further cut of this kind."

HIGHLAND FOR RELIEF

Such is the opinion of Virgil L. Highland, president of the Empire National Bank, newspaper publisher, leading stockholder in many large business enterprises and for 16 years a West Virginia member of the Republican National Committee. He continued:

"I believe that tax relief contributes most to the general prosperity. It should be given wherever possible. Secretary Mellon's theory that taxes which hamper business can be lightened without destroying revenues has again been justified.

"Business and industry can and should be relieved of tax burdens. The Federal government has done much in this respect, but much more should be done. This relief of business is at one end. At the other end another and even more important tax relief is essential, for it affects the buying power of those who purchase commodities and the services and thus makes business for big business and the industrial concerns. When the wage earners can buy more, save more and live better, then business is made prosperous."

SOUTH JOINS DRIVE

Support of the movement for a reduction of the tax on earned income is given with equal spirit by the citizens of other cities and towns in Central West Virginia. In the southern part of the state the benefits of reduced taxation are pointed out by J. H. Brewster, prominent lumberman, of Weston, and U. G. Young, a leading lawyer, of Buckhannon.

Other West Virginia businessmen indorsing the tax reduction movement are Charles N. Kimball and E. A. Durham, bankers, of Sistersville; George W. Bowers, president of the Bowers Pottery Company, of Mannington; M. L. Hutchinson, coal operator, of Fairmont, and O. J. Fleming, banker, of Grafton.

CONGRESSMEN JOIN

Two West Virginia members of Congress have approved the tax reduction plans in statements issued in Washington—Representatives Frank L. Bowman, Morgantown, and John M. Wolverton, Richwood.

Both Wolverton and Bowman say they are in favor of any reduction of taxes.

N. J. ASSEMBLY PROTESTS TAX

TRENTON, N. J., April 10.—After 42 members of the New Jersey State Assembly had signed the petition of the New York American League for the downward revision of federal income taxes, the New Jersey State Assembly last night passed a resolution in record time, memorializing Congress to make such a reduction.

The resolution passed the Assembly unanimously. At the time of its passage 54 of the 60 members of the Assembly had rushed in from the corridors and there was not a dissenting vote.

In this manner the New Jersey Assembly has aligned itself with the Legislatures of Connecticut and other states.

Not a tintype snitched from your grandmother's album, but a picture taken in a Pittsburgh police station of today. By day these personalities are policemen, by night theatrical giants. The iron hat at the piano is on the musical director for the police minstrels and the other iron hat is on a lieutenant. You should hear the other three, soloists, sing!

POLICE TO GIVE BENEFIT SHOW AND DANCE

April 15 is the date and Syria Mosque the place for the ninth annual dance and vaudeville to be given by Fort Pitt Lodge No. 1, Fraternal Order of Police, for the benefit of its sick and accident fund.

Police captains and lieutenants, sergeants and patrolmen and not a few of their children have been rehearsing for some time for the big event. There is talent galore among Pittsburgh minions of the law. Many a traffic-directing or beat-pounding "blue coat" on that night will surprise the audience with his vocal, histrionic or terpsichorean ability. Among the 65 members of the minstrel cast there will be found potential Carusos, Al Jolsons, George M. Cohans and vaudevillians who might make big vaudeville circuit headliners.

The show includes four vaudeville acts and a motion picture film. There will be dancing after the show. Lieut. William Walsh, of the Central Police Station, is general director, and Tommie Dixon, musical director.

DOCTOR'S NURSE BLAMED BY WIFE SEEKING DIVORCE

Entering the office of her husband, Dr. Dale Gillingham, a Uniontown dentist, Mrs. Milre Gillingham, of Frankstown road, Penn Township, found his nurse assistant sitting on his lap, Mrs. Gillingham testified in her divorce proceedings in Common Pleas Court today.

The nurse was rubbing olive oil in her husband's hair, Mrs. Gillingham said. The nurse was not identified in the testimony.

The wife testified she met her husband while he was a student in a Pittsburgh dental college. They were married in April, 1923, and for a time she lived with her parents and he resided at a fraternity house in Oakland. The wife's father, William C. Holmes, testified that on one occasion his son-in-law fought with a policeman in Oakland and another time was arrested for driving an automobile while intoxicated. Both "escapades" caused him trouble, Holmes said.

Mrs. Gillingham said her husband failed to provide her with a home and that for a time she lived with his parents at 385 North Gallatin avenue, Uniontown, only because she felt it was her duty to do so. She said her husband on many occasions took the nurse on automobile rides. The wife charged indignities and cruel and barbarous treatment. Judge Cohen heard the testimony and will announce a decision later.

National Medley Parts Family Of Immigrants

CHICAGO, April 10.—(AP.)—If Isaac Rosenblum, 8 years old, studies immigration tables carefully, he may be able to determine approximately when each of four other members of his family will join him in Chicago.

Isaac arrived yesterday. The rest of the family he left in Havana, each to await a turn for entering the United States.

Isaac's father was born in Palestine, his mother in Russia, his little sister in England, and his baby brother in Cuba. Isaac reached America first, the Egyptian immigration quota being greater than the Egyptian popularity of emigration.

Meantime, Isaac is in the care of an uncle.

VARE REACHES SUMMER HOME

PHILADELPHIA, April 10.—(AP.)—Senator-elect William S. Vare returned to Philadelphia for a little while late yesterday, arriving by train from Florida, and leaving soon afterward by automobile for his summer home in Atlantic City. Mr. Vare was accompanied by Mrs. Vare and their two daughters.

The senator-elect, who has been ill since last August, when he was stricken with partial paralysis, is still somewhat crippled, but to friends who met him at the station he appeared clear-eyed and mentally alert.

Dr. Ellwood R. Kirby, his personal physician, who also met the train, made it clear that there was to be no discussion of politics with his patient for some time at least.

Dr. John J. Shaw said that Mr. Vare was now able to walk without a cane, although he probably would use one for a time.

Two others participating in the robbery escaped.

REUNITED WITH AIMEE BY SUIT, MOTHER HAPPY

PORTLAND, Ore., April 10.—(AP.)—Mrs. Minnie M. Kennedy, defendant in a $50,000 breach of promise suit brought in Seattle by the Rev. H. H. Clark, declared here that "the things he says in that suit are ridiculous."

Mrs. Kennedy, mother of Aimee Semple McPherson, Los Angeles evangelist, charged that Clark is "seeking only money and publicity."

Clark on the other hand declared at Seattle that he would produce "conclusive evidence" at the trial to back up his claims. He alleges Mrs. Kennedy obtained a reluctant promise of marriage from him after an intensive courtship in which she promised to finance a tabernacle in Seattle and a gospel ship for an Alaskan tour.

DAUGHTER TO AID

The minister is unemployed at present. He is a mild-mannered man of middle age, slight of build and under average height.

Mrs. Kennedy, while deploring the action instituted against her, said:

"It's almost worth a little trouble to hear from so many friends and especially from my baby, Aimee, telling me not to worry."

Mrs. McPherson, who has been estranged from her mother, assured Mrs. Kennedy by wire that she would support her in fighting the suit.

Saying she aided Clark and fed him when he was hungry, Mrs. Kennedy declared she had been "wary" of him because of "his rambling speech and fits of depression."

QUOTES LETTERS

Mrs. Kennedy had a stack of letters from Clark. From them she quoted such phrases as "I've sold my Bible for 50 cents, but I'll keep my gun"—"I have only two courses open if you can't send me a few hundred dollars—suicide or suit"—"I'm physically and morally broken."

"I was ready to help him when he was hungry and down and out," Mrs. Kennedy said, "but as soon as he began to threaten me, I washed my hands of him."

School Bible Law Passes Senate In Tennessee

NASHVILLE, Tenn., April 10.—(AP.)—Echoes of Tennessee's anti-evolution law sounded in the senate chamber yesterday when a law requiring that the Bible be read in public schools passed at insistence of a Harvard graduate but over the protests of a school teacher from the hills of East Tennessee.

The bill permits the teacher or students to select passages from the Bible to be read without comment each day.

Senator Clark, of Washington, Republican and a graduate of a denominational school, made the only speech against the measure.

Senator Jack Keefe, of Nashville, Harvard graduate, contended the Bible was a "literary gem" and should be read.

Constance Morrow Confident of Lindy

MILTON, Mass., April 10.—(INS.)—Constance Morrow, prospective sister-in-law of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, went about her class work at Milton Academy today apparently confident that "The Lone Eagle" would come through safely on his trip from Mexico City to New York. At the time, Lindy's whereabouts were a matter of speculation.

The 16-year-old sister of the "Flying Colonel's" fiancee returned here last night after a 3,000-mile journey from the home of her parents, Ambassador and Mrs. Dwight W. Morrow, at Mexico City.

EVANSTON, Ill., April 10. — (AP.)—Detective Sergeant Ben Hanke was out scouting around and saw a pickpocket.

"I know you," he said. "Come along, now."

"Aw, sergeant, please don't run me in," pleaded the pickpocket. "I'm reformed. Been on the level for a year. Gotta sweet little wife, and working regular."

The sergeant let him go.

HOLD HOPE FOR BRITISH FLIERS

SYDNEY, N. S. W., April 10.—(AP.)—Yesterday's lively hopes for the safety of Capt. Charles Kingsford-Smith and the missing Southern Cross fliers were not entirely abandoned today, although they seemed to rest on frail ground.

A relief plane flying yesterday over Drysdale mission station exchanged signals from the air with mission workers, gaining the information that the Southern Cross was down between that station and Port George.

A point on the coast about 30 miles distant was specified and the pilot, whose name was Woods, was led to believe the mission workers had gained their information from bushmen or natives. They were unable to tell him of the condition of the castaways.

It was understood here it was intended to follow the clue by searchers afoot who could make attempts to question the natives.

SALVATIONISTS CELEBRATE FOUNDER'S CENTENARY

Pittsburgh today joined in the world-wide celebration of the one hundredth anniversary of the birth of William Booth, founder of the Salvation Army. At noon, officers and patrons of the organization here will gather in the vacant square adjoining the Salvation Army's Building in Third avenue and conduct an open-air service such as Gen. Booth inaugurated 60 years ago.

A feature of the celebration here will be the breaking of ground for a seven-story addition to the Salvation Army's headquarters building.

Throughout the United States, Great Britain and other countries, Booth centenary celebrations will be held. Tonight at 9 o'clock Gen. Booth's daughter, Commander Evangeline Booth, head of the Salvation Army in the United States, will broadcast a centenary address over a network of radio stations.

Gen. Booth was born in Nottingham, England, April 10, 1829. Out of a London revival society he formed the organization which in 1878 first became known as the Salvation Army.

DAWES NAMED BRITISH ENVOY

The new ambassador will be given leave of absence until he completes reorganization of the finances of Santo Domingo, about five weeks hence. He then will return to Washington to confer with Secretary Stimson before proceeding to the London post.

AIRPORT LEASE BILL FAVORED AT HEARING

HARRISBURG, April 10. — Passage of the bill to permit municipalities to lease airports was urged today by aviation supporters at a hearing before the Senate and House aeronautics committees. Speakers appeared before the committee from Philadelphia and Pittsburgh asking that favorable action be taken on the measure.

After the session of the committees, members of the Legislature together with a group of invited guests were to visit the Middletown intermediate air depot of the United States Army, nine miles south of this city.

Tonight the two legislative committees will be hosts at a dinner in the Penn-Harris Hotel. Representative Elwood J. Turner, of Delaware County, chairman of the House committee, is to preside. Mr. Turner is sponsor of several measures now before the Senate to enlarge the powers of the Aeronautics Commission and also increase the provisions of existing laws to permit municipalities to own and operate airports and landing fields. He also is the author of a bill on the House calendar today for final action which appropriates $100,000 for the purchase of state-owned emergency landing fields.

Among those who appeared at the hearing today urging the passage of the bill for municipally leased airports were R. Sanford Saltus, Jr., Philadelphia, connected with the Ludington Company; Richard W. Robbins, vice president of the Pittsburgh Aviation Industries Corporation, and Lawrence Saunders, president of the Aero Club of Philadelphia.

ILLINOIS DRY VOTE ASSURED

SPRINGFIELD, Ill., April 10.—(AP.)—A referendum on the prohibition issue in Illinois was declared to be virtually assured last night by anti-prohibition leaders, following a day of legislative jockeying in the state general assembly.

An anti-prohibition measure, providing for repeal of a search and seizure act, to which the referendum clause was attached, was passed to third reading in the lower House by a vote of 76 to 61, one vote short of the number necessary to send the bill to the Senate for confirmation. A number of avowed liberals were absent at the roll call, but have announced they will be present when the measure is put to a final vote.

Little opposition to the measure is expected in the Senate.

MAN ACQUIRES PROPERTY BY THRIFT; GETS REWARD

Thrift has enabled Samuel B. Orr, of 1602 Green Springs avenue, Mifflin Township, to become a property owner. By habitually saving money, and putting it in the bank to draw interest, Mr. Orr, a versatile man who works sometimes as a carpenter, sometimes as a coal miner and sometimes as a laborer, acquired the means to purchase several tracts of real estate.

Samuel B. Orr

As holder of passbook No. 12,812 in the Monongahela Trust Company, Mr. Orr has been awarded a thrift gift of $15 by the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, one of hundreds of gifts made by this newspaper to savings bank depositors to reward thrift and encourage others to save.

The bank book numbers of those chosen for reward are published daily in the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph. Ten awards of $10 each are announced today.

Miss Barbara Thiele, 9-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thiele, of 543 Woodward avenue, McKees Rocks, has received a $10 award as holder of passbook No. 8,118 in the Chartiers Trust Company. All of the Thiele children have bank accounts, their parents having taught them to save money at an early age.

Michael Chervenka, of 1820 Jane street, South Side, has also received a $10 thrift award. He has book No. 11,175 in the All-Nations Deposit Bank.

BELL TOLLS ANNIVERSARY OF BIG FIRE HERE IN 1845

The anniversary of the great fire in Pittsburgh, which occurred April 10, 1845, was observed today with traditional ceremony around the old bell from City Hall at the Historical Society Building in Parkman avenue. Fire Marshal Thomas L. Pfarr, dressed in his newest uniform, struck the bell which rang out in sonorous tones the figures 1—8—4—5.

The ceremony took place at 11 minutes past noon, which was just 84 years by the tick of the clock after the first alarm was given on that windy day in 1845 for a blaze at Second and Ferry street.

Fanned by the wind, the blaze spread quickly to adjoining buildings and wiped out the entire section of the city south of Fifth avenue extending from Ferry street to Pipetown, beyond Ross street, causing a loss exceeding $9,000,000.

Gimbel, Jr., vice president, assistant secretary and assistant treasurer; Sheldon R. Coons, Jr., vice president and assistant secretary.

'FRAMED' IN COUNTERFEIT PLOT, EX-GOVERNOR SAYS

DEFUNKIAK SPRINGS, Fla., April 10.—(AP.)—"It's all a frameup," former Gov. Sydney J. Catts declared at his home here today when informed that a federal grand jury had indicted him at Jacksonville on charges of aiding and abetting a counterfeit ring.

"Diaz and those people have tried to frame me before because I would not let them have any money," said Catts, who issued an emphatic denial that he had contributed $5,000 to the alleged counterfeiting operations as charged by federal agents.

"Those people have tried to frame me 19 times before."

Catts inquired the amount of his bond, saying he could "raise $1,000,000 if necessary."

No warrant has been served as yet on the former Governor. It was understood the capias was mailed from Jacksonville to Pensacola last night.

Others named in the indictments were Julian Diaz, Tampa attorney, arrested recently in Miami; Mateo Mir, Armando Dominguez and Madeline Leah Burwell, Diaz's former secretary.

Diaz and the former Governor were said to have been great friends, Diaz being one of his warmest supporters during the recent state primary, when Catts sought renomination to the office of governor, which he held from 1916 to 1920.

It was brought out that Catts, as a minister, recently baptized one of Diaz's children in Tampa.

The plot was uncovered by Federal men working out of Atlanta, when numerous $100 notes were reported in circulation in Florida and New York.

HELD AS KILLER OF RIVAL

WASHINGTON, Pa., April 10.—Gertrude Baer, 14, daughter of Mrs. Raymond Baer, of 556 West Chestnut street, was the only witness called at the inquest conducted here by Coroner William B. Baker into the killing of Derwood Vincent Heiney, 15, her story resulting in William Loughman, 22, of 400 Fayette street, being held for the next grand jury on a charge of murder.

The girl said she had been in Loughman's company two or three times but had spurned his attentions recently. On Saturday night, March 30, she said, Loughman had followed her when she went to a grocery store to make purchases. Seeing Heiney, who was a son of Wallace Heiney, 396 Ewing street, and Oscar Jones, another school boy, she told them Loughman was following her and asked them to accompany her home she said.

The girl and the boys told Loughman to quit following them, she said. He continued to do so, the girl said, and fired the shot that that killed Heiney when the latter started across the street toward him when Loughman had threatened to slap her face.

MISSED TRIAL, SURRENDERS

Special Policeman H. G. Hiser, of Greentree, who was absent Monday when his conspiracy trial was called in Criminal Court, walked into District tAtorney Samuel H. Gardner's office today.

Hiser said he had not been notified of the date of trial, that he did not know he was "missing" until he read of it in the newspapers.

Gardner carried Hiser's story to Judge James B. Drew, who had declared Hiser's $1,000 bond forfeited. Judge Drew restored the bond and Hiser's trial was listed for Tuesday. Hiser and Justice of the Peace Arthur F. Reed are charged with conspiring to defraud a young woman for settlement of a morality charge.

EVANS 'FIRES' RACKETEER

City Controller Henry O. Evans today announced that George W. Dorn, warrant clerk in the controller's office, who yesterday was convicted of operating a lottery, had been dismissed for the "good of the service."

Dorn was found guilty on the lottery charge in Criminal Court and was fined $50, paroled for a year and assessed the costs of prosecution.

Several weeks ago when Dorn was indicted by the grand jury on the lottery charge, Controller Evans suggested to him that he ask for a leave of absence without pay, until after the case was settled. This was done and Dorn has not been on the city payroll since his indictment.

REBELS KIDNAP YANKEE FLIER

JUAREZ, Chihuahua, Mexico, April 10.—(AP.)—Rebel troops who invested this city after a sanguinary street battle a month ago abandoned their prize last night in the face of advancing loyalists and steamed away westward, apparently intending to combine forces with the revolutionary army in Sonora.

Al Coenen, 28, of El Paso, airplane mechanic, was forced to accompany the evacuating army. It was reported the American was lured aboard the rebel troop train and held under guard until it left. Coenen, who has a wife and two children in El Paso, had been a mechanic for Standard Air Lines before being pressed into service by the revolutionists.

Only three other rebel fliers accompanied the train, the remainder of Gen. Caraveo's pilots having deserted and crossed the Rio Grande before the troop movement started.

There was one serviceable plane aboard the train, a Sought Corsair, captured by insurgents after it had been brought down at Jimenez.

NACO, Ariz., April 10.—(AP.)—Gen. J. Gonzalo Escobar, revolutionary commander in chief assumed personal command of rebel armies in Sonora today as his forces, retreating from Chihuahua and Sinaloa, came pouring into the state from two directions. Apparently they were heading for Naco, Sonora, held by a little garrison of Federal soldiers.

Sign This Petition and Help to Cut Taxes

Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph

To the Congress of the United States:

We, the undersigned, respectfully urge that the Congress of the United States give immediate consideration to the proposition that there be a downward revision of all income taxes on all earned incomes such as salaries or fees, or commissions for personal services. We urge this because of the many instances where wage or fee or commission earners sometimes have just a few years of good incomes and prior to and after that period have substantially less incomes. Their period of better earnings which might give the average wage earner a chance to accumulate some capital is heavily taxed and they seldom have a new opportunity which might tend to make more useful citizens of them.

Labor in general, lawyers, doctors, architects, clerical workers, salesmen, dentists, engineers, journalists, accountants, actors, motion picture actors, singers, musicians, and all the other professional people are in the same plight in the matter of earned income as distinguished from earnings on capital, and since they represent a great percentage of the citizenry of the country, we beg the gravest consideration of this proposition. Each signer below hereby enrolls as a member of the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph League for the Downward Revision of Taxes on earned incomes and will work with that newspaper toward the end stated.

Permission is hereby granted the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph to list the signer in the proper Labor, Clerical or Professional Division of the said League for presentation to our signatures to the United States Congress for the stated purpose.

The signer is not obliged to make any kind of contribution or to do anything except to give his moral support to this movement.

UNFAIR TRADING IS DENIED BY ALUMINUM CO.

Voluminous inter-company correspondence, intended to show that the Aluminum Company of America fostered fair trade practices and sought no monopoly in the aluminum industry or scrap market, is the first subject of inquiry at the hearing of the Federal Trade Commission, expected to conclude its Pittsburgh session today.

The second session to hear the company's defense to the charge of monopoly and unfair trade practices is slated for New York April 22, to be followed by a session in Chicago about a week later.

All the officers of the company will be called to disprove the accusation of a monopolistic policy, Attorney William Watson Smith, representing the company, told Maj. William W. Sheppard, trial examiner yesterday. Meanwhile officers of other corporations dealing in aluminum products, competitors of and customers of the Aluminum Company, gave testimony yesterday. They declared that the company had not sought a monopoly in the industry or attempted to control the scrap aluminum market and that its trade practices were fair.

Among the witnesses were S. W. Lipton, Cleveland, vice presiden of the Atlas Metals Co; Robert W. Appleton, purchasing manager of the Pierce-Arrow Motor Car Co; Edwin L. Hettinger, assistant secretary of the Wilson Products Co., Reading, Pa.; William Kelly, owner of the Springfield Brass Co., Springfield, O.; M. E. Konigslow, Cleveland, secretary of the Otto Konigslow Manufacturing Co.; A. M. Misch, Cleveland, vice president of the Peerless Motor Car Co; George J. Middleton, assistant purchasing agent of the Du Pont de Nemours Co; Wilmington, Del.; F. F. Pfefferkorn, Cleveland, in charge of metalware manufacture for the George H. Pullman Co; and C. R. Miller, Jr., purchasing agent of the Carnegie Steel Co.

CITY TO SPEED RIVER DOCK PROGRAM

With canalization of the Ohio River practically completed, and with shipping and transportation interests clamoring for the prompt establishment of municipal docks, Council has shown a disposition to expedite the river terminal program, and to that end will hold a public hearing on the project tomorrow.

Terminals in Manchester and at Hays station are planned. Representatives of the Pittsburgh Coal Exchange and the Chamber of Commerce will attend the hearing.

Improvement of the Ohio River sufficient to permit year-round navigation throughout the 968 miles of its length from Pittsburgh to its junction with the Mississippi at Cairo, Ill., is an accomplished fact.

STREAM NOW OPEN

Although work is still to be done on four dams at the lower end of the river, the stream, John W. Arras, senior engineer in the United States engineers' office, said today, can now be traversed by steamboats even in periods of the lowest water, for, in a pinch, a navigable stage can be furnished the incompletely improved section by releasing water through the bear traps in the upper dams.

In anticipation of heavy demand for water transportation, representatives of a barge line operating in the Mississippi called on Ross M. Riegel, City Department of Public Works engineer in charge of river improvements, to inquire what Pittsburgh proposed to do to provide terminal facilities.

Riegel gave them a copy of the report submitted to Council on March 1 last, in which the department outlined plans for a terminal a short distance below the Manchester bridge on the northern bank of the Ohio.

SURVEYS CONTINUE

Riegel said that since the report was submitted some of the cost elements had been worked out and real estate negotiations conducted. Additional information as to the project would be available for Council, he said, whenever requested. He doubted if the terminal would be constructed this year.

Meantime, surveys and studies continue to be made on the more ambitious and comprehensive program for river improvements, including not only terminals but also flood prevention and sewage disposal works and a system of riverside boulevards. Council has appropriated $80,000 for the study, which has been under way three years. A final report, Riegel said, may be issued this year, but he sees no likelihood of carrying out the program, because of the difficulty of financing it. Defeat in the election last November of the constitutional amendments permitting Pittsburgh to increase its debt limit and to assess property benefiting from public improvements has thrown serious difficulties, he said, in the way of raising the large sum of money that the improvements would require.

Two barge lines are already operating into Pittsburgh on the Ohio. The Ohio Valley Improvement Association will celebrate the completion of the river work with a pageant and steamboat parade starting at Pittsburgh on October 15 and ending at Cairo. Committees from both houses of Congress will be on hand and it is also expected that President Hoover also will attend.

Weather Conditions.

The disturbance that was centered over Colorado yesterday morning is now centered over Southern Kansas, and covers the entire Central and Southern Plains states section. The low pressure extends eastward over the Ohio Valley states to another center over Virginia. This low barometric condition is producing cloudy weather over much the greater portion of the country and light to moderately heavy rains from the central plains eastward and snow in the Rocky Mountain states, South Dakota and eastward over the lakes to Western New York. Olean, N. Y. reported 3.0 inches of snow on the ground.

High pressure over the lake region and northward to the Hudson Bay section, with the crest of the high north of the lakes. It is causing below-freezing weather over all of Canada and the Canadian Border states. Over the Ohio Valley states the temperatures are near the seasonal normal.

River Conditions.

Substantial rains occurred over the entire river system in this district, but as yet, no rises in the rivers are reported except slight rises on the Monongahela. Stage at Franklin is 6.3 feet; Lock No. 7, 14.3; Pittsburgh, 15.9; Dam No. 2, 7.6; Dam No. 6, 14.8; Dam No. 9, 19.3, and Dam No. 12, 14.5 feet. The Ohio River will rise slightly.

MUSIC

Mendelssohn Choir

CARNEGIE MUSIC HALL

The Mendelssohn Choir gave its closing concert in Carnegie Music Hall last night, presenting Cesar Franck's oratorio, "The Beatitudes." Ernest Lunt conducted.

If one takes the trouble to seep himself in Cesar Franck's music, one finds himself soon at sea as to the variation in its quality, though there are marks that seldom fail to identify any of his works almost at first hearing. The symphony never fails to impress. There are piano works with orchestra that are sadly neglected, for they are richly scored and attractive for a virtuoso. There are dreamy organ reveries, and songs sacred and secular, some as simple as folk song, others as sophisticated as ever came from a modern's pen. But never have I listened to a work so consistently dull as "The Beatitudes." There is little of beauty in the solo lines, and the choruses, though often imbued with a mystical sweetness, seldom express the hope written in the biblical promises.

What a difficult task for the choir! Frequently unsupported, it kept its intonation, and offered whatever spirit it could to atone for Franck's weary music. A quintet of solo voices did a nice turn in the second beatitude, and the choir was at its very best during the sustained and steady pianissimo during the last scene, when George McDonald, basso and member of the choir, awakened our interest with his sturdy solo.

Roland Partridge, the tenor soloist, was capable, but his music was indifferent. The baritone soloist, Theodore Webb, had a very commanding style and sang well. Earl Mitchell, organist, added another success to his career as accompanist for the difficult score.

J. FRED LISSFELT.

CHARLIE FARRELL HAS SWANS AND CHARLIE CHAPLIN MAY DO NAPOLEON

By DOROTHY HERZOG.

(Copyright, 1929, by Premier Syndicate.)

HOLLYWOOD, April 10.

FROM New York drifts this wow. Characters: Harry Hirshfield, famous cartoonist, and Harry Richenbach, ditto screen publicist. Harry meets Harry. Says H. H. to H. R.: "How's tricks?" Says H. H. to H. H.: "Great. Do you know how much I made last year?" Says H. H. to H. R.: "Half!"

WHADDAYA KNOW?

It pays to ask whaddaya know. Tom J. Geraghty, the W. K. writer, comes back with:

"Do you know that Wilson Mizner actually wrote 'Frankie and Johnny' when he was in Alaska?

"That a curator of a museum in London has written asking for one of Mary Pickford's curls?

Charles Farrell

"That the public is more anxious to hear their favorite screen stars and players in talkies than to hear and see the best of our theater stars?

"That Charlie Mack, of Moran and Mack, is the proprietor of the Mack Trunk (per copy) Company and he gave that as his occupation on an application to join the Lakeside Golf Club?

"That Charlie Farrell has bought two swans to swim in front of his house, which faces Toluca Lake?

"That Robert Fairbanks says they are smuggling Chinese across the Mexican border in whisky barrels?

"That Al Rockett revels in the musical end of talking pictures, as he was formerly a piano player in a picture theater in Missouri?

"That E. Mason Hopper (the director) was a 'chalk talk' artist and monologuist in vaudeville and billed as 'Lightning Hopper?'

Charlie Chaplin

"That Doug Fairbanks has been doing stunts 8,000 feet in the air by remote control—with Col. Lindbergh at the control?

"That Charlie Chaplin seriously contemplates a production, playing Napoleon—if he ever does a talkie?

"That years ago, when I worked on the New York Herald, I wrote vaudeville sketches and doctored plays under the name of Tom J. Dale?"

Viola Dana in Stage Drama

WHO'S WRONG!

From the A. M.'s mail:

"Dear Miss Herzog:

"I'm one of your best readers. That is I read your articles most () every day and admit I enjoy them. But I just can't bare the injustice of the one that referred to Corinne Griffith's dog, Pal, being a mother.

"I've known Pal for a long time, and if anything he should be a father, but never a mother. He's just not built that way. So why take publicity at the price of embarrassing a fine little fellow like Pal. No hard feelings, I hope. Truthfully—John Doe Fan."

And from Viola Dana, starring in Henry Duffy's presentation of Frank Craven's play, "Spite Coroner," in San Francisco, comes this breezy epistle:

"Dear Dot—Thank goodness I am able to send you notices of the play. Remember what I said—if they were bad you wouldn't hear from me! Well, they're good, so I guess I'm not the worst actress in the world, which is a surprise to me.

Viola Dana

"Wish you and the gang could have seen me at the dress rehearsal. I darn near fell over the footlights, after the movies and making most of the scenes on the space of a dime I didn't know what to do with all the room. Am beginning to make use of it now.

"Everything's going grand, but I miss the arguments over who's to pay the luncheon check, with me usually silent, but the goat all the same!—Vi."

Attagirl, Vi.

Estelle Taylor To Sell House

SCREENALITIES:

CHESTER MORRIS hit the eastern trail in time to attend last eve's premiere of "Alibi" in New York. Shortly after finishing this Roland West special, Morris was called to a studio and told he was wanted for such and such a role. The high light of the part called upon him to sock an actor bigger than him. "I'm not the man you want," Morris is said to have remarked. Whereupon he suggested the man he thought right! Same thing happened at a second studio. Rather novel, I calls it. DOROTHY MACKAIL has leased her Malibou Beach house to "Mike" Levey. Hear tell ESTELLE TAYLOR DEMPSEY returns shortly. Reason: To sell the Hollywood house. Jack has purchased a home in Long Island for eastern comfort. ADOLPHE MENJOU introducing his favorite Seligham puppy to the Famous Players lot. Said favorite is yclept Weenie, which doesn't fit his style preciousness at all—And—that's all—except for—Style Reels, by Howard Greer, fashion director:

Adolphe Menjou

Bessie Love has decided that the word "cute" is out for good and all. She now wears a grown-up afternoon frock of grey flat crepe which has a tight girdle. The ends meet under a square of shirring and fall below the hem of the skirt in a graceful drape. The bodice is covered by a triangular kerchief which also falls from a band of shirring posed on the left shoulder.

MORE CLOTHES :-: SOME MOVIE NEWCOMERS :-: COMEDIENNE

The trend is more clothes for chorus girls says Nancy Carroll, who portrays a lady of the ensemble in "Close Harmony," new all-talk film.

Natcha Golitzen, Russian princess and film newcomer, plays a vamp in "Innocents of Paris," featuring Maurice Chevalier, French star.

And here is Frank Ross, 24-year-old millionaire real estate man of New York, who is to try movie acting under Jesse L. Lasky.

FUN, THRILLS ON STAGE NEXT

"Rio Rita," Ziegfeld's musical comedy, is to be presented again in the Nixon, opening next Monday evening. Among the players in the cast are Ethelind Terry, J. Harold Murray, Bert Wheeler, Robert Woolsey, Vincent Serrano, Joyce White, Alf James, Eunice Holmes, Albertina Rasch Dancers and 100 Glorified Ziegfeld Beauties.

Florence Hedges, prima donna of "Hello Yourself," next week's Alvin attraction, was seen here last with the Four Marx Brothers. Seats for this musical show will be placed on sale tomorrow. Waring's Pennsylvanians are featured.

From his experience of two seasons here, George Sharp has learned that Pittsburgh theatergoers have a decided leaning toward mystery plays. Hence he announces for his third week in the Pitt "The Silent House," with Pauline MacLean as the only woman.

Barber License Bill Killed by Committee

HARRISBURG, April 10.—(AP.)—There will be no licensing of barbers in Pennsylvania during the next two years.

The Senate committee on public health and sanitation yesterday killed the bill of Speaker Hess requiring all barbers to take out a State license. The bill, which had the support of the Pennsylvania Federation of Labor, had passed the House of Representatives.

The committee also voted to definitely postpone the bill to limit the teaching of medicine in colleges of osteopathy to antidotes, antiseptics and narcotics.

Pay Reduced, Miners Cut Officers', Too

PEORIA, Ill., April 10.—(AP.)—The Biennial State Convention of the Illinois Miners' Union has reduced the salaries of Harry Fishwick, president; William J. Sneed, vice president; and Walter Nesbit, secretary-treasurer, in accordance with the reduced wages accepted by the miners in the Chicago contract negotiated last September.

I. T. T.-Radio Merger Put Up to Congress

WASHINGTON, April 10.—(AP.)—The proposed union of the Radio Corporation of American Communications, Inc., with the International Telephone and Telegraph Company, has been placed on the doorstep of Congress, where Senator Dill (D.), of Washington, already has given it a cool reception.

Administration officials let it be known yesterday that since such a union is prohibited under the last radio law, it is a matter for congressional and not executive action.

Accused of Attempt To Set Agents Afire

YOUNGSTOWN, O., April 10.—Dan Sirbu, 43, alleged bootlegger, is being held in jail on an assault charge, following an attack he is said to have made on two dry raiders who entered his home. The raiders charge that Sirbu tried to saturate their clothes with oil and then set them afire.

All Healing Is Done Through the Blood Stream

A patient does one of two things after a disease process has invaded his system. Either he recovers or else he succumbs to the disease. (Chronic Stage.)

There is no treatment that can have a healing effect until it reaches the blood. To strengthen the power of it—to make it nearly perfect as possible must be the basis of all treatment. No matter how radical may be the advocates of any particular science or mode of healing, there is the one great common premise which every system of treatment must acknowledge, and that basic element is THE BLOOD.

By administering BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS directly into the blood stream, their healing virtues are not lost. A great truth comes into view, and that is, intravenous therapy is fast becoming one of the prime autocrats of medicine. A method that is scientific while the results are more certain.

BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS affect not only one organ, but have a corrective influence on every part of the body. One serum frequently gives relief. Chronic and obstinate diseases often readily yield to the action of BLOOD CELL PROTEIN SERUMS.

We invite you to call for a free consultation, no matter what your ailment is. No doctor charges. Patients pay for the serums only. We are successfully treating Anemia, Asthma, Rheumatism, Kidney and Stomach trouble, High Blood Pressure, Neuritis, Varicose Veins. All Skin Diseases yield quickly. Laboratory Examination Free. Come and talk to the patients. Results are what you want.

Meditations of a Wife

By HELEN ROWLAND

Other Women's Husbands

A LITTLE matchmaker is a dangerous thing. Matchmakers are always trouble-makers.

You never can tell by appearance just what sort of mate would make any man or woman happy. Half the world simply can't understand how the other half endures it's "better half."

Why, for instance, do the most interesting and attractive people so often seem to draw such perfect blanks in the marriage lottery? Why do the peaches always seem to pick prunes in the garden of love?

Why do the most strikingly brilliant men so often choose either brainless little butterflies or little gray moths for wives?

Why do the most beautiful and intelligent women so often marry lightweights or playboys or colorless, drab little "annexes?"

I'll tell you why! Because that's what they WANT! And after all, the secret of a happy marriage doesn't consist in getting a perfect husband or an ideal wife, but in getting the one that is a perfect fit for your temperament and an ideal match for your tastes. Your OWN ideal!

If you are a high-strung, brilliant person, with a lot of temperament and luxurious tastes, perhaps a little gray moth who will play the role of "background" and won't get on your nerves is more soothing and satisfying than another brilliant "temperament" who might crab your game and demand half your limelight.

And perhaps, if you're the "prima donna" type, a bit of bric-a-brac, or a Prince Charming with nothing to do all day but hang around and tell you how wonderful you are is more inspiring than a good provider or a human dynamo.

Perhaps the mousy little women who are married to bullies and tyrants, and the placid women who are married to thunderstorms and grouches are only too delighted to have somebody to infuse a little excitement into their lives. Perhaps they would rather be brow-beaten than bored.

And doubtless the henpecked husbands and overworked wives enjoy being henpecked and overworked—or they wouldn't submit to it.

Lots of people would be perfectly satisfied with what they have married, if the rest of the world only LET them!

If several women could exchange husbands for a day, no doubt they would all be around before sundown, trying to get back their nice, comfortable "old shoes," again.

After all, a husband or a wife is a personal matter, and the only thing important about a lifetime mate is that he or she happens to be the one you WANT!

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Wear Wedding Ring

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

I have been a widow for two months. I am still wearing my wedding ring and an engagement ring. I have been told by several people that it is incorrect for me to wear the wedding ring. Kindly let me know whether this is incorrect, or a matter of personal taste. LONESOME.

IT is customary for a widow to wear her engagement ring and wedding ring. She stops wearing them only if she decides to marry again. The woman who loved her husband and loves his memory considers herself still married to him, of course, the spiritual marriage that is so sacredly symbolized by the precious band of gold or platinum.

He Writes First

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a boy and a girl wish to correspond with each other whose place is it to write first?

J. R.

THE gallant beau who wishes to write to his "ladye faire" 'asks her for her permission to write to her, and then, of course, writes first.

To Both

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When one receives an invitation from two persons for a luncheon, is it correct to respond to one or to both? M. B.

YOUR acknowledgment, in its wording, responds to both but the envelope is usually addressed only to one, the one suggested on the invitation.

Important Call

DEAR MRS. BEECKMAN:

When a young man and girl become engaged, how soon after the announcement of the engagement should arrangements be made for the young man's and girl's parents to meet, and whose parents extend the first invitation?

THANK YOU.

IT is one of the firmest rules of etiquette that, when a man tells his parents that he is engaged, they go to call on the young lady within the following 24 hours. You see, this visit of welcoming-into-the-family is such an important one that it should be made at once. If the father of the fiance cannot make this call, the mother should make it for both.

Her Heart in the Ring -:- -:- By Paul Aslan

"AGAGE, my lady!" And the modern knight pleads that he may have a pledge of her love to carry with him on his quest for happiness. He, in return, holds up the ring, which is the outward symbol of the love which he bears her, and she throws her heart through the ring that he may have the gage which he seeks.

And what an inspiration it will be to him! The thought of the love which is his and the dear heart which has been trusted to his safekeeping will guide him into the righ paths that he may lay at her feet all the things which he desires for her. All the things which they have planned for their future will he seek, or at least the means of acquiring them. He'll get them, too, for when she threw her heart in the ring he knew that it was no idle gesture. He knew that she meant it, and it inspires him to his highest achievements, that the love-gage may mean a symbol of their troth and the journey's end in their search for perfect happiness!

Mary Corroborates Lillian's Surmise of Katie's Sleuthing

"KATIE!" Katherine and I exclaimed as if with one voice at Lillian's gibing reference to our little maid, and Mrs. Underwood smiled.

"Yes, Katie," she said. "Think a minute! She didn't ask to have luncheon early so she could make that trip to Quogue until after Mary's telephone to young Jackson."

"No," I said excitedly, "she didn't, and she was so queerly excited—and evasive—when she talked to me."

"Exactly," Lillian said. "Depend upon it, she has some crazy idea that it's up to her to find out what Mary's doing—but that incident of the dropped check book which she had to know about was enough to set her imagination working overtime. And I sure would have liked to see Katie as a sleuth—only my laugh muscles would be sore for a week afterward. But it's possible she may have gotten hold of something. Better lend a gracious ear to her confidence, Madge, if she tries to give you any."

"I'm afraid I'm too late," I said contritely. "I was so annoyed at her impudence concerning Mother Graham that I've avoided her markedly ever since she came back. You know how touchy she is."

"Nobody knows better," Lillian assented, "and she probably will be sulky for a while. But you'd better give it a try anyway. Here come the wanderers now! Isn't Mary the prettiest thing?"

Mary justified her comment as she came up the path from the front gate with young Mr. Jackson—as Prince Georges was still known to everyone outside the few of us in his secret—bending attentively toward her.

"Behold the ideal hero!" Mary said as they came on to the veranda. "He's trailed me into every embroidery shop in the Hamptons, East, Bridge and South, until I finally found the shade I wanted."

"And never once lost his patience?" Lillian inquired incredulously.

"Never once. Even pretended to enjoy it," Mary rejoined, wrinkling her nose at her royal admirer.

"Then he indeed deserves a laurel wreath," Lillian said solemnly, while Prince Georges turned a protesting face toward Mary.

"Oh, I say," he exclaimed. "I wasn't pretending at all. I really enjoyed watching you—you bargain so prettily. And then, too, I was terribly amused—where was it Miss Mary, which Hampton—East, South, North, West?—I never can tell them apart."

"South," Mary said quickly, with more emphasis, I thought, than his idle question demanded. "There is no Northampton around here. I suppose you mean that old freak we saw on the street."

"Yes, the one who came out of the postoffice after you did."

I stiffened slightly at the words postoffice and shot a furtive glance at Mary from underneath my eyelashes. Was my imagination as feverish at Katie's, or was there a look of annoyance in her eyes. But her response was ready and nonchalant.

"Oh, yes, I saw her first when I went in there to mail that letter I'd kept forgetting for days," she explained. "She was fussing around at the desk where they make out money orders, though how she could see anything through that thick mourning veil, I can't imagine. I never saw such heavy crepe in my life."

I caught my breath in sudden remembrance of the heavy crepe veil which had tumbled out of Katie's suitcase.

Tomorrow's Horoscope

Thursday, April 11

THE general complexion of this day's astral influences may be considered propitious, being under the benign and prospering sway of Jupiter. This is assisted by other fair configurations, denoting lively conditions and possibly some sudden change. However, there is some menace of small anxieties or delays and also a hint of the sinister by way of ill-report and rash judgments which may force issues disagreeably. Discretion is admonished.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for a lively and eventful year, with affairs generally prospering. There is likelihood of sudden change. Also trivial delays and setbacks. Be careful as to rash judgments and sinister reports.

A child born on this day may be clever, talented and ambitious and may be expected to rise to good position in life. It should be given early discipline in controlling tongue and temper.

Castoria is a comfort when Baby is fretful. No sooner taken than the little one is at ease. If restless, a few drops soon bring contentment. No harm done, for Castoria is a baby remedy, meant for babies. Perfectly safe to give the youngest infant; you have the doctors' word for that! It is a vegetable product and you could use it every day. But it's in an emergency that Castoria means most. Some night when constipation must be relieved—or colic pains—or other suffering. Never be without it; some mothers keep an extra bottle, unopened, to make sure there will always be Castoria in the house. It is effective for older children, too; read the book that comes with it.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Slouchy Figure May Upset Entire System

ONE of the common pieces of advice I give you is this: Get plenty of rest, sleep, good food, fresh air, sunlight and exercise.

You can see the reason for each of these factors of good health. But let me ask you a question: Why should you exercise.

That may seem like a senseless question, but is it? Really, why should a person, who desires to be strong and healthy, take systematic physical exercise?

The other day I heard a masseuse say to her patient, "Your arms are soft and flabby. You should take exercise to develop them."

To one who has no work to do with the arms, no lifting, no boxing to do, to have flabby arm muscles is of small consequence. If all the other muscles are hard and strong, the state of the arm muscles would make little difference.

But here is the trouble: Unless you exercise every day, keeping the blood in circulation, keeping the figure upright and trim, there will be trouble after a while. It won't be long before the abdominal walls relax, permitting the internal organs to sag from their proper places.

Nature intended man to have his body muscles tight and firm, so to keep the abdominal organs in place. It was intended to have the back muscles in prime condition, in order that the backbone would be held in the upright position.

It was planned to have the head held in such position as to take pressure off the big blood vessels and nerves of the neck. If you permit your figure to slouch, the chin falls on the chest and there is sure to be interference with the important "triangles" of the neck.

The abdominal wall is thin in spots. Unless the muscles overlying these places are firm and strong, there may be a break. Weakness of the muscles, or undue use of the muscles here, may cause a break which results in what we call "hernia," or in the common speech, "rupture."

Unless there is regular exercise, the muscles of the diaphragm, which has an important part in breathing, may grow weak. Then there may be shallow breathing and ill health in consequence.

These abdominal muscles and the powerful disaphragm have an important part in helping to circulate the blood and fluids of the body. They help the intestines to perform their function.

Unless there is such general exercise as to keep all the muscles in first-class condition, those that supply the walls of the intestines themselves won't be able to do their work. You can see how necessary this action is.

The bones of the pelvis are held in place, as indeed are all the joints, by certain ligaments. Unless the muscles are strong, the ligaments are not helped to do their work. In the case of the pelvis this condition may result in certain neuralgic pains.

In the big blood vessels, especially in the veins, are muscles which must be in normal state, if they are to help the circulation. The heart is almost all muscular tissue.

Without systematic exercise the muscles cannot be kept in condition to do their work. Don't fail to do your part to keep them strong. Incidentally you keep your figure and good looks.

QUIET, automatic, made entirely of steel... this General Electric is indeed the "refrigerator of the future"!

The engineers and scientists of the Research Laboratories, having solved the most important problem of electric refrigeration—that of the mechanism—next turned their attention to the designing and building of this infinitely superior, warp-proof refrigerator cabinet.

It is a small-family model, built entirely of steel—as strong as a safe. It cannot warp. All its joints are electrically welded . . . as strong as the steel itself.

The cabinet is finished in a special coating that has all the beauty and sheen of porcelain, but will not crack, chip or check. It has a new type of insulation material, used in exactly the correct amount to maintain correct temperature, well below the 50 degree danger point.

Like all General Electric Refrigerators it has an easily accessible temperature control whereby the user may accelerate the freezing rate of ice cubes when desirable.

DRY LAW SEEN AS CREATING DRINKERS

James F. Boyan, acting mayor of Albany, N. Y., when asked by the editors of the Hearst $25,000 temperance prize contest for his opinion on Volsteadism, declared against the present prohibition laws.

His views, with which are coupled those of other office-holders in the Capitol district of New York state, follow:

By JAMES F. BOYAN

Prohibition is a failure and Mr. Hearst's $25,000 temperance prize contest which seeks a satisfactory solution is a worthy project. Enforcement is at a low ebb for, while the law has acted in a prohibitory manner for some, it has created a new type of drinker.

It is only necessary to look up the record of arrests and convictions for drunkenness in every city in the country to learn that they are greater in proportion now than they were before the prohibition law went into effect. This applies not only to Albany but to every other city with which I am familiar.

Prohibition has taught people how to make their own liquor. You are invited to a friend's home for the evening. He offers you a concoction which he thinks is better than the "old stuff." When he visits your home, you try to give him a still better home-brewed drink.

Prohibitionists decry the story that there is much drinking by the young people at dances. I have been in so-called prohibition territory and have learned that the same situation exists there except that it is a new phase. The men and women did not drink much before the prohibition law. The early campaign of education and the local option were gradually making them temperate. The same is true elsewhere. The number of saloons and drinking places were gradually being cut down. The better class saloon would not serve a drunken man.

Now when a party of merrymakers is seated in a speakeasy they drink more than their fill. They have a feeling that they might just as well get all the liquor they can while they can get it.

I hope that the Hearst papers through the temperance contest find a solution to the greatest problem in the United States today. Prohibition is rapidly making people lose respect for all laws.

Leo M. Doody

Leo M. Doody, commissioner, Department of Charities, Albany, N. Y.:

"Following the recent Walsh murder in Albany the Times-Union reported a talk with the 11-year-old son of one of the victims. The lad told the reporter that he had lived on a half loaf of bread for a day or two, and casually added that things would not have been so bad if the 'home brew' were ready to drink. He said he liked the 'sting' of it.

"There was an 11-year-old boy an acknowledged expert in the brewing of beer. How many other experts of tender age are there today in beer-brewing, wine-making and alcohol-distilling under the present prohibition laws?

"Does this argue that in a generation or two the desire for alcohol will disappear from the people of America? I know from experience that prohibition has been a great blessing to some families; but I know, too, that it has been and is a terrible curse to many more.

"Personally I believe that the most harm done by prohibition has been the breaking down of the people's faith in the federal government."

Frank V. Hogan

Frank V. Hogan, deputy city clerk, Albany, N. Y.:

"What do I think of prohibition? There wouldn't be time for me to tell you and you wouldn't have space to print what I think of prohibition.

"Prohibition has always struck me as the greatest blunder this country has ever made.

"It happened suddenly, but it had developed gradually. Through a long line of events the dry infection got into our national system and if amending the Constitution and passing the enforcement laws was the only means of arresting the infection, the end might justify it.

"Of course, inoculation in the form of general temperance before the general spread of the infection would have seemed to me the better practice. You wouldn't have all the inhabitants of a town contract smallpox in order to have them immune thereafter to the disease, would you?

"I think that prohibition will pass, eventually, and we can only hope that the country will have benefited with the prohibition experiment, and for centuries to come will be proof against all similar proposals."

7 Rules for $25,000 Temperance Contest

The purpose of the contest is to obtain a practicable plan, as a substitute for prohibition, which will secure better actual temperance conditions, which will be more easily possible of enforcement by state and federal authorities, which will offer less encouragement to crime and tend less to debauch the public service, and which will not so outrage and violate the fundamental rights and personal liberties of American citizens.

The rules and conditions of the contest are simple and are as follows:

1—Every person is entitled to enter the contest, but no one person may submit more than one plan.

2—The practicable plan proposed as a substitute for prohibition must be set forth in an article containing not more than 1,000 words.

3—This contest will close April 30, 1929, and no plan which has not been mailed and postmarked on or before that date will be considered.

4—The articles submitted in the contest will be judged by a committee of eminent Americans, the personnel of the committee to be announced at a later date.

5—The full prize of $25,000 will be awarded to the contestant submitting the best plan as a practical temperance substitute for prohibition.

6—If other plans not awarded the first prize shall still be considered worthy of some compensation by the committee, a second prize of $5,000 and other prizes of $1,000 each may be awarded.

7—Articles submitting a plan to be considered in this contest may be sent to the temperance contest committee, care of the editor of any one of the following Hearst newspapers: Albany Times-Union, Atlanta Georgian, Baltimore News, Boston Evening American, Chicago Herald and Examiner, Detroit Times, Los Angeles Examiner, New York American, Omaha Bee-News, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, Rochester Journal, San Antonio Light, San Francisco Examiner, Syracuse Journal, Seattle Post-Intelligencer, Washington Herald, Wisconsin News (Milwaukee).

ALLIES OPPOSE DEBT SLASH

PARIS, April 10.—(AP.) — The chief question now occupying the reparations experts' committee is which of the reparations creditors of Germany are going to make sacrifices in an effort to meet the offer of representatives of the Reich.

The small creditors say it is impossible for them to scale down their reparations while the British are equally reluctant to abandon their share of reparations under the Spa percentages worked out after the war.

Everybody seems to turn toward France as the largest creditor with the biggest margin on which to work. The French, however, point out that they already have made a sacrifice many times greater than any other creditor nations. They have scaled down their claims for reconstruction and pensions from $6,000,000,000 to $3,000,000,000 and now are sitting tight waiting for moves elsewhere.

The committee, which thus far has held itself aloof from political considerations, may finally be obliged to take into account the political state in France if not in some of the other countries.

Erie "Globe Girdlers" Fed and Sent Home

Two 15-year-old Erie boys, Donald Jennings and William Considine, were home today, their intended tour of the world cancelled by hunger. The tour ended in Carnegie yesterday when Patrolman Chris Schade found them wandering in East Main street, almost famished. Police fed them and later their parents sent the price of a ticket home.

PATRICIA PITT'S SPRIGHTLY COMMENT ON PITTSBURGH'S SOCIETY HAPPENINGS

Pre-Nuptial Entertainment For Brides-Elect of Spring Planned

WEDDINGS and rumors of weddings are in the air these spring days. There are all sorts of entertainments, too, to be given for the brides of the most temperamental month of spring. Among them will be showers, not April showers of rain like slender silver spears, but showers of gifts for new homes.

Particularly distinctive among April pre-nuptial entertainments will be those given for Mary Louise Johnson, daugher of Mrs. William Terrell Johnson, whose marriage to Raymond Ford Moreland, son of the W. C. Morelands, of Coraopolis Heights, will take place April 29.

Honoring Mary Louise Johnson, one of the most popular members of the younger set, will be a dinner which Mrs. George Pomeroy Bassett will give this evening in her home.

MR. AND MRS. G. WEBBER BARNES and their daughter, Priscilla, will leave next week for Boston to attend the wedding of Priscilla Rhodes, daughter of Mrs. Fred F. Rhodes, of Boston, and Robert Coburn, of Boston, which will take place April 27 in Boston in the new Old South Church. Priscilla, who is a cousin of the Boston bride-to-be, will be one of the bridesmaids.

The Barnes family returned yesterday from Honolulu, where they spent the winter.

OF interest to Pittsburgh folks is the announcement made by the George S. Munroes, of New York and Elizabethtown, N. Y., of the engagement of their daughter, Faustina Munroe, to Samuel Noyes Kirkland, of Philadelphia, formerly of Pittsburgh, son of the Edwin Wells Kirklands, of San Antonio, Tex. The announcement was made at a tea the Munroes gave in their New York home on Park avenue Monday.

Mr. Kirkland was graduated from Columbia University in 1920, and during the World War he was in the Air Service. Among his clubs are the Duquesne Club of Pittsburgh, the University Club, of New York, and the Racquet, Merion Cricket, and University Clubs of Philadelphia.

The wedding will take place in October, I've learned.

A FAMOUS child specialist said recently, "If milk cost a dollar a glass, more people would appreciate its value. Simply because it is so inexpensive, so easy to get—many adults are inclined to disregard its priceless, health-giving properties."

A quart of Liberty Milk costing 15 cents, contains four glasses of smooth, creamy, flavorful milk.

And every ounce of Liberty Milk is digested and utilized by your body almost as soon as you have swallowed it: the protein for tissue-building; the lime for forming strong teeth and sturdy bones; the Vitamins for insuring normal growth.

If you are not getting an average of at least a pint of Liberty Milk for every adult in your family—a quart for every youngster—leave a note in your bottle tonight, or phone the nearest Liberty Dairy.

ORIE LEADS IN PRISONERS SENTENCED TO WORKHOUSE

John W. Orie, who was removed as magistrate at Central police court, can boast the honor of having sent more prisoners to the Allegheny County Workhouse last year than any other city magistrate.

The workhouse report shows that Orie, who himself is appealing from a six-month jail sentence for failure to file an income tax return, sentenced 898 prisoners, topping the performance of Magistrate A. D. Brandon, of Morals Court, who sent up 784.

RECORDS BROKEN

Altogether, the workhouse entertained 4,858 guests, the biggest group it has received in its 59 years. Of the 4,493 men, one was an actor, one a physician and one a chiropractor, and 365 were women.

More prisoners were sentenced on suspicious person charges than for any other, 1,573 having been committed under this heading, while only 369 were convicted of drunkenness. Violation of the Snyder act contributed only six persons, but vagrancy brought a total of 406 to the institution.

196 UNDER 20

Of the 4,858 received at the workhouse there were seven, according to the report, who had been committed 50 or more times before. There were 2,746 "first timers." All nationalities were represented and they came all ages. The report shows that only 196 were under 20, while 1,725 were from 20 to 30; 1,457 from 30 to 40; 950 from 40 to 50; 410 from 50 to 60, and 80 were 60 or over.

As to education, 278 out of the 4,858 could neither read nor write. Of these, 116 were natives of this country.

A new hospital, built at a cost of $40,780, was added to the workhouse last year, according to the report. A new wall was erected to include the hospital, and this cost $21,284, in addition to $16,083 already spent on a garage under construction. The cost of equipping the hospital, the report reveals, was only $5,934.

SEPARATE DRUG ENFORCEMENT UNIT FAVORED

WASHINGTON, April 10.—The proposal to reorganize and consolidate federal narcotic enforcement under an independent bureau received strong indorsement in official Washington yesterday.

Capitol leaders described the present method of divided authority as archaic and ineffectual.

At the White House it was declared that President Hoover's law enforcement commission would investigate the plan thoroughly with a view to strengthening enforcement of the drug laws.

Members of the Senate and House were particularly hostile to the present procedure whereby the government fixes the amount of raw products which may be imported annually to be manufactured into drugs for medical and scientific purposes. This authority is lodged in a control board composed of the secretaries of state, treasury and commerce.

IMPORTS INCREASED

The board started to function in 1923. Its sole purpose was to restrict the importation of opium to the minimum medical needs of the country.

Although outstanding physicians have declared that the use of drugs is being discouraged, the board generally has increased the legal opium imports each year. For instance, the imports in 1924 totaled approximately 39 tons. In 1928, the total almost doubled, reached 70 tons. This is a potential output of roughly seven tons of morphine.

Likewise, the per capita consumption of opium has soared, from 5.57 grains in 1924 to 9.67 in 1928. The latter figure is three grains more than the maximum set by the League of Nations for the medicinal purposes of any country.

In determining the import allotments the board is supposed to ascertain the exact medical needs of America for drugs. However, no comprehensive survey of the requirements of physicians and hospitals has been made recently by the board. Instead, the determination is reached largely, according to the board, upon the basis of manufacturers' sales for the previous year.

MACHINERY LACKING

At the last meeting of the board a representative of drug manufacturers was present. No representatives of physicians or hospitals were called in to ascertain whether the legitimate drug supply could be curtailed drastically.

At the behest of the United States, the powers met at The Hague in 1912 and adopted a convention to limit opium to medicinal purposes. The control board is charged with fulfilling America's pledge through restriction of imports.

Many members of Congress feel that the spirit at least of The Hague convention is being violated by the United States because no adequate machinery is provided to determine precisely what the legitimate needs of the country are. Under the proposed reorganization plan a scientific staff would be appointed to ascertain the medical requirements.

The BROADWAY MELODY by Jack LAIT

Eddie Expresses His Love For Queenie as Hank Enters the Room

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE

Eddie Kerns, song plugger, has written the music for "The Broadway Melody," a big revue to be produced by the famous Zanfield. For two years Eddie has been engaged to "Hank" Mahoney and now he sees his way clear to marry her. She and her younger sister, Queene, are playing in vaudeville and Eddie summons them to New York and tells them he has managed to place them in the revue. They are overjoyed, but Eddie suddenly discovers that he's lost his heart to Queenie who has developed into a startling beauty in the two years since he saw her last. He keeps his secret from "Hank" and the girls turn down a long vaudeville contract for a chance to make good in the revue. Zannie, after seeing the "Mahoney Sisters" perform, decides that he could only use Queenie. She, however, appeals to him to also give her sister a chance in the show. He consents. "Hank" believes that she put it over. During a dress rehearsal Eddie shows the sisters the big ad in the newspaper announcing their coming to Broadway. When Hank kisses Eddie, Queenie cries. Zannie gives Queenie a place in the revue. She makes an impression and the two "angels" of the revue invite her out to dine after the show. Dore, one of the show girls, tells Queenie to watch her step with Worthington. Eddie questions Queenie about "Warry" and tells her to keep away from him. Ignoring Eddie's protest she goes out with Warriner. When "Hank" arrives home with Eddie she discovers Queenie in. The two "angels" are disappointed when Queenie wouldn't play their game. However, "Warry" sends the other half of the $1,000 bill to Queenie. Just as she is talking to him over the telephone, "Hank" returns and finds the torn $1,000 bill. She is worried about Queenie, who hides her sudden riches. "Warry" makes another attempt to get Queenie to go out with him.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY.

CHAPTER XV.

THE slam of the bedroom door as Queenie banged it shut between her and Eddie reverberated through the little sitting room.

There was a deadline that Eddie, with all his Times Square information, didn't dare cross.

He flopped into the armchair and tried to think it out—

Why was Queenie growing more and more petulant toward him every time they met? He had never confessed or expressed his "crush," but she must know. And she wasn't indifferent to him, either, he knew.

It was a treacherous, shameful emotion, his loving Queenie, and if she loved him it was even worse. But—what were conscience, good faith—hair-split sentimentalities all well enough to write snappy songs about—when bucking this maddening tugging at his vitals, which was actual, irresistible?

He had reconciled himself to what Hank might think and feel. It was too bad. She had been jammed, as had many before her. If Queenie grew up to be so infatuating, could he help it? Nature was nature. That fight he had already fought out with himself and had given himself the decision. That was when he felt his blood sizzle with the hunch that Queenie had been hit as hard as he had, and in the same spot.

But, now—the specter of Warriner had stalked in between them. He, who had been prepared to make for her the great sacrifice of all, including honor, was suddenly motioned back by this unexpected and unwelcome intruder who had nothing to even be sorry and hesitant over. What right had this rich, fine-looking stranger from an alien and hostile field, to come between showfolks, the gypsy troubadours who clung together because no other tribe opened its gates to them?

Suppose, he, Eddie Kerns, had projected himself between Frances Warriner and some swanky social register bud? Where would he have landed? On his head—and where he properly belonged, too.

So, could this millionaire get away with larceny off his own territory? With all his offensive sources and defensive resources, was he going to beat the barrier?

Eddie scowled . . . but soon he smiled . . . he, too, had weapons, tried and trusty ones. He glided over toward the piano, ran his left hand up and down a few scales, then struck the chord, and started into his newest "number"—"Two lips"—

You're like a rose, dear, and everyone knows, dear,
That roses are sweet to behold—
Your eyes are blue like the violet's hue,
Your hair like the buttercup's gold—
Your cheeks are pink as carnations, I think,
Your mouth is a pouting peony—
So I beg—and beg your pardon—
But the two-lips in your garden—
Raise them just for me—

It was no better or no worse than most of the lovelyrics written by the Eddies. For the multitude, unable to express a passion or a sorrow or a longing or a remorse or a tenderness, no matter how wildly stirred by the urges of elemental motivations they were as eloquent, as sufficient as are the bromidic stock phrases precomposed by the telegraph companies for the millions so that they may order by number their greetings and their felicitations.

Queenie, who had been standing before the mirror in the bedroom, fighting to repress her tears, stood rigid at the first note. As Eddie's clear voice gave forth the claptrap, shrewdly emphasized and shaded with undulations of touch and fluctuations of pedaling, her bosom palpitated. It was he—the man she loved—serenading her like a cavalier of yore; it was he, weeping to her in his own voice and in their own language; it was he, calling to her through the wilderness of the tangled triangle into which they had both been thrust with no way out in sight—

She ventured an unsteady hand on the knob and turned it cautiously. She peeked out. His back was to her, he was playing in a minor key a reprise to the "catch-line," he chanted it crooningly:

So I beg—and beg your pardon,
But the two-lips in your garden—
Raise them just for me.

His hands lingered where they ran their postscript trill, then they slid limply off the keyboard. His head sagged downward and frontward. His arms dangled at his sides. The taut wires were still vibrating, unseen. Then, all was silent . . . she stood there, at the door, driven by one headlong temptation, held back by a hundred long-headed scruples.

A sigh, involuntarily, penetrated deep and then escaped. Eddie did not jump at the sound. He turned slowly on the swivel of the piano stool. Queenie stood, quaking. He raised his head slowly. He was facing her. His eyes found hers. He said nothing. But he raised his arms as though they were weary. He brought them up and spread them open.

"Queenie," he gasped.

She staggered a step toward him. He was so pahetic, so broken.

He rose unsteadily to his feet as though his legs, too, were tottering. She stopped just out of his reach.

"Queenie," he breathed, "Why do you do me that way?"

"Why—Eddie—I—I didn't do nothin', Eddie."

"You know what I mean, Queenie. I don't know how you feel towards me, but you know how I am about you."

"Eddie! We—you mustn't. Think o' Hank."

He collapsed slowly again to his stool.

"Think? That's a fine laugh, that is. Think! I've thought till my head spins an' my heart hurts. I've thought o' Hank—an' I've thought of you—till I've thought I'd go nuts . . . oh, Queenie!"

She felt herself impelled toward him. And only with an effort did she hold tight.

"But—Eddie—it isn't square. There's only one way out for us—for all of us—only the one way out for all of us—"

"Who d'you mean all of us?" he asked bitterly.

"You—an' Hank—an' me."

"Oh—ain't Warriner in it then? Ain't he one of us?"

Queenie's heart changed its ryhthm. Her lips hardened a little, her hands closed slowly.

"So you're bringin' him up to me again?" she demanded. "You're tossin' him in my face again, are you?"

"He's tossin' himself in my face himself," retorted Eddie. "At least he's got the decency to work in the wide open—anyway some of his work—but you; Hank catches you on the phone las' night an' you ring off; t'day you sneak out an' call him from a booth; you got a letter here las' night an' nobody's seen it—no, you're tossin' him in my face, you're tossin' me—behind my back——"

"Look here, Mr. Eddie Kerns. There's nothin' to toss between me an' you excep' one person— an' that's Hank—an' that's one I ain't gona toss, no matter how much you might want to . . . she's my sister an' your intended."

"I know — I know — but don' get away from that Warriner business . . . what's he to you? You tell me, or I'll——"

He had taken several steps toward her. His hands were out and his arms open, but not in the feeble manner which had appealed to Queenie's sympathy. He was bristling——

"You'll what?"

She tossed her pert head and stood firm, her hands on her hips.

"I'll"—one step nearer. "I'll—"

He threw forward his hands. With a lurch his arms were on both sides of Queenie's form. They closed and he crushed her slender, lithe young body to him.

"I'll take you away from him. I'll drag you away from him. I'll—"

He was forcing her face upward as she struggled, and his was coming down. His lips were within an inch of hers. Queenie, the trained dancer, the young animal, with one twisting jerk, broke his hold.

"So that's the way you want me to raise the two-lips in my garden for you?" she panted, with more of a sneer than a snarl.

It was a cue.

He turned, shambled to the piano, again the broken lover. His hands plumped to the keys. They struck a blue discord. Then they found their destination. His voice, the first few notes blurred and burred, cleared to the normal tones of his melodious voice—he sang—

Queenie stood, coming out of her mood, softening, listening, drinking in. He came to his direct plea:

So I beg—I beg your pardon—
But the two-lips in your garden,
Raise—them—just—for—ME-EE-EE!

She leaned forward, her head down.

He turned very slowly.

He stood up and approached her.

"Just for me," he whispered. "Raise them."

Her face, under its buttercup hair, with its rose-like cheeks, its violet-blue eyes—as Eddie had painted them in his song—came up. Its pouting peony mouth, the two-lips of her garden, were raised—to a pucker—

"—just for you," came through them.

With a cry he flung his arms about her, his lips sought hers—

The rasping sound of a key in the door was heard.

Eddie dropped his hold, stumbled backward—

Queenie, quivering like a boat in a storm and with knees giving, tried to snatch hurriedly at her disheveled hair.

Hank strode in. She blinked, looked from one to the other, then laid down her parcels.

"What's the matter?" she asked.

Neither answered.

"What's the matter?" she repeated. "You two battlin' again?"

Queenie turned, walked into the bedroom and slammed the door.

Spanish Eyes

By ANN HARDY

ANDREW WADE accepted Mr. Archie Pollard's invitation with a great deal of personal satisfaction and the most profuse thanks.

"Wade has been toadying to the old man until he's at last been asked to dine," he heard one of his fellow workers comment, as, re-entering the auditing department after leaving the president's office, he took his seat at the desk near the east window, the seat he had now occupied for four years. "One wouldn't suppose, to look at him, he was such a miserable bootlicker," the clerk continued, unaware of the fact that his voice carried across the long room.

The tone was scathing in the extreme, yet Andrew, bending over his ledgers as though oblivious to everything about him in pursuing calculations, smiled in a grim way. He cared little what the boys thought so long as he had achieved his end. For four years he had worked under the old man, and during that time he had striven constantly to ingratiate himself into his employer's good graces. He had toadied, he had fawned, he had played the sycophant to the man who had been the prime factor in his father's financial ruin. For he had kept daily before him his boy's oath that some day old scores would be evened, his father's enemy would be his enemy, and would be struck down by him.

Andrew had no definite plan of procedure. He would wait for his chance; some confidential tip concerning the rich man's investments, some secret plan divulged to the ears of a flatterer, for he knew the old man liked and trusted him.

Clad in correct dinner clothes, he made his way by cab in the West End district where Pollard had built a pretentious home. He dismissed the cab before the spacious Gothic doorway, flanked by wrought iron lanterns of antique design. A uniformed butler answered his knock, led him through the wide hall which was hung with mirrors and Persian rugs in intricate blend of soft color and rich harmony, down two steps into a flagged inner court that opened to the sky and was hedged in by a rose garden. A fountain stood in the center of the court, orange black wicker chairs and tables were scattered about it, with peacock-cushions making an added splash of color against the white of the marble fountain and the black and white flagstones.

"Mr. and Miss Pollard will be in directly, sir," said the man respectfully, and retired, leaving Andrew to his own devices, to the contemplation of the scene of Pollard's domestic life. He sat in one of the comfortable chairs and looked around with eyes of appreciation. This was what he had been cut off from, denied. His people had been as wealthy as the Pollards.

Andrew scowled darkly, covetous rage possessing his heart. He remembered that he would have to be friendly, respectful . . . appear to look up to Pollard, hang on his words, flatter him. It would be hard . . . he hated duplicity.

"I trust you've not come here with murderous intent," a voice startled him from his musings. "I don't believe I ever saw anyone look so savage, Mr. Wade!"

The girl standing before him had laughing dark eyes; that was the first thing he noted. They were large, fringed by curling lashes, and by all that poets have said and sung they should have been tragic. But they were the merriest eyes in the world. "I'm Joan Pollard," she said.

Andrew sprang to his feet, weakly clasping the friendly hand she extended, stammered a response to this greeting as he felt his ears tingle with embarrassment. Then, when he found himself able to tear his gaze away from those laughing eyes, he noted that she was very pretty, though of a delicate, willowy build, and that she wore a riding habit with the conventional round, black hat pulled over her curls.

"Now you must excuse me," Joan Pollard begged, "while I make a lightning change. Father is furious when I keep a meal waiting."

Five minutes after she had disappeared old Pollard called him from the library that opened off the court by another door. Andrew went in, thinking resentfully that had he been of equal financial standing his host would have hastened out to greet him. He was to be casually treated, even though a guest!

During the long and formal dinner Archibald Pollard was condescendingly and maddenly magnanimous; but his daughter Joan was a charming foil. She was sweetly gracious, she was witty, and in some inexplicable way she managed to make Andrew feel like a person of importance. He found to his embarrassment, however, that he had the same strong impulse to stare at her big, dark eyes which should have been serious and romantic; it was almost an affront to see them filled with gay, scintillating lights of laughter. Her mass of golden hair, piled high above her winsome features contrasted so strangely with the eyes. A marvelous color, thought Andrew, but—

"Yes," Joan Pollard interrupted his thought in a teasing tone, "it's real, not tinted up. They're priceless inheritances from my Spanish mother, my eyes and hair!"

He was surprised at the irritation in Pollard's tone when the man observed that in his opinion they were very poor inheritances. For a fleeting instance Joan Pollard looked soberly at her father, then shrugged her shapely shoulders and smiled. Andrew fell to wondering if they were really happy, this rich man and his child.

A week later he was late to the office, and dashed in just in time to keep a 9:30 appointment with the boss, who had planned to discuss a report with him.

"The boss won't be down this morning," one of the boys told him gravely. "His daughter had a bad fall from her horse. I don't believe they expect her to live."

Not expected to live! The words struck him like a blow. For two hours he tried vainly to work. A fair face laughed at him from the pages of his ledgers, a face with gray dark eyes and a valiant smile. He suddenly realized that old man Pollard had robbed his father in a fair business deal of very little compared with that of which Fate was now robbing him. Money! It shrank into insignificance before the thought of death closing a pair of laughing eyes.

He flung down his pen and reached for his hat, hanging on a peg by the desk. Ten minutes later he was again in a hired taxi, being driven to old man Pollard's pretentious home. This time he wasn't thinking of Pollard's possessions, however, wasn't anticipating his downfall, he was only trying to hope that the doctors might after all be mistaken, that Joan Pollard might not die.

Her father met him in the hallway, heartily grasping his hand. "I hoped you'd come," he said in a humbly grateful tone. "And yet, I wonder why you wish to be our friend? I learned several days ago who your father was—and you must have blamed me, my boy, for—"

"That doesn't matter now, sir," Andrew exclaimed impatiently. "The wretched past is done. Tell me, how is she? The fellows at the office said. . ."

"The doctor's coming downstairs directly from her room," the father told him. "This morning, at his first visit he held out little hope. In falling she struck her head on a stone, and the blow has blinded her. He said it might be permanent. She may lose those glorious eyes, her boasting heritage from her Spanish mother. I've always scoffed at it . . . you see, Andrew, I've never valued anything but—"

The doctor entered the library abruptly and said in a cheerful voice: "Mr. Pollard, I've great news for you . . . the blindness is passing. It's not a blood clot on the brain as I first feared, just a temporary shock to the optic nerve. And there is no concussion. Just keep her quiet for a few days, she's still much upset mentally, and then . . . but she has had a narrow escape!"

And suddenly Andrew Wade found himself with his arm about his old enemy. Pollard leaned on him and wept, and there were tears, too, in the young man's eyes. Enmity and malice were gone. He knew there could only be friendship now between himself and Joan's father. For hadn't fate taught him a lesson? They had learned that no material possessions can compare with the light of laughter in the dark eyes of a girl.

IF KIDNEYS ACT BAD TAKE SALTS

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and loggy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body's urinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach sours, tongue is coated, and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

Jad Salts is inexpensive, cannot injure and makes a delightful, effervescent lithia-water drink. Drink lots of good water.

BROWNSVILLE, PA., April 10.—A ferry owned by the Gray Ferry Company, of Pittsburgh, and located on the Monongahela River at Grays Landing, above here, sank when two trucks, heavily laden with pit posts, were driven on board. Several passengers escaped to the shore as the ferry went down. Salvage work is under way to raise the ferry and trucks.

Man Killed by Mine Gas Termed Suicide

CONNELLSVILLE, Pa., April 10.—That Mike Saggi, 44, a miner, crawled into a gas pocket in the Fair Oaks mine at Confluence, east of here, with the intention of ending his life, was the verdict of a coroner's jury. The body was found by Supt. George Longridge and Mine Inspector S. S. Hall after Saggi had been missing 10 days. A widow and four children survive.

Film Destroys Teeth

and robs them of all lustre

It clings to teeth so ordinary brushing fails to remove it successfully. A new way dentists urge.

ASK a famous screen star how to keep teeth dazzling white and she will tell you to keep teeth free of film. Ask your dentist how to avoid decay and pyorrhea, he will say, "Remove film from your teeth twice daily."

Today it's known film is the cause of dull, discolored teeth as well as the serious tooth and gum disorders. To remove it scientifically, employ the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

FILM—What it is

Run your tongue across your teeth and you will feel this film. It absorbs stains from food and smoking and turns white teeth dull. It clings to teeth, gets into crevices and stays.

Film hardens into tartar. Germs by the millions breed in it. And germs, with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Film must be removed each day. Ordinary brushing fails to do it successfully. So dentists urge the special film-removing dentifrice called Pepsodent.

First, Pepsodent curdles film, then removes it in gentle safety to enamel. No other way will make teeth as sparkling white. Write for free 10-day supply to The Pepsodent Co., 1104 S. Wabash Ave., Chicago, or ask your druggist for full-size tube. Find out, without delay, how white your teeth really are. You'll be amazed.

Skin troubles—pimples, boils, eczema, and sallow complexion are usually but symptoms of a deeper, a more dangerous trouble—a lack of the normal count of red-cells in the blood.

When you take S.S.S. to get rid of these outside blemishes, you are building up the system to ward off the graver diseases of which these blemishes are Nature's warning.

You, too, may have a clear skin

Proud? Justly so!

Every person should have a clear skin. If you have skin blemishes why not get rid of them

PERMANENTLY?

THOUSANDS of people have weak, impure blood—to this may be attributed pimples, boils, eczema, "run-down" systems, rheumatism and even more serious ailments.

Without plenty of rich, red blood, there could be no strong, sturdy, powerful men, or beautiful, healthy women.

When you get the number of your red-blood-cells back to normal, that sluggish, let-down feeling, loss of appetite, those pains usually called rheumatism, boils, pimples, and skin troubles disappear. You get hungry again and sleep soundly; firm flesh takes the place of that which was once flabby. You feel strong. Your nerves become steady. You are resistant to disease.

Throughout more than a hundred years S.S.S. has been a blessing to millions of people who have taken advantage of its wonderful medicinal properties. It is Nature's own blood tonic for improving the appetite, clearing the body of so-called skin troubles, and building strength and resistance to disease.

S.S.S. is made from fresh vegetable drugs and has a successful record of over 100 years back of it.

Copyright 1929 S.S.S. Co.

S.S.S. increases the count of red-cells in the blood. Weak, impure blood is injurious to the system, lowering resistance to disease. Rich, red blood builds and sustains the body. S.S.S. helps Nature build rich, red blood. Good blood improves the processes by which the body is nourished, promotes constructive metabolism (healthy body building) and works against infection and disease. Take S.S.S. daily at mealtime. To get full benefit you must take it regularly and over a sufficient period of time. At all Drug Stores. Ask for the larger size. It is more economical.

GOLD STAR TRIP ABROAD TO BE GIVEN 30,000

WASHINGTON, April 10. — The machinery is in motion for the gold star mother's pilgrimage to the graves of their war dead in Europe. The cemeterial division of the War Department, acting under the provisions of the pilgrimage bill passed toward the close of the last Congress, has taken up the huge task of establishing contact with the mothers or widows of the 30,000 American soldiers whose bodies rest in graves across the sea.

The compilation and investigation of the records of those who will be entitled to make the pilgrimage is being pushed with all the speed that efficiency will permit in order that the War Department may submit a complete report to the regular session of Congress next December.

INQUIRY BY WOMEN

This is not an ordinary Army task that can be dealt with in the usual rigid manner of military red tape. It is a task that calls for the sympathy and understanding of a woman's mind and heart. So it has been turned over to women who can understand to carry through.

Miss Elsie A. Stommel, principal clerk of the cemeterial division, and Mrs. Genevieve Ruth, of the overseas branch of that division, have been placed in charge of this investigation of records of war mothers and widows. They are personally directing and supervising the enormous volume of correspondence that is necessary to make the record complete in each individual case.

14,000 RECORDS READY

At time there are 14,000 records ready for investigation and the other 16,000 or more are being prepared as rapidly as the department can get them in shape.

Under the bill sponsored by the Hearst newspapers and passed by Congress it is provided that every mother of a deceased member of the American military or naval forces buried in Europe or the widow of any member of the expeditionary force, Army or Navy, buried over there, who has not remarried, may visit the grave of her son or husband at the expense of the United States government.

The bill gives a very broad interpretation to the term "mother," declaring that it embraces "mother, stepmother, mother through adoption or any woman who stood in loco parentis to the deceased member of the military or naval forces for the year prior to the commencement of his services in such forces.

TAKE 10,000 YEARLY

The War Department, which has direct supervision of the pilgrimage, through the cemeterial division, is planning for three annual pilgrimages taking over up to 10,000 each year, starting in 1930. The journey will be on first-class steamships and trains, with first-class accommodations, including hotels, restaurants, etc., from the pilgrim's home city to the cemetery abroad and return. There will be competent officers, attendants and guides to look after their personal comfort and welfare. Every legitimate expense will be borne by the government.

The pilgrims will be accorded a sojourn of two weeks after disembarking in Europe before embarking for the return journey. A day will be given for shopping and sightseeing in New York.

Appropriations for the expense of the pilgrimage will be provided by Congress after the report is submitted by the War Department in December and it is known just how much will be required.

The 30,000 American dead overseas are concentrated in the main in six cemeteries in France, one in Belgium and one in England.

Chain Store Bandits Threaten Passer-by

Police today are seeking four youths who robbed a chain grocery store at 3702 Penn avenue, and threatened A. H. Jenkins, of Denny street, when he attempted to halt them as they fled from the place.

The robbers jimmied the front door and stole cigarets, candy and other goods, valued at $20. Jenkins, passing by, observed the quartet and attempted to question them, when one brandished a knife and threatened to stab him, police were told.

Riders Shaken When Truck Hits Trolley

Passengers in a Bloomfield street car were shaken up when a truck driven by Edward Raven, 24, a pugilist, of 316 Chestnut street, skidded and crashed into it on the Sixteenth Street Bridge last night. Danger Signals of High Blood Pressure

"Dizzy spells, hot flashes, pains in the head, shortness of breath, sleeplessness, and nervousness usually indicate high blood pressure," warns physicians who found treatment to reduce it.

These are symptoms which show an accumulation of poisonous waste matter in the system or that one or more of your organs has weakened and caused the heart to be overtaxed. Check it at once for it is known high blood pressure brings on hardening of the arteries, and other serious conditions.

Norma, a physician's prescription, reduces blood pressure so surely it is regarded as a great medical success. Often one bottle brings prompt relief. Ask for Norma at any drug store.

EAGLES TO GIVE DINNER HERE FOR CHIEF

Edward J. Ryan, of Philadelphia, national president of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, will be tendered a banquet by the Western Pennsylvania Association, F. O. E., on Saturday night, May 11, in the English room of the Fort Pitt Hotel.

The association includes 57 aeries in the western end of the state, and represents a membership of about 65,000 Eagles. Pennsylvania leads all the other states of the nation in Eagle membership and the banquet to Ryan is to be a testimonial to the part he played in winning and holding that honor.

The banquet will depart from former conventions, in that the guests will include not only Eagles but also their feminine relatives. John B. Henderson, secretary of the banquet committee, is arranging a program of music and vaudeville. A dance will follow the dinner.

GOODWILL GIFT DAYS OPEN

The annual gift days of the Pittsburgh Goodwill Industries, 2801 Liberty avenue, are under way in schools of the city and county. The purpose is to have bundles of used clothing collected at the schools and then to have Goodwill trucks take these bundles to the industrial relief department, where many needy people will be given work fixing them for distribution among other destitute families.

The response to the appeal has made it necessary for the Goodwill Industries to send out several extra trucks in order to handle promptly all material donated. There is need, however, for much more material if the gift days are to benefit all the needy who will appeal for work. Many people are calling Grant 3717 for trucks to call at their homes for packages which are too large to take to school.

The court ordered that the deed be vested to Hans Bode, trustee in the bankruptcy of Andrew Brown, who brought action for recovery of the property.

DORMONT PUPILS TO TEST VOTING MACHINES

SIDE-WALKS OF PITTSBURGH

BY HAVEY J. BOYLE

IN EAST LIBERTY a vengeful motorist, displeased with his car, rode up and down Penn avenue with a large sign on the car, giving the make and adding: "This car is a lemon."

Another car, brilliantly painted, is seen in some sections from time to time, bearing these words: "This is the car of a collecting agency—out to collect bad debts." Men and women delinquent in their bills don't like such a car parked in front of their home.

A GOOD lawyer probably would be able to find something unconstitutional in these signs. If the lawyers make up their minds to it, the old constitution can be made to do strange tricks.

A Pittsburgh millionaire, desiring an ornamental wall on his estate, has had four walls built so far, each one being torn down because it wasn't just right. The expense so far has run close to $25,000.

THE monument to warn motorists of the dangers of traffic at Sixth avenue and Grant street has been torn down. It was considered inartistic. A small park is being arranged on the spot now.

The corner is known as Pedestrians' Folly. It is quite useless to try to negotiate a safe crossing as every turn imaginable is tolerated at this corner.

An overhead bridge for walkers is the only remedy in sight, and even then, the autos likely would skim up the pillars and attack the wayfarer.

A way to promote more courtesy or rather less discourtesy among motorists and between motorists and pedestrians is offered by a correspondent. He says the motorist blowing his horn twice would be understood to say to the other fellow, "I'll wait for you." Many motorists, he says, are willing to give the gentlemen in a hurry the right of way, but they have no way of signaling this courtesy. Of course, one drawback to the notion is that the fellow behind the driver willing to yield would likely jump out of his car and shake his fist at the driver who is anxious to be polite and courteous. But with traffic becoming almost unbearable in the city some new code, and signals, are needed.

I DROVE into a paid parking lot the other day and the attendant motioned to a spot to park. I never made it. Another fellow, probably carrying a pardon to a condemned prisoner, dashed in and grabbed up the space. The look on his face indicated that he was having a good day. That must have been his fourth such conquest of the afternoon.

An interesting movie duel was staged here last week. Clara Bow, a red-hot favorite, as one might say, was pitted against an arch-rival, Lupe Velez. Which one won out in the race to draw the fans has not been announced so far. Lupe was here in person while Clara was here in a picture only.

BURGESS, SEVEN COUNCILMEN TO BE ELECTED

More than 800 high school students of Dormont Friday afternoon will vote with the aid of two voting machines, and elect a "burgess" and "seven councilmen" who will take the reins of the borough Thursday, May 2, which was set as "Boys' Day in Citizenship," one of the seven days which will be observed as "Boys' Week" in Dormont.

The event, which is sponsored by the Dormont Chamber of Commerce, in conjunction with the National Boys' Week, will begin Saturday, April 27, and end Friday, May 3.

The voting will take place in the Dormont High School, and will be in charge of Charles Chamberlin, president of Dormont Council, who will be assisted by Councilman Chester Winters and Burgess William S. Haddock. The high school faculty will aid the committee.

L. C. "Sim" Price, president of the Chamber of Commerce, has announced that the voting machines will be furnished by Senator Frank Harris.

The candidates are: For Burgess, Sanford Corcoran, John Tibby and John Cort. For council, Langford Dobbins, Kelvin Shields, Richard Brown, Louis Aiken, Woods Stoner, Robert McGiffin Arthur, Crawford Robert Holmes, Maurice Roland, Robert Johnson, Edward Taggart and Robert Becker.

ROW BURNS, 12 FORCED OUT

Fire swept a row of six frame houses at 5429-5439 Dyke street, Hazelwood, today, driving 12 persons from their home and causing damage estimated by Fire Chief Richard L. Smith at $15,000.

Four companies, responding to two alarms, fought to keep the flames from spreading to other frame houses, old and closely built, in the vicinity.

Police of four stations dispatched emergency squads to the scene and many families were roused and told to prepare to leave their homes.

Only one of the houses in the row was occupied, that of Mrs. Virginia Owens, Negro, of 5437 Dyke street. A roomer who smelled smoke aroused the 11 other occupants and they fled to the street, carrying Willie Owens, 18 months, and Henry Owens, 4.

Firemen extinguished flames in the warehouse of the May Drug Company, 317 Penn avenue, today after damage estimated at $200 had been caused.

MAYOR ASSAILS MALONE FOR SUBWAY PLAN METHOD

Mayor Charles H. Kline today criticized James F. Malone, president of City Council, for presenting to Council plans for a street car subway under Grant street and Penn avenue from Water street to a point near Twenty-seventh street before submitting the proposal to the City Transit Commission, headed by George S. Davidson.

At Monday's meeting, Council accepted the plans and adopted Malone's resolution continuing a special committee appointed by the president to study the underground artery. The committee was instructed to confer with all interested persons, including officials of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, Pittsburgh Railways Company and the Transit Commission.

The Mayor issued the following statement:

"I do not know whether these plans are good or bad, as I have not had time to study them. I think, however, it was unwise to submit them over the heads of the members of the Transit Commission, who have done so much hard work on this project.

"George S. Davison, head of the Transit Commission, has been making the subway practically his life's work for the last few years. There are too few citizens like him, and he should be encouraged rather than subject to affront.

"I am not committed to any plans, but I intend to recognize Mr. Davison and the agency created to handle this most important matter and no others.

"Pittsburgh wants a subway. We want the best plans possible. I understand it is now the intention to give the Transit Commission representation in the discussion of these plans.

"To my mind, this is putting the cart before the horse. They should have been submitted first to the agency created by law to handle this matter."

Gerdes, who was thrown from a truck on which he was standing in Carson street, February 11, 1927, when a truck of Booth & Flinn collided with his truck and hurt his eyesight, head, shoulders, back and spine, was awarded a verdict for $7,000 of the $10,000 sued for. The case was tried before Judge John A. Evans, of Common Pleas Court.

TRAFFIC ARTERY BILL FRAMED

The project for a new traffic artery downtown has been given an impetus by the introduction in Council of an ordinance providing for the widening of Strawberry way to a 60-foot street. The ordinance, sponsored by the Better Traffic Committee, is pending before the councilmanic committee on public service and surveys for a hearing next week.

The ordinance calls for a setback of 40 feet on the north side of the present boundary from Bigelow boulevard to 99.58 feet west of Smithfield street. This makes provision for carrying out the plan of the Better Traffic Committee for a new major thoroughfare from the boulevard at Gazette Square to Liberty avenue at a point opposite the intersection of Ninth street. The ordinance has been referred to the City Planning Commission for a report April 16.

Proceedings for the widening will delay building projects of the Bell Telephone Company, which has announced the erection of a new structure at Strawberry and William Penn ways.

PENSIONER HAD $1,500 IN BANK

Anthony C. Kloman, 79, former figure in the Pittsburgh steel industry, who died in a modest rooming house in Fernando street, apparently dependent on a $50 a month pension for sustenance, had a $1,500 bank account at the time of his death, a checkup of his affairs has revealed.

The aged man, whose father, Andrew Kloman, was Andrew Carnegie's first partner in the steel business, had been associated with the Carnegie Steel Company in its early days, and it was Mrs. Carnegie, who, at the suggestion of friends, provided the pension.

His funeral will be held tomorrow from the funeral home of James J. Flannery Brothers Company, 374 South Negley avenue.

Among those who will attend may be other Pittsburghers whose fortunes rose with the steel industry, but whose later years of life were not lived in luxury because those same fortunes vanished in business enterprises which did not flourish.

RADIO IN SCHOOL PLAN DECLARED PRACTICABLE

"I think that the Sun-Telegraph has discovered the only practicable manner of installing radio in our schools—all other means would be too expensive," G. H. Houghton, instructor in general science at the Gladstone Junior High School, Gladstone avenue, told a Sun-Telegraph reporter today.

Mr. Houghton is the author of the plan by which the Gladstone school was equipped with a radio set immediately before the second inauguration of President Coolidge. Mr. Houghton and John W. Anthony, principal, are enthusiastic over the use of radio in the schools.

BESPEAKS SUCCESS

"The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph-Stanley Theater campaign to place a radio in every school should be successful. There is no doubt about the place of such a set in the schools.

"Here in Gladstone we have found it a great help," continued Mr. Houghton, who has experimented with the radio in education for some time. "Walter Damrosch's programs and Dr. Royal Copeland's health talk fit right in with our curriculum.

"Especially would we be helped by programs broadcast by the board of education. School orchestras and class work, important lectures and reading would all reach the home and the school. The radio would also be the much-needed means of teaching recent and contemporary history.

"I hope the campaign is a success and I feel it is a very helpful effort on the part of its inceptors," he concluded.

GATHERS MOMENTUM

The campaign over which Mr. Houghton is so enthusiastic is meanwhile gathering momentum. A letter to the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph from E. M. Herr, president of Westinghouse, says:

"I know so well the valuable field of information that is now being occupied by the broadcasting facilities at various stations, and believe that this service might be of very material assistance to the teachers in our schools. I am very glad that Pittsburgh has the prospect of being a pioneer in the use of this very valuable aid to educational work."

The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph, in conjunction with the Stanley-Warner Brothers' theaters, has undertaken to install in every schoolroom in the city a $138.50 eight-tube Atwater Kent electric-dynamic radio reciving set of latest design, immediately after the mark of 125 orders for 13-week carrier delivery has been attained by that schoolroom.

Subscriptions can be and are being obtained from anybody not now a home-delivery subscribed. The Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph will arrange to furnish a speaker to any group of students wishing to learn of the campaign and meeting in any suitable place outside the school. Watch this paper for news of the first installation.

Husband Offered To Move Effects, Wife Says

So anxious was her husband to get rid of her, he told her he would help her home with her furniture, Martha H. Bowling, 219 Mill street, Braddock, testified before Judge Josiah Cohen in asking a divorce from Stanley Bowling.

Mrs. Bowling, who is 27 and was married in 1922, averred she was afraid of her life, because her husband had repeatedly threatened to kill her and assaulted her once, when she called at his mother's home in Braddock to attend a dinner at which there was to be no argument.

The couple finally separated in 1923 and at the present time, the husband, according to the wife, is in Salem, O.

Will Rogers' Diary

NEW YORK, April 10.

You know Tom Heflin issued what to me was a mighty human statement. "You shouldn't exploit my son's weakness. You should try and help him. I will be waiting for him with open arms."

Hurrah for Mr. Hoover and that appointment of Mr. Dawes to Great Britain. Dawes will about put the King on a budget system.

Helen Wills goes to the center court of St. James, too.

Dawes goes on account of being a Republican, and Helen on account of her cannon-ball service.

Texas Guinan is becoming effeminate. She resorted to smelling salts in court.

Yours, WILL.

MARION DAVIES' FILMS BRILLIANT, SAYS LONDON

LONDON, April 10.—Film fans here are awaiting impatiently the general release of Marion Davies' two latest pictures, "Her Cardboard Lover" and "Show People."

The films in their recent limited showing at the Empire Theater were both accorded the highest praise by press critics.

Concerning "Her Cardboard Lover," the London Evening Standard said:

"Marion Davies is the only film actress I know who makes kittenishness tolerable. She's very funny, especially when she portrays other film characters."

The Daily Express critic quoted: "'Her Cardboard Lover' is a brilliant film with much of the piquant quality of 'The Politic Lover,' and is characterized by Miss Davies' excellent acting."

"Some of her pranks are riotously funny," said the Telegraph, while the Chronicle sums all notices up with:

"Miss Davies has consolidated her reputation in 'Her Cardboard Lover.'"

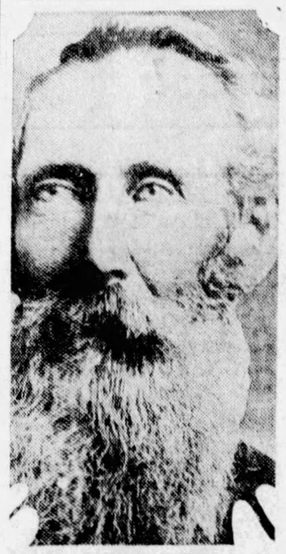
"Show ePople" appeared to have tickled the risibilities of the film critics by its intriguing pantomime of life in Hollywood. The daily Mail's critic put it this way:

"Miss Davies, the uncrowned queen of Hollywood, is noted for her gift of comedy. She is a brilliant mime."

"Miss Davies exploits a comedy vein that never would have been suspected by those who have seen her only in romantic roles," wrote the critic in the Morning Post.

"In 'Show People' Miss Marion Davies proves herself again one of the screen's most gifted actresses, and here she is at her best," was the comment of the Daily Sketch.

Dead



JOHN T. FIFE

Mr. Fife, 92, Upper St. Clair Township, one of the oldest Republicans in the United States, is dead today in his home. He voted for every Republican president since Lincoln.

JOHN T. FIFE DEAD AT 92

John T. Fife, 92, one of the oldest Republicans in the country and last survivor of the famous Sixty-second Regiment, Pennsylvania Volunteers, died last night on his farm in Upper St. Clair Township, which was settled by his great-grandfather in 1766.

As a sturdy country lad, Mr. Fife in 1856 rode with the Republican campaign clubs supporting John C. Fremont, first Republican candidate for President, and in 1860 he cast his first ballot for Abraham Lincoln. He voted for every Republican presidential candidate from that time down to the election of Herbert Hoover. He cast his ballot in the same voting district where his ancestors in 1788 held to elect George Washington first President of the republic.

PIONEER'S DESCENDANT

Mr. Fife was descended from John Fife, who with his brother, William, settled the Cremona farm on McLaughlin's run in the year following the suppression of Pontiac's insurrection. The brothers returned east at the outbreak of the Revolution and served with Washington's army until the surrender of Cornwallis, when they came back to their farm and helped develop the rich southern section of Allegheny County.

Mr. Fife grew up in a military atmosphere. His father, Maj. John Fife, was a well-known officer in the old Pennsylvania militia, and when Lincoln called for volunteers, John T. Fife's company, the St. Clair Rifles, was already under arms. It was recruited with the Sixty-second Volunteer Infantry, commanded by Col. Samuel Black.

WOUNDED AT SPOTTSYLVANIA

Mr. Fife served in all the actions of the Sixty-second until the battle of Spottsylvania Courthouse where he suffered a severe wound. He married Jennie Morton in 1866. He continued the active management of his farm until his death.

He had been a member of Bethel Presbyterian Church more than 60 years. He was a member of the Union Veteran Legion and an honorary officer in the Sons of the American Revolution. He leaves a son, Morton Fife, who resides on the ancestral farm; two daughters, Mrs. C. W. Fenton, of New Castle, and Mrs. James R. Rhodes, of Library, and a niece, Mrs. Evadna Sterrett Balfe, a former missionary in Syria.

"IN TWO WEEKS KONJOLA MADE ME WELL AGAIN"

Grateful Man Suffered Eight Years, Freed From Stomach Trouble and Neuritis.

The grateful praises that have been showered upon the wonderful new medicine, Konjola, for its marvelous achievements in stubborn cases that have defied and repulsed all effort for relief, bear eloquent evidence to the effectiveness of this remarkable remedy for stomach, liver, kidney and bowel trouble and for rheumatism, neuritis and nervousness.

MR. JOSEPH W. RODGERS

Day after day, the Konjola Man, who is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, is greeted by happy men and women, eager to tell of their experiences with this master medicine. It is upon actual results obtained that Konjola has built up its wonderful reputation. This new medicine is not one of promises, but of performances. Those who have been restored to new and glorious health are living testimonials to the merits of Konjola. It is a graphic recital that Mr. Joseph W. Rodgers, of Gibsonia, Pa., near Pittsburgh, makes in telling what this medicine did for him. Surely, in his statement, is to be found much of hope for all who suffer. Read every word that Mr. Rodgers said to the Konjola Man a few days ago:

"In two weeks Konjola made me well again after I had suffered eight years from stomach trouble and neuritis. It is really hard to describe my condition for I was in a pitiful shape, unable to find a medicine that reached the source of my troubles. My stomach was so disordered that if I stooped over after eating a meal, a hot bile poured from my mouth. My head ached something awful. Dizzy spells were the bane of my life. Even at night I did not get any relief and sound sleep was out of the question. My arms from the wrist to my shoulders were affected by the neuritis pains. Often they became so severe I thought I would go mad. Then catarrh developed. There seemed no hope for me.

"But all that was changed, quickly and surely, by Konjola. My only regret is that this medicine did not come to Pittsburgh sooner. Think of the years of suffering it would have saved me. One of my friends first recommended it to me and without hesitation I determined to give it a trial. One bottle showed me that I had gotten hold of an honest medicine and one that would do all that is claimed for it. Within a week I knew that, at last, I was on the road to health, and traveling fast. A week later I was a well man. Just think, in two weeks, Konjola banished those three ailments. There isn't a trace of stomach trouble, neuritis or catarrh. I know this statement sounds unbelievable, but every word is the truth. It all goes to prove that Konjola is the master medicine."

Thus Konjola triumphs over disease that has baffled every treatment tried, and the marvelous record of this super-medicine means that what it has done for others it will do for you.

The Konjola Man is at the Dow Drug Company (formerly McCulloch's), Penn Avenue and Sixth Street, this city, where he is meeting the public daily, introducing and explaining the merits of this master medicine.

PIRATES TO HAVE STRONG ATTACK

Harry McCurdy, Tech's New "Harpster," in Action in Spring Training Workouts

HOWARD HARPSTER

The idol of the Tech campus last year, who is back as a member of the football coaching staff. He will spend considerable time drilling McCurdy to fill his shoes and also to fit into his helmet on the gridiron. Harpy was rated one of the smartest quarterbacks in the history of the game.

PASSER

Carnegie Tech's biggest football problem next fall will be to replace the brilliant Howard Harpster, captain and all-America star of last year's team, at quarterback. Here is the candidate who is being groomed to fill the bill. He is Harry McCurdy, of Monongahela, who starred on the freshman eleven last fall, shown working out on forward-passing in the spring training campaign inaugurated on the Tech field Monday.

HARRY M'CURDY

He's a bright, wide-awake looking chap, is this young fellow who will shoulder the heavy burden of trying to fill the place of a great all-America star like Harpster in his first season on the Carnegie Tech varsity. He doesn't relish the task, and says he doubts if he'll fill the bill, but the coaches have let him know that he is the man for the post and he is ready to give his best in an effort to make good.

KICKER

Harpster was first of all a great field general. Then he was a kicker and punter par excellence and a runner with the ball and a good defensive player. Close observers of McCurdy say he can fill all of these requirements well and lacks only experience to make him another Harpster.

FEDERAL BOXING BOARD IS PROPOSED

NOT since the days of "Tinker to Evers to Chance" has spring pennant hope among Cub rooters been as strong as it has been since Rogers Hornsby was acquired and the club began to make its impressive showing in the training games, but as the opening of the season, now only six days away, draws near, the enthusiasm of the Chicago fans is being dampened by the continued lack of assurance that there is any prospect of improvement in the condition of Catcher Gabby Hartnett's throwing arm.

Gabby Hartnett

Just as Pie Traynor's injured hip is to Pirate followers, Hartnett's pegging wing is the spring's main source of worry to Bruin adherents. Gabby has not played a game nor tossed a ball this spring. He has been taking part in some branches of the workouts in order to put his legs and his wind in shape, but from all reports the condition of his arm is still so doubtful that it is a safe bet he will not be behind the bat against the Pirates in the curtain-raiser next Tuesday and will continue to be missing from the Cub lineup for some time afterward.

JUST what ails Hartnett's arms appears to be somewhat of a mystery. He was treated by bone, muscle and nerve specialists on the coast, but no definite information was ever given out as to just what ailed the backstop. "I don't know exactly what's the matter with it," said Manager Joe McCarthy when finally pinned down to the subject, "but feel sure it will come around all right. Gabby will be all right, but we can't say on what date."

The Cubs will not be left in a helpless state through Hartnett's inability to start, it is true, as they have a smart and reliable receiver in Mike Gonzales and young Grace also has been showing promise. But the absence of Hartnett will substract quite a bit from the Chicago attack, and that attack is what the club is counting upon chiefly for pennant success this year. McCarthy says he has five pitchers ready to start in Fred Blake, Art Nehf, Perce Malone, Charley Root and Hal Carlson, but the satisfactory conditions at one end of the battery department may be offset by the loss of Hartnett at the other.

DE MAVE FIGHTS ALONG LINES OF RISKO

By HARRY KECK,
Sports Editor.

From Billy Henderson, of Boston, manager of Andy Martin, the clever bantamweight, who has starred against Johnny Datto and Midget Mike O'Dowd in bouts here, comes a good story in connection with the Johnny Risko-Otto Von Porat fight in Boston last Friday night, which Risko won decisively, thereby upsetting the dope of the insiders who figured John was all washed up.

Jack DeMave

It seems, according to Henderson's version, that Risko simply lathered Von Porat with punches, some of which were right on the belt line due to the fact that Otto is so much taller than Johnny. Otto was constantly complaining about low punches, and, finally, when the Norwegian protested again and snapped, "Come on, Johnny; get them up," Risko couldn't hold himself in check any longer.

Grabbing Von Porat firmly by the arm in a clinch, he bellowed:

"Say, if you say I'm hitting you low again, I'LL GIVE YOU A PUNCH IN THE NOSE!"

Imagine that, in the heat of a hard-fought battle. A mere punch in the nose? Tut, tut!

A TOUGH FIGHTER

Speaking, or, rather, writing of Risko, this fellow Jack DeMave, who fights Ike McFowler, the big Negro, of Johnstown, in the main bout of 10 rounds in the Motor Square ring next Monday night, boxes somewhat on the order of Risko, only more so, if that is possible. He is tough and a fighter and no part of a boxer. They call him a club fighter, and that's what he is, nothing less. He throws 'em from all angles in long and short swings and his record of having fought Jack Sharkey, Risko, Tow Heeney, Jim Maloney, Chuck Wiggins, Harold Mays, Bud Gorman, Young Bob Fitzsimmons, Maxie Rosenbloom, Carl Carter, Jack Warren, Jack Renault and Johnny Grosso, among others, without ever having been stopped, is proof enough of his durability. He figures to give McFowler quite the toughest night's fighting Ike has had since he came around these parts. DeMave is under the management of Lew Diamond, who piloted Johnny Buff to the world flyweight and American bantamweight titles.

Promoter Francis Flynn last night completed the card for his weekly show in the Moose Temple Friday night, with the signing of Young Jacobs, of Canonsburg, to box Sammy Paris, of the Hill, in the opening bout and Sammy Sunshine,

GOLDSTEIN VS. NEWTON AGAIN

Johnny Newton, of Mansfield, O., and Phil Goldstein, of the Hill, who fought a hard eight-round windup at Motor Square Garden last Monday night, with Newton winning the decision after knocking down Goldstein twice in the second round, once for a count of nine, have been rematched to box the 10-round main event in the same ring, Monday night, April 22, it was announced today.

At the same time, the Garden management announced the signing Allen Beatty, of McKeesport, and Buck McTiernan, of Swissvale, for the six-round preliminary to the Jack DeMave-Ike McFowler bout next Monday night. This pair were scheduled to box last Monday night, but McTiernan had a bad hand and couldn't fight at that time.

Stanley Simmons will meet a worthy light-heavyweight opponent in the eight-round semi-final Monday night and Bob Krappe and Joe Poole will box the four-round opener.

PUNCH, SPEED IN BUCS' LINEUP

By CHARLES J. DOYLE,
Staff Correspondent.

SHREVEPORT, La., April 10.—The best hitting club in the majors last year, the Pirates with their contemplated batting front should again do themselves proud in the matter of attack.

No doubt the thundering bat of Buckshot Wright will be missed in many a ball game at Forbes Field and on the road, yet the club as a whole is impressive. Most of the punch and a greater portion of the speed is in the upper bracket, but with Boots Grantham stationed in the middle of the order it is certain that all of the drive will not be up around the top.

THREE LITTLE 'UNS

Manager Bush has three remarkable little fellows for the first three positions in Sparky Adams and the Waner boys. Adams is capable of batting close to .300; he is a good waiter and a fine base runner. Sprout, the younger, is one of the game's best run makers as is attested in his two-year career in the majors. For third-notch purposes there seems to be no more effective batter in the game than Brother Paul, with one outstanding exception. Babe Ruth hits in the third hole and, of course, there is nobody in Babe's class.

Pilot Donie expects to start the season with Pie Traynor in the cleanup position, provided the Pittsburgh captain is able to play. The cleanup plan for Pie may work out, and then again it may not. Pie is not a slugger in the strict sense. He is capable of hitting .330 or better, but he does not sock the rocket for distance like Wright, Grantham and others. In any event, Pie will be a vital force in the club's offensive; he is one of the best base runners in the league.

In placing Traynor ahead of Grantham, Bush was guided by his unwillingness to have three southpaw hitters in a row at the plate. And in mixing up the pot he shows good judgment.

SHEELY HAS POWER

Following Grantham in the Pittsburgh offensive will be Sheely, Bartell and the battery workers. There will be a noticeable dearth of speed in this section of the order except on days when Rolly Hemsley is behind the plate. Yet the old punch should be there, nevertheless. Everybody in baseball who knows him expects Earl Sheely to swing a mean bat for the Pirates. Earl has lots of power, he hits to all fields and he is the best hit-and-run man on the club.

Bartell's springtime pace indicates that his .300 mark for his games of last season was not an accident. And Richard apparently has more power now than he had one

UMEK LEADS "CIRCUS" INTO UNIONTOWN

By JESS CARVER.
Staff Correspondent.

UNIONTOWN, Pa., April 10—Charley C. (Cash and Carry) Pyle's second annual international transcontinental foot race, to give it its official name, called very facetiously "The March of the Bunioneers" left its eleventh control station at 9 o'clock this morning and headed for Waynesburg, the third and final stop in this sovereign state of Pennsylvania. Some 44 footsore and slightly goofy entrants lifted smarting dogs across starting line this A. M.

The boys hiked in from Cumberland, Md., yesterday in a driving rain, with shaven-pated Guisto Umek of Trieste, Italy, leading the way over the grueling 63-mile mountainous trail. Guisto wobbled into the control point here after nine hours and 1x minutes of jogging. I do not think Guisto attended a dance last night. I wouldn't have.

P. T. BARNUM PIKER

Folks, this is the greatest act of the century. This fellow Pyle, who counts lost that day that brings not its share of attachments on his various personal belongings and chattels with his travelling stage show, termed the "Cross Country Follies," is going to reap a bountiful harvest. It's a dizzy act, but doggoned if it isn't making the well-known P. T. Barnum look like a piker.

Here they are, these 44 runners, Italians, Americans, Englishmen, Jews, Canucks, Belgians, Finns and Negroes, hopping along from day to day, from New York to Los Angeles, retracing the ground covered by the first batch of runners who tramped from the Pacific to the Atlantic one year ago. A top prize of $25,000 awaits the winner at the end of the long grind.

Young Andy Payne of Claremore, Oklahoma, won the dough last year and is along this time as sort of an added attraction. The 25 grand he collected from C. C. Pyle's none-too-fat purse seems to have endowed him with brains enough to stay out of this running racket.

ANTE RAISED

Cash and Carry donated some $48,000 to the leading finishers on the occasion of his first race. This year he's raised the ante to $60,000 and will

Amateurs Quit, Join Fathers As Golf Pros

COLUMBUS, April 10.—(AP.)—Alfred Sargent, who led Ohio State University's golf team to a Big Ten championship last year, has renounced his amateurism and become assistant to his father, George Sargent, professional at the Scotio Country Club, here.

Young Sargent was one of the best golfers in the Big Ten last year. He qualified for match play in the national intercollegiate meet at Rye, N. Y., and was a constant threat in state tournaments.

Another Ohio State golfer, Dave Ogilvie, Jr., of Cleveland, recently, dropped out of school and turned professional. He is also assisting his father who is professional at the Oakwood Country Club, Cleveland.

LOCAL HOCKEY CLUB NOT TO GO TO HUB

By CARL W. SHATTO.

Attorney J. F. Callahan, president of the Pittsburgh Hockey Club of the National League, today branded as idle rumors reports from Boston that the local ice franchise is to be operated in Boston next season.

"Boston has made no bid for the Pittsburgh franchise," Callahan said, "and any advances they may make will meet with a cool reception. Local officials plan to keep the Pirates here, and any reports of a likely sale are erroneous."

Boston won the championship last season and played to bigger crowds than any other club in the league. Hub ice leaders point out that Boston can support two league teams just as easily as can New York and Montreal, and they are said to be prepared to bid for the Ottawa or Pittsburgh franchise at the league meeting to be held next Monday in Detroit.

Charles Adams, owner of Boston's ice champions, has denied knowledge of any deal.

The Scottdale team will operate as a Cardinal farm during the 1929 campaign.

BUTCH WINS, WINDSO BOWS AT BOSTON

BOSTON, April 10.—(AP.)—Steven Halaiko, of Buffalo, the only defending champion in this year's national amateur boxing tournament, advanced to the semi-final round of the 135-pound class here last night by administering a decisive pasting to Mickey Merkin, of San Francisco.

The champion's rapid left hand won him each of the three rounds. Being wise in the ways of amateur boxing, he refrained from trying for a knockout, which would have wasted valuable energy.

Three Pittsburgh district boxers fought last night and only one remained in the running this morning.

In the 115-pound class, Mose Butch, of Pittsburgh, outpointed Roy Calamark, of New Orleans. The bout went the regular distance.

Billy Windso, of McKeesport, Pa., lost by a technical knockout to Ted McKay, of Portland, Ore., in the second round of their contest in the 160-pound division.

Marty Gornick, of McKeesport, Pa., was knocked out in the second round by Joe Bernal, of San Francisco, in the 135-pound class.

U. S. RYDER CUP TEAM LEAVES THIS EVENING

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—On the eve of their departure for England, members of America's Ryder Cup golf team were guests of honor at a farewell banquet at the New York A. C. last night. Clarence Budington Kelland, the novelist, and Grover Whalen, police commissioner, were among the notables who gathered to give the team a fine send-off.

Heading the squad of 10 which will defend the Ryder Cup against the pick of British professionals, is Walter Hagen, British open champion; Horton Smith, young Joplin, Mo., star; Al Watrous, Detroit; Johnny Golden, Paterson, N. J.; Gene Sarazen and Joe Turnesa, of New York; Al Espinosa, of Chicago, and Ed Dudley, of Los Angeles.

The Ryder Cup team, with other American golf stars, is booked to sail on the Mauretania at 5 o'clock this evening.

Although the Ryder Cup competition at Leeds, April 26 and 27, is the main objective of the squad, there will be plenty of other competition not only in England, but in France and Germany as well. All of the boys will tee off in the British open at Muirfield, May 6 to 11; the Yorkshire Evening News tournament at Leeds May 13-18; the French professional championship near Paris, May 19-24, and the German open, May 25-26. A team match against picked French pros also has been scheduled tentatively for Biarritz, May 28-29.

BROWNSVILLE, Pa., April 10.—The new Husted Field, a community sports center, will be opened formally today. The field is located just off the National Pike.

THOMAS CLUB TO MAKE BID FOR CROWN

By TOM BIRKS

Losing only one man from last year's squad, Manager Al Zappa of the J. L. Thomas club, serious contender for the pennant in the City League, bubbled over with enthusiasm regarding the makeup of his club in the forthcoming fight.

Backed by the well-known Bloomfield sportsman, J. L. Thomas, the roster of the Bloomfielders has been considerably strengthened in the catching and pitching departments. Ed Ritter, one of the best catchers ever to don a mask on local sandlots, will have a little relief with Boots Klinzing signed up.

Martin Donett.

One of the greatest all-round athletes in the tri-state district, Boots is going to try and make a reputation on the diamond such as basketball. So with the popular South Side man available, Eddie Ritter will be able to get a rest once in a while.

The pitching staff will show Hamilton, Stolker, Joss and Schultz of last season, with Bailey of Soho, and Cuppett of Troy Hill as newcomers in the lineup. Both enter the city loop with good reputations. Bailey has been out of baseball for a year, owing to an operation early last season.

NEW SHORTSTOP

In the infield the only man Zappa loses is his shortstop, Quider, who however, will not be lost to the league. Quider will sport a Reliance Life uniform this season. His place will be filled by Colclasser, who comes from the Pittsburgh Railways and who is some class in the shortfield.

Bernie Shields and Porko are to cover the initial sack, Bernie being a favorite at Dean field. Moore will again be at the hot corner, with O'Conner and Studt completing the inner works.

Martin Donett, the heavy-hitting outfielder together with Welsh and McCrory, will roam the outfield. Marcellus and Fierat will also battle for these positions. Zappa states that a newcomer to this district, Hargest, lately of Michigan sandlots, playing in fast company around Detroit, should make a hit with Dean Field fans.

CALLS PRACTICE

Manager Zappa has called practice sessions for each evening this week. When the season gets into the "play-ball" period, Liberty Dairy, which copped the championship last season, is going to find real opposition right at home.

Always a popular club at home and abroad, the Dean Field aggregation is going to book a heavy independent schedule around the league dates and Zappa figures taking the club on the road for Sunday engagements.

Looking over the first roster of the City League, fans out Bloomfield way should have plenty to be enthused about when the Thomas Club takes to the field in search of titular honors. This is the first of the City League clubs to be announced. One club in the loop will be taken each day.

Barbuti to Return To Amateur Fold

NEW YORK, April 10.—(INS.)—Ray Barbuti is coming back to the fold. The former Syracuse University track and football star, who was the only American to win a race on the flat in the Olympics, and caused a stir by statements and articles concerning the tactics of the A. A. U. and professionalism in amateur athletics, is due to be reinstated very shortly by the local registration committee of the A. A. U., perhaps at their next meeting.

Dan Ferris, secretary of the A. A. U., made this known today.

"Barbuti was suspended in an attempt by the A. A. U. to force him to come through with the information which he alleged he had about professionalism in amateur ranks," said Ferris. "But he has refused to make known the names of the men he mentioned in his statement and his articles, and consequently, the suspension having failed as a means of making him speak, there is no future need of his suspension."

DAWSON COPS NORTH-SOUTH MEDAL

PINEHURST, N. C., April 10.—(AP.)—John Dawson, of the Glen Oak Country Club, Chicago, won the medal honors in the North and South amateur golf tournament with a score of 143 for the 36 holes.

The Chicagoan turned in a card of 71 yesterday to match his 72 for the first 18 holes.

George Voigt, of New York, defending champion, finished second with 71-73—144. He was trailed by Ross Somerville, of London, Ont., who had 71-76—147.

Eddie Held, of New York, and Eugene Homans, of Englewood, N. J., were tied for fourth and fifth places. Held had 72-76—148 and Homans, a member of the Princeton golf team, had 75-73—148.

Phillips Finlay, of Belmont, Mass., and Harvard, slumped badly and took an 80 to finish in sixth place with 150.

High scores were in order and less than 20 of a field of more than 150 finished in the seventies yesterday.

Match play started this morning. Pairings for the championship divisions are: Richard Wilson, of Southern Pines, and Homans; B. P. Merriman, of Waterbury, Conn., and Held; Norfleet P. Ray, of Toledo, O., and W. C. Fownes, Jr., of Pittsburgh; T. S. Tailor, Freeport, R. I., and Dawson; J. S. Knight, of Akron, O., and Finlay; E. D. Thomson, of Rothesay, N. B., and C. S. Eaton, of Winchester, Mass., and R. H. Swoope, Philadelphia and Voigt.

Long's Sport Comment

good, why not have a National Commission that will have jurisdiction over such matters throughout the whole country and power to enforce its regulations anywhere?

That's the thought that has occurred to Frank Wiener, chairman of the Pennsylvania State Athletic Commission. He thinks boxing and wrestling are not properly governed. The creation of state commissions is a step forward, he admits, but merely a step. A Federal Commission is his dream.

Frank Wiener

"WITHOUT a central governing body, nothing can be done to force boxing and wrestling champions and near champions to meet worthy opponents instead of push-overs," Wiener says. "Working agreements between state commission are all right, and they help, but they are incomplete. The National Boxinfi Association is a move in the right direction, but it is handicapped in the fact that it lacks official authority. This commission may move against Sonnenberg or any of the other fellows who are damaging boxing or wrestling, but they simply box or wrestle in some other states, and that's that.

"WHAT we need is a Federal Commission in Washington. With such a body, there would not be two welterweight boxing champions; wrestling champions would not get away with the business of meeting only handpicked opponents, and the air would not be full of phoney offers.

"Then any boxing or wrestling promoter who tried to kid the public that makes those sports possible and profitable would be adequately punished. I suppose it will come some day. In the evolution of the two sports it is certain to come. I only wish I knew of some way of speeding that day."

THE Cubs may be crippled behind the bat during the incapacitation of Hartnett, but they sure are living up to their reputations in the hitting department. In 10 games against Detroit, two against Kansas City and four against Houston, the Bruins averaged seven runs per game, and of their 178 hits 51 were for extra bases.

Wilson leads the regulars with an average of .454; Stephenson is hitting .400; Cuyler, .327; Hornsby, .327; McMillan, .281; Grimm, .272; Beck, .262; English, .194.

Andy Reese

LIKE many Pittsburgh fans who saw signs of uncommon baseball ability in Andy Reese, of the Giants, Manager John McGraw believes that Reese will come through for the New York Nationals in spite of his failure to show the form expected of him since he was placed at second base. "Reese must not be judged too harshly on his showing in some of the games in the South," McGraw declares. "It must be remembered that most of the fields in that part of the country have been cut up by countless ball players who are playing on them each day, and the surfaces of some of them are so jagged that the ball does not bound true.

"FURTHERMORE Reese has been held back by a bad leg. He played second base well enough to suit anybody last fall and I see no reason why he shouldn't play that well again." At that McGraw pointed out that Andy Cohen still is in the running for second base, though he is now handicapped by a leg injury.

The Giant leader denies that he is trying to get Freddie Maguire from the Braves. He says he intends to stand pat on his present material. McGraw plans to start the season with Jimmy Welsh, Melvin Ott and Fred Leach in the outfield, but says he may have to find room later for Eddie Rousi., when the latter begins to hit.

JAMES MASON, boxing manager, writes from Hot Springs, Ark.: "At the Southern Club here the other night, whom did I meet but Harry McIntire, the old Brooklyn and Chicago National League pitcher, one of the headiest hurlers of his day. We talked over the days when he came to Pittsburgh with the Dodgers and Cubs from 1905 to 1912.

"Then I ran into a fighter whom Pittsburghers will remember as Buddy Ryan. I matched Jack McClelland against him for a six-round bout 27 years ago. It took place in Chicago on March 6, 1902, and ended in a draw. Ryan has only one eye, having lost the other when his manager stabbed him in it some years ago."

Tod Sloan

TOD SLOAN, now 54, considered by many veteran judges the greatest jockey of all time, is the guest of friends in Hollywood, with his youngest child, a girl of 6. He told Maxwell Stiles he is a pauper, having kicked all his money away, but expects to get rich again next year out of a couple of gold mines in Sierra County, Cal., which he has owned for 30 years. Save for a brief return to ride Bryan in New Orleans and Kansas City in 1906, Sloan retired from the turf 29 years ago. "The jockeys of today do not average as high as those of 30 years back," he said. "The boys who rode in my time were as good as Sande or Fator, I think. Spencer, Odom, Maher and Willie Shaw, all were as good as Sande, whom I rate as the best of the recent jockeys. I place Fator second to Sande.

"ONLY those two really stand out today. In my day there were half a dozen or more of ability equal to Sande or Fator, and that brought the old-time average up. The highest price I ever received for riding was $14,000, and that was for two races.

"The English and French have the horses—racing fools and always well conditioned. Those foreign horses are bigger and better than ours. They are better trained, too. But the English and French jockeys—if Epinard had been ridden by any one but a clown I don't know what would have happened to our American nags."

UMEK LEADS RUNNERS TO UNIONTOWN

give out 15 prizes. He also raised the entry fee, collecting $300 from each of the contestants and, contrary to the 1928 campaign, is not feeding or housing his trained seals. They pay their own way, all Charles gives 'em is permission to run under his banner.

The affair might be compared to a circus or a carnival, except that there are no elephants to feed. Pyle soaks each town he goes through so much money for the appearance of the boys, his argument being that it is worth the advertisement. Maybe so.

The kids gather about the finish line in sufficient numbers to attract older folks, but the youthful element isn't being taken in by the pageant. Not a bit of it. I overheard one urchin crack to his buddy yesterday as the entries were straggling in—"Aw heck, Jimmy, let's go back and shoot commies."

GAVUZZI, HAMILTON TIE

Big Steve Owen, New York giant professional football player, built like a brick house, is the official referee. He has plenty to do. He superintends arrangements at the theaters where the runners finish each day; looks after the starts, checks the time and sees to it that the patrol cars keep the runners from sneaking "lifts" or cutting across country.

Peter Gavuzzi, the Italian veteran, who claims Southampton, England, as his home and Philip Hamilton, of Ontario, finished in a dead heat for second place yesterday. They covered the distance in 11 hours and 16 seconds. Two more vets, Eddie Gardner, the Seattle negro, and Morris Richman, of New York, tied for fourth. They were 20 minutes behind the second-place duo.

Gardner and Umek made a fine race out of it for the first third of the 60 miles, but after about half the distance had been covered, Umek forged steadily to the fore and led the rest of the pack into the control station by some two hours.

According to Referee Owen, Rod Ellsworth, the Monongahela runner, who went about a third of the way in the 1928 race, did not start in this year's event, though he went to New York for that purpose March 31. Owen intimated that his late appearance ruled him out.

UMEK FAVORED

Camp followers and trainers are picking this Umek to win this year's race. Johnny Salo, who was runner-up to Andy Payne in '28 is also a big favorite. Umek is not among the three leaders in elapsed time at present, but he is close enough to the top that two or three more days of running such as yesterday's will put him out in front.

Gardner is leading so far with a total elapsed time of 62 hours, 59 minutes and 40 seconds. Salo started off in second place today with a time total of 64 hours, 12 minutes and 57 seconds. Gavuzzi holds third place with 65 hours, 46 minutes and seven seconds.

Today's hop to Waynesburg is only about 36 miles and will be welcomed by the boys after their ardous lap yesterday. From Waynesburg they'll move on to Wheeling, thence to Cambridge, O., and then on to Zanesville, Columbus, Springfield, Richmond, Ind., Knightstown and Indianapolis. From there on the course will lead south and west.

Oh yes, I almost forgot. The "Cross Country Follies" aren't so bad. But they'll never panic 'em on Broadway. After viewing the show, one expects Charley himself to come out and sell corn cure.

Instead of the $500 guaranteed C. C. Pyle received only $250 in Uniontown. However, the guarantor's relinquished any claim to the receipts of the Plye show and this for the most part made up the deficit.

The Keystone Club will conclude its amateur boxing season with an intercity show between Pittsburgh and Buffalo teams in its gymnasium Wednesday evening, April 24. Seven bouts will be arranged.

Tex Hamer, former University of Pennsylvania football star, makes his professional boxing debut against Al Mason, Boston heavyweight, in one of the bouts at the Arena, Philadelphia, next Monday night.

Johnny Smackey, Canonsburg lightweight, is anxious to meet Ken Hargraves, of New Kensington, in a return bout. Hargraves, who knocked out Paddy Mahan at Motor Square Garden last Monday night, is the only boxer aside from Tommy Heilman ever to defeat Smackey in the latter's 19 bouts, and Johnny later evened up with Heilman. He made a strong finish against Hargraves after getting off to a slow start in their bout at Washington, Pa., Abie Witz is handling Smackey.

CANZONERI EXTENDED

MILWAUKEE, April 10.—(AP.)—Eddie Anderson, rejuvenated veteran 130-pounder from Chicago, forced Tony Canzoneri, former world featherweight champion, to extend himself to the limit to win a close 10-round bout here last night.

A. B. C. TOURNEY IS BROUGHT TO CLOSE

CHICAGO, April 10.—(AP.)—The largest and most successful American Bowling Congress tournament in history closed last night with Wisconsin keglers carrying away the largest cut of the record-sized $107,700 prize melon.

Although the Badgers did not enter as many maple trundlers as Illinois, they easily carried away more money than any state in the competition. In addition to placing the leader in the singles, five of the first 10 leaders in the five-men event and a member of the big 10 in the all-events, they hung up high enough scores to win considerable money in the doubles.

Illinois was second, while third place was a matter of conjecture between scattered states in the Middle West and East.

The Hub Recreations, of Joliet, Ill., won the five-men event with a 3,063 total. W. Klecz and Pete Butler, of Chicago, topped the doubles field with 1,358 pins. A. Unke of Milwaukee, won the singles with his 728 total and Otto Stein, Jr., of St. Louis, was the all-events champion, toppling 1,974 pins.

year ago. The slick infielder is one of the surest batters in camp and he has been for the past month. Dick plays with a determination that bespeaks a wild desire to be a regular, and it is not talking out of turn to state he has sold himself to Bush and Dreyfuss.

EXPECT GOOD PITCHING

One year ago this time the Buccos were taking almost daily trimmings from all sorts of minor league teams, largely because the club's pitchers were not even close to form. The other side of the picture is seen this spring. Bush has six or eight pitchers fighting to get "in there."

TIGERS BEATEN, 10-3

The Bushwhackers gave the Bengals a real trimming, the score being 10 to 3. Carmen Hill was in fine form for four frames and Lee Meadows, in the finishing role, also had a lot of stuff. Prudhomme, Barnes and Vangilder were on the mound for the Tigers.

Dick Bartell, with four hits and a snappy brand of fielding, was a star of the game. Sparky Adams was back in the lineup, his playing also being clever. Sparky was in the leadoff position, his bat clicking three hits.

Earl Sheely put the Pirates in a fair way to win in the first round when he hammered a homer over the right field wall with two of his mates on the sacks. The Buccos were not headed from that point and as they went along they added consistently to their total. The smart twirling of the two Pittsburgh veterans, on the other hand, stilled the Jungaleer offensive.

GOLF AS CHAMPIONS PLAY IT

Answered By

BOB CRUICKSHANK,

Winner of Los Angeles, San Antonio, Hot Springs, North-and-South Open Championships, 1927. Maryland Open, 1928.

Clubs for the novice should be light in weight, since he has not developed any golf muscles to swing and control heavier clubs. For a drive I would suggest 12¾ or 13 ounces and the brassie the same. The midiron should be about 12¾ ounces, the jigger or mashie 13½, the mashie niblick 13½, the niblick 13, and the putter 13 to 14 ounces. The irons must be heavier because stronger service is required of them.

I do not approve of too heavy clubs, as they are apt to spoil the feeling of touch and tend toward very poor timing in striking the ball.

CHARTIERS GOLF LINKS NEAR PERFECTION

By VERN SWARTSFAGER.

The greatest change I have noted in any golf course in this district for several years is to be found down in Crafton, at the Chartiers Heights Country Club. The layout there is as different as day is from night in comparing its condition during the construction period, from the very beginning to last year—and its present shape.

Turf that had given the club members no end of worry, holes that were rather discouraging are all gone, now. The Chartiers Heights layout at this time, with its permanent greens opened since Good Friday and destined to stay open throughout the season, is just as near perfect as it will ever be—and that stage of perfection has produced a marvelous effect, one that district linksmen will delight in playing and thereafter recommend in the highest of glowing terms of praise.

REAL TRANSFORMATION

It is no secret that golfers who have played at Chartiers Heights in the past have told tales of unfavorable conditions. I'll vouch that if these men contemplate playing the layout this season, they'll shift into reverse opinions. For no such transformation of a golf course has ever attained the heights Chartiers has in its rather rocky road to the top. And today its members may put it on exhibition, as it were, without the least fear for unfavorable criticism.

Hundreds of tons of fertilizer were put upon the course last winter and this nurturing has brought out the best in the turf. Every fairway gives one a good lie; every putting green is near to perfection.

A number of new traps were also put in, about 10 of major proportion. A long sand-pit on the seventh hole will tend to speed up play, keeping balls from wandering into heavy rough. A ditch in front of the eighth tee has been filled in, and a small viaduct has been built across to the green on that beautiful hole. The fifth hole has had a number of improvements, making it a superb thing to behold.

Throughout the links improvements are to be marked. Take it from me, Chartiers Heights has a transformed—and a real golf course.

The membership campaign at that club is simmering down, as the club limit nears. More than 45 new members will be playing at Chartiers Heights this season. It is expected the campaign will not run longer than mid-May, when a waiting list will be in order.

About 140 of its golfers braved the July weather of last Saturday, while close to 250 turned out for the August-like Sunday.

ROBB PREXY AGAIN

Don Robb, local banker, again is chief executive at the Crafton club, with F. A. Ogden, vice president, Ernest Grother, secretary-treasurer and Ed Taylor, assistant secretary.

Jack McGhee is still chairman of the green committee; Walter H. Mennigke heads the house committee; Clyde Scott directs the field committee and the happy-go-lucky Carl C. Borchers is chairman of the trapshooting committee.

New members on the board of directors are Harry Hachmeister and A. Callender.

Dale Zimmerman has returned to the job as pro; Jimmy Manning is his assistant, and Ray Mink remains in the good role of club manager.

MEN WHO SMOKE AND GUARD THEIR HEALTH, SMOKE CIGARS

DOCTOR EMILE WINSTEL

Knight of the Legion of Honor and a Leading French Physician

ADVISES MEN WHO SMOKE TO SMOKE CIGARS

Doctor Emile Winstel is one of the leading physicians of France, and an executive of the famous Association of Physicians of Lorraine. He served brilliantly in the French Army during the War and was decorated with the Cross of Knight of the Legion of Honor.

La Palina is America's Largest Selling High Grade Cigar (OVER A MILLION A DAY). Its outstanding popularity is the best proof of its unusual quality.

"Medical science has definitely proved that the more nearly one conforms to nature the better the general health."

"This principle holds true not only in the selection and preparation of foods, etc., but also in the use of tobacco. I would, therefore, advise those who smoke to use cigars, since they are made entirely of tobacco, a purely natural product in its natural state. No artificial substance is added, nor is any treatment applied that puts into cigar tobacco that which nature did not intend to be in it."

D^r Winstel

TO make them smokeable, all forms of tobacco, except the cigar, have introduced into them certain artificial substances such as glycerine, sugar, licorice, saltpeter and chocolate. These apparently harmless adulterants are responsible for the by-products Furfural and Acrolein—twin irritants which, with Nicotine, when inhaled, act destructively on tissue and the cells of the nervous system. Incorporated into the blood through the lungs, they are a major cause of the unstrung nerves, decreased vitality, racking coughs and throat irritations so prevalent amongst men who smoke tobacco other than the cigar.

The cigar, on the other hand, is made entirely of fine tobaccos cured and matured by natural methods, by wind and sun, without the addition of adulterants. And so rich is the flavor of these tobaccos that they yield a full, generous satisfaction without the necessity of inhalation, which medical science believes is the outstanding reason for the prevalence of nervous disorders amongst smokers. Then, too, a cigar is smoked for taste and not in response to the urge of harried nerves.

In addition, cigar smoke is cool. Its tobacco burns slowly and is further cooled and filtered as it is drawn through the body of the cigar, and because no quick-burning foreign substance is used for wrapper. Thus the burning, drying effect of hot tobacco smoke upon the tender tissues of the throat common to smokers of other forms of tobacco is unknown to smokers of cigars.

Try smoking cigars—exclusively—for one week. You'll feel much better—nerves placid, vitality increased, tired feeling gone—freed from cough and throat irritation.

To really test cigars with justice to yourself and to cigars, we suggest the test be made with La Palinas. Since they are America's largest selling high grade cigar—over a million a day—you can smoke them confident that they will please you.

The sensational success of La Palina results from an exclusive and secret blend which combines for the first time in one cigar, an extreme mildness with a rare richness of both taste and fragrance.

DAVISON PLANS GIVE IMPETUS TO PIG IRON

By GEORGE H. SNYDER.

NEW impetus will be given the merchant pig iron industry in this district when the Davison Coke and Iron Company starts production at its Neville Island plant about June 1. For several years the operators of merchant blast furnaces have been fighting a losing battle due to the low pig iron costs obtainable by steel mills and the increased output of modern furnaces.

But the Davison Coke and Iron Company has found a way to meet present low prices by the construction of a $12,000,000 plant which combines the production of coke, gas, pig iron, cement, and electric power with cheap river transportation. Modern machinery will permit use to be made of every by-product, so that costs as low as those of pig iron produced by fully integrated steel plants man be achieved.

Public participation in the ownership of the company is being made possible by an offering of a block of the 6 per cent cumulative preferred stock by K. W. Todd & Co., the Colonial Trust Company and Moore, Leonard & Lynch.

THE $6,500,000 of preferred stock will participate in dividend payments on an equal basis with the 100,000 shares of common stock after the junior issue has received $3 a share in any one year.

A large share of the financing was taken care of by companies which have constructed portions of the plants, will supply raw materials or distribute the finished products. The Allen S. Davison Company, in the coke trade; W. J. Rainey, Inc., coal producer; the Davison Ore Mining Company; the Dravo Contracting Company; the Shenango Furnace Company, in the pig iron business; the Koppers Company, builders of the by-product ovens; M. A. Hanna Company, pig iron brokers, and others have subscribed for $5,000,000 of the preferred stock.

ALL of these are organizations of widespread influence and their financial interest, as well as other relationships, is expected to greatly contribute to the success of the new company's operations. George S. Davison, president of the Gulf Refining Company, one of the strongest of the Mellon organizations, is president of the Davison Coke and Iron Company and was the leading influence in the formation of the enterprise.

Where other merchant pig iron producers have been scratching out a bare existence under the low prices for pig iron, the Davison plant on Neville Island expects profits of about $1,284,136 a year after taxes, interest and depreciation as a result of its strategic location and its use of by-products.

Coal will be shipped by barge, presumably from the Rainey mines, down the Monongahela River to the by-product coke plant on the island. In the process of making enough coke to supply the Neville Island blast furnace as well as the furnace owned at Sharpsville, gas will be made to supply fuel for the cement plant with some to spare which will be sold to the Manufacturers Light and Heat Company. Besides this, valuable by-products such as ammonium sulphate, tar, benzol and motor fuel will be extracted.

ORE will be brought in over the Pittsburgh and Ohio Valley Railroad, a subsidiary, which connects the island plant with long lines entering this district. Finished pig iron can be shipped by river or by rail. The slag which the isolated blast furnace throws on an unsightly pile or merely crushes for road use will be made into cement. The waste gas from the blast furnace will be used to generate steam for a power plant. This will supply electricity for all of the company's operations and the surplus will be sold to the Duquesne Light Company.

The nearness to the city of Pittsburgh will open a good market for cement to be shipped directly by truck at a large saving in transportation costs.

Both the blast furnace and the cement plant will be smokeless and dustless so that while they are bringing new industrial activity to the city they will not add to the smoke evil.

EVENING SUN-TELEGRAPH MARKETS

STOCK MARKET JUMPY, PRICES FLUCTUATE

NEW YORK, April 10.—(AP.)—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment in today's stock market testified to the nervousness prevailing in professional trading circles. Prices moved upward at the opening, broke sharply after midday when acute weakness developed in the radio shares and a few specialties, and then rallied again when heavy buying was resumed in the oil group.

Call money renewed at 5 per cent but advanced to 9 as banks continued to call loans in preparation for mid-month settlements. Time money continued firm. The New York Clearing House Association today approved a change in the rules whereby a charge of not less than one-half of 1 per cent per annum shall be paid on loans placed for the account of out of town banks. Similar action on loans placed for the account of private individuals and corporations was taken last August.

STEEL ORDERS GAIN

One of the most important business developments of the day was the announcement of a gain of 266,377 tons in the unfilled orders of the United States Steel Corporation last month. Iron Age states: "Steel production for both March and the first quarter was so large as to raise doubts among steel makers themselves as to how long the pace can continue. Ingot output not only established new records, but did so by much larger margins than had been expected—for March by 500,000 tons, and for the quarter by 900,000 tons."

U. S. Steel opened 1¼ points higher at 187¾, dropped to 185 and then recovered its loss on the tonnage announcement. Superior Steel, which has been under pool manipulation, dropped 4 points. Most of the other steels pointed upward.

The break in the radio shares confirmed reports of "air pockets" in the market. Kolster, which sold as high as 78¾ this year, broke 11 points to 32, and Crosley dropped 5 points. Radio Corporation moved up 3½ points to 96½ and then fell back to 92. Short selling was an important factor in the decline.

Wright Aeronautical broke 11 points. International Telephone 9 and corporations was taken last named touching a new 1929 low at 117½. The drop of 5½ points in Hupp Motors to a new low at 55½ was associated with unconfirmed rumors of liquidation by one of Wall Street's most prominent operators.

OIL RECOVERS

Pan American issues, both of which touched new high levels for the year, led the recovery in oil shares. One block of 10,000 shares of Pan American B changed hands at 55, and the stock later moved up to 55½. Indian Refining common and the certificates also moved into new high ground. Houston sold 4 points higher.

Yellow Truck was heavily bought on reports that the company finally had turned the corner after seven years of unprofitable business. One block of 10,000 shares changed hands at 45 followed by a further advance to 45½, up 4½ points. A further downward readjustment in the price of export copper by customs smelters brought about some liquidation in the copper group on the theory that it foreshadowed a decline in domestic prices.

Many of the popular shares, particularly the merchandise and office equipment groups, advanced in the last hour. Montgomery-Ward and Underwood-Elliott-Fisher moved up more than 6 points each. Here and there in the list, however, shares were under pressure after the call money rate was raised to 10 per cent. Adams Express slumped 20 points to 620. The closing tone was irregular. Total sales approximated 3,300,000 shares.

CHICAGO BOARD

CHICAGO, April 10.—Fluctuating rapidly within a range of about two cents, with the lowest prices being reached in the last hour, wheat today finished a moderate decline. Aside from a bearish construction placed upon the United States Government crop report, today's weather and crop advices about wheat were favorable, including news of rains in the West and of some moisture in Canada. Besides, export demand today for wheat shipments from North America was less active.

Wheat closed nervous, ¾ to 1¼ cents net lower, corn ¼ @ ¾ to ½ cents down, oats ⅝ @ ½ to ⅝ cents off and provisions at a setback of 10 to 35 cents.

Inland Waterways Claimed As Vital Form of Farm Aid

—By B. C. FORBES—

THE best possible farm relief for the middle-third of the United States would be cheap transportation through the development of inland waters.

That claim, made by interested authorities is, in a broad sense, supported by this declaration made by Mr. Hoover:

"Modern forms of development have made water carriage the cheapest of all transportation for many types of goods. Broadly, 1,000 bushels of wheat can be transported 1,000 miles on the sea for $20 to $30, by large lake steamers for $20 to $30, by our modern equipped Mississippi barge service for $60 to $70, and by the railroads for $150 to $200. These estimates are based not on hypothetical calculation, but on the actual going freight rates.

"If we would provide for the 40 millions of increased population that this quarter of a century will bring us, we either must build more trunk lines of railways in the states which can be served by waterway systems or we must improve our waterways to take part of the burden."

HUNDREDS of millions of dollars have been and are being spent on bringing to realization the Hoover vision presented in yesterday's column, picturing a vast network of inland water routes spreading from the Mississippi River like branches from a tree. What will this far-flung work mean to America? Answering that question fully three years ago, Mr. Hoover, then Secretary of Commerce, said:

"Through the improvement of our waterways it will be possible to distribute industry and population better, because the waterway tends to place many towns and cities upon an equality in transportation. Proper development of waterways should contribute to move industry closer to the agricultural consumer, give a nearer market to agriculture and a greater diversification of occupation between agriculture and industry to the mutual benefit of both.

"Our agriculture and industries are based on higher standards of living than those of foreign competitors, and if we would maintain these standards we must secure the cheapest form of transportation of agriculture and industrial products both to domestic and world markets."

HE added:

"On the Mississippi system, which includes the Missouri River, the engineering questions are behind us. We know what we should do. We know its vast benefits; we know it can be accomplished by a comparatively trivial cost compared to the benefits.

"The experience and skill which we have developed in the control of floods, in the equalization of stream flow and in the building of great dams and canals aand stupendous reservoirs, make us sure in our results. We can proceed in the future with a certainty of step which has not hitherto been possible."

THOSE who, like President Hoover, enampions the vigorous opening up of waterways for transportation are extremely anxious that the public indorse adequate appropriation by Congress.

The claims made as to savings to be effected appear extraordinary. For example, this table was supplied me in Omaha the other day by a representative of the Missouri River Navigation Association, contrasting the rail and water rate on wheat per ton "from Omaha to various consuming points reached by the inland waterway system:"

From Omaha to:	Rail Rate	Water Rate	Saving
St. Louis	$2.70	$1.30	$1.40
Chicago	3.50	2.00	1.50
Memphis	5.00	2.10	2.90
New Orleans
Export	6.30	3.60	2.70
Domestic	8.40	3.60	4.80
Louisville	5.30	2.40	2.90
Cincinnati	5.00	2.70	2.90
Pittsburgh	7.30	3.60	3.70

THE writer, possibly because of inexperience and ignorance, has always felt lukewarm towards man-made inland water transportation projects, but Herbert Hoover should know definitely whereof he speaks. And certainly anything within reason that can be done to aid the agricultural heart of America should be done.

COTTON MARKET

NEW YORK, April 10.—Cotton opened steady today at a decline of 6 points to an advance of 1 point. There was considerable bullish comment on standard cloth statistics, which showed sales 20.2 per cent over production, with an increase of 6.9 per cent in unfilled orders for March. These figures apparently had either been discounted or were offset by the relatively easy cables and favorable features in the weekly report of the Weather Bureau.

After some irregularity prices eased off to 19.95c for July and 19.96c for October. Active months showed net declines of about 10 to 14 points by the end of the first half hour. Selling was attributed largely to realizing or liquidation through commission house sources.

Private cables reported local and foreign realizing in Liverpool on better weather reports from the South.

Part of the early selling was supposed to be on a rather better weather map than expected and reports that showers would be beneficial in some parts of the eastern belt. The forecast for additional showers in that section however, caused some uneasiness over the weather outlook and offerings were well enough absorbed on the early decline to steady the market later in the morning. At midday prices showed rallies of several points from the lowest with active months showing net losses of about 4 to 6 points.

FINANCIAL NEWS AND VIEWS

Money Holds Market Back.

Further stringency in the money market halted an upward movement in stocks today despite favorable trade advices from many different sources. The one drab spot in the trade situation was in copper metal, where the price sank back to below 20 cents a pound domestic delivery as against a recent price of 24 cents. The big sellers, however, are said to be sold out to midsummer and are standing aside. It was reported some copper had been offered today at 19¼ cents, but the formal figure was 19¾. This was all small volume business done by custom smelters, and there was no assurance that the figures represented the real copper market. Copper stocks were firm today, the first time this week, indicating that the present decline in price has been pretty well discounted. Money shot up again to 10 per cent and stifled any desire to rush in on the buying side. There was a report in the Street that W. C. Durant was liquidating, the story evidently arising out of the fact that some of his pet stocks were under pressure, notably Hupp Motor. Better prices were anticipated by some observers today on the theory that yesterday was the last day's business to appear in the loan reported to be issued Thursday, and as the week was one of receding prices throughout, the report will probably show a big drop in brokers' obligations. The unfilled steel orders were about as the Street expected, showing an increase of 266,000 tons. Predictions had been for a gain of between 200,000 and 300,000 tons.

Less Steel "Floating."

Brokers' holdings of U. S. Steel common on March 31, last, were 1,685,502 shares, or 23.68 per cent of the total outstanding, against 1,718,256, of 24.15 per cent three months ago and 1,698,546, or 23.86 per cent on March 31, 1928. Investors' holding of the common totaled 5,430,733 shares, or 76.32 per cent of the total issue, against 5,397,979, or 75.85 per cent last December, and 5,417,689, or 76.14 per cent on March 31, 1928. Brokers' holdings of preferred March 31 were 226,684 shares, of 6.29 per cent of the total outstanding, against 221,546, or 6.15 per cent the previous quarter, and investors held 3,376,127 shares, or 93.71 per cent, against 3,381,265, or 93.85 per cent in the December quarter.

Kolster Radio.

The fact that the Kolster Radio Company made such a small showing in 1928 in a big radio year is attributed by the company to unforeseen difficulties in securing various manufacturing supplies, which, in addition to preventing the filling large orders on hand, besides the $13,000,000 actually booked, necessitated the expenditure of considerable sums to enable the company to meet merchandise requirements of its dealers and distributors. Gross sales were actually 43 per cent greater than the previous year. The company has taken steps to avoid repetition in 1929 by insuring adequate manufacturing facilities through the erection of a new plant in Newark, N. J., which, in addition to allowing a substantially increased production of receivers, will permit the company to manufacture many parts hitherto purchased from suppliers.

Copper Near 20-Cent Level.

Refined copper prices, which recently spurted upward to new post-war levels of 24 cents a pound, domestic, today appeared to have found a resting level around 20 cents. Custom smelters, by permission of Copper Exporters, Inc., which controls the foreign sales, offered limited tonnage at 20 cents a pound, a drop of 2¼ cents under yesterday, and made a corresponding cut in their domestic quotation, bringing it to 19¾ cents a pound. Having sold out production almost four months ahead, big producers remained out of the market and officially maintained their quotations of 24 cents, domestic, and 24¾ cents, export. It was believed in trade circles, however, that prices generally would have to find a lower level when the leading producers resume taking large orders.

Chicago, Great Western.

Election of Arthur W. Cutten as a director of the Chicago and Great Western Railroad is construed in Wall street as an indication that the Cutten-Fisher interests have practically obtained working control of that railroad. In view of the large amount of traffic controlled by these interests through their ownership of substantial holdings in such corporations as General Motors, Baldwin, Sinclair, Montgomery Ward and Armour & Co., it is generally believed that much new business will be routed over the road's lines.

Loan Charges Increased.

Members of the New York Clearing House, at their meeting today, adopted a proposal to raise charges on the handling of brokers' loans. One proposal changes the charge on loans placed for out-of-town banks to ½ of 1 per cent of the amount of each loan, and places a minimum size upon such loans placed of $100,000 each. This places the loans for out-of-town banks under the same restrictions which clearing house banks placed on the handling of loans for individuals and corporations last summer. Another proposal involves the charge of 1 per cent on day loans to brokers, which are now handled without charge. These loans are distinct from call loans, and are sought by brokers for the purpose of taking care of emergency requirements which develop too late to be met through call loans. It is estimated that this charge would cost brokers from $5,000,000 to $6,000,000 a year.

Ford Surplus off $72,221,000.

The 1928 financial statement of the Ford Motors Company, filed with the Massachusetts commissioner of Corporations, shows a profit and loss surplus of $582,629,563 as of December 31 last, as compared with $654,851,061 for the year 1927. The indicated loss of $72,221,498 did not take into account any dividends withdrawn during 1928 by Henry Ford, his wife, and Edsel Ford, the three owners of the company. It is believed unlikely, however, that any payments were made to the stockholding trio in view of recent expenditures in connection with reorganization of plant and product which caused an indicated loss of $42,786,727 in 1927.

United States Express.

Stockholders of the United States Express Company have been notified by President D. I. Roberts that he has received an offer for the stock which would net holders $3.75 a share, provided he can deliver 51 per cent of the stock. The company, which formerly conducted a nation-wide express business, has been liquidating its assets since 1914, when it decided to go out of the business. No intimation as to the identity of the purchasers was available. Mr. Roberts explained that the last piece of property owned by the company was real estate in Chicago valued at between $100,000 and $150,000, sale of which could not possibly net stockholders more than 75 cents a share. Mr. Roberts said he could not account for the recent market activity in the stock.

Erie "Coming Back."

No comment was made on the plan which it is understood was under discussion by the Erie Railroad board to retire the two issues of 4 per cent non-cumulative preferred by an issuance of 6 per cent preferred. The road has paid no dividends since 1907. President Bernet was optimistic on the outlook. March earnings he said would be fully as good as a year ago when net income was over $750,000. This would indicate net for first quarter would be about $1,900,000 against $361,771 in 1928 quarter. "Erie is coming back," he declared. "but not as rapidly as I hoped. It is coming back gradually. This year on the whole ought to be a better year than last."

Toothache and Decapitation.

The investment research bureau believes that entirely too much attention has been devoted to brokers' loans. Inasmuch as it believes that they do not represent the amounts borrowed to enable brokers' customers ta carry stocks on margin to the extent that most commentators believe. "There is no doubt that Federal Reserve authorities will succeed in deflating brokers' loans if present restrictive measures are persisted in, inasmuch as business will ultimately be adversely affected. Such a course, however, is similar to decapitation as a remedy for toothache."

"THE DANGER SIGNAL."

This play, which is described as a "thrilling melodrama with comic situations," is in four acts, and was a great favorite of the theater-going public of the early '70s. The scene is laid in Laramie Bend, a small town in Montana and a junction point for the newly-constructed Laramie and Montana Railroad. A few miles from the village is a military camp where a villainous lieutenant who has evil designs is stationed. The story centers around the keen rivalry of this officer and a young railroader for the beautiful heroine who is known as "Rose, the Pride of Laramie Trail."

The dramatic moment of "The Danger Signal" occurs when the quick-witted Rose averts an impending train wreck, thereby saving the lives of hundreds of passengers, but at the same time endangering the life of her honest courtier with whom she is in love.

BUGS BAER Says

DO NOT CHECK YOUR HAT

"Bugs" Baer

YOU can never tell what a collegiate will do unless you ask him to do something and then he will do it wrong.

The boys start a lot of fads that do not mean any more than a squeal on the long distance dial.

They started that balloon trousers fad. That stopped when the man who wore the widest trousers was blown to sea.

Then they went in for raccoon coats and refused to come out.

It's all right to wear a raccoon coat. But it is dangerous to growl in one.

The latest fad on the campus esplanade is to go without hats.

Hats are supposed to protect your heads.

We admit that freshmen have nothing to protect.

When a collegian starts a fad he is like the U. S. mail. He stops for neither rain, wind, snow or lack of stamps.

A man without a hat in the rain is like a milk can without a lid. He is going to get diluted.

The reason man wears a hat is the same routine of logical sequence which actuates a builder when he puts a roof on a house. He not only protects the attic, but the more important sections of the house.

From time immemorial, which is a very reasonable moratorium, man has worn a hat. His first headgear was made of the skins of wild animals, then he wore feathers, jewels and gold.

The crown of man reached its glorious climax when Napoleon donned the crown of France and Happy Hooligan matched him with a tomato can.

Both Nappy and Happy had the same idea. Protection from the elements and stray wisps of leadpipe.

Why do you suppose King Arthur and Lancelot had their toppers made by the village blacksmith?

They knew that a crack on the helmet was worth two on the skull.

A hat not only protects you from your enemies but also from your friends. The advantage of wearing a hat is that you are always liable to get a better one at a party.

We should advise all young men to wear hats during snowstorms, rain and otherwise. A hat is a man's best friend. And you will notice that the high death rate in many sections of the world is due to sick people in bed who refuse to wear hats.

Anyway, the spirit of law enforcement is flaming to new heights since the passage of the Jones bill. Note the following item from New Mexico:

"The Sheriff of Quay County has served notice on the bootleggers of that county that he will allow them a reasonable time to get rid of their stock on hand and then to keep out of the business, as he and his office force are going to see that the business is going to be kept out of Quay County, or so far as they are able. He stated that while he knew he could not keep some from selling whisky and home brew, the practice can be done less openly and not in front of everyone, and protection for the violators is a thing of the past, at least, for two years."

Is Your Child a Manual Idiot?

When struck with a hammer, does your boy's knee reflex like this? Try it some time.

Parents can often determine a child's natural bent by simple home tests.

For example, it is well to find out whether or not the youngster is a manual idiot.

Smear the child's hands with grease. Then lock him in a closed car. Peek through the window. If the child wipes his hands on the upholstering, then he has the temperament of an automobile mechanic or garage owner, and there is nothing you can do about it.

However, a bill is being prepared for the Legislature which will provide that every boy at the age of 12 be automatically placed in Leavenworth Penitentiary. Our readers are urged to work for the passage of this measure.

WHY PITTSBURGH IS GREAT

News and Propaganda

Dr. Duncan Criticizes the Local Newspapers.

An official United States government report concerning the loss of lives in connection with the enforcement of prohibition was made the other day in Washington.

Assistant Secretary of the United States Treasury Seymour Lowman, in this official report to Under Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, stated 25 lives had been lost in the past 15 months. The total loss of lives since 1920, as shown by government figures, totaled 190.

This government report was sent broadcast from the national capital by wire services and newspaper correspondents and was, as usual, published in newspapers throughout the land. Thus far the only objection (recorded in print) to the publication of this government information, or report, comes from one of the leading ministers of Pittsburgh. This prominent minister is the Rev. Dr. W. Wofford T. Duncan, pastor of Emory Methodist Episcopal Church, in this city.

Referring to the publication of the government report, in a general and harsh attack on all of the Pittsburgh newspapers that carried it, Dr. Duncan sums up his own opinion as follows:

"This is not news, it is propaganda."

We presume—it is only a presumption—from this statement that Dr. Duncan, feeling the government report on the killing of 25 persons in 15 months of dry enforcement "is not news," also feels it has no place in a newspaper.

The Sun-Telegraph printed the government report in the belief it was not only news, but vital news.

We feel our readers are entitled to have all of the news.

We are willing to leave it to our readers to decide whether a report by the government on a national problem is news that they should receive, the same as did the newspaper readers in all sections of the country.

Dr. Duncan's denunciation of the Pittsburgh newspapers for carrying this news ("propaganda," as he terms it) was made in a sermon in his church at a service which the Islam Grotto members attended. In the synopsis of his sermon, sent out by Dr. Duncan himself, he concludes with the statement:

"When public sentiment such as the Grotto and other such social organizations can create is aroused, it is almost omnipotent."

The Sun-Telegraph, of course, does not aspire to be "almost omnipotent," but it does aspire to be informative, and to print the news.

By this same token we felt that Dr. Duncan's attack on us, and all of the other newspapers of this city, for printing the official government report on prohibition enforcement killings, was entitled to consideration in our news columns and we did not suppress it under the phrase he applied to the government report, "This is not news, it is propaganda."

Death of Beidleman Ends Ambitious Career

The death of Edward E. Beidleman, former lieutenant governor of Pennsylvania, brings to an end the life of a man who gained honor and position because in his youth he determined they would be his. Educated in the public schools of his native city, Harrisburg, he "read" law, which was his life's profession along with politics. At the age of 32 he was a member of the House of Representatives, becoming very active and prominent for so young a man.

Serving three terms as a Representative, he became a State Senator for two terms, being honored in the second half of his second term by being elected president pro tempore of the Senate, of which body he was a member until he resigned on taking the office of lieutenant governor in 1919, having been elected in November of the previous year.

Always a dominant figure in Dauphin, his home county, and well known in political circles throughout the state, he came largely in the public eye, as a candidate for the Republican nomination for governor, for which he was defeated, after a hot fight, by John S. Fisher, of Indiana, our present governor. Mr. Beidleman, ever a temperate man, perhaps a teetotaler, was opposed to the prohibition law and made that one of the issues of his campaign.

A boy with a common school education as basis, he aimed high, achieved height and probably would have gone higher had he lived.

Our Oil Supply

A National Waste.

In this fortunate country our problem is what to do with too much oil, and how to avoid squandering one of the greatest national sources of wealth.

President Hoover, who is an engineer, and had much to do with conservation, may be able to help. Meanwhile the oil industry seems to make little progress.

A man that strikes oil wants to get money for his oil. The only way to get it is to SELL it for what it will bring, sometimes wasting much of it in the selling process and injuring all oil properties. Lack of management squanders a great source of national wealth.

The "Common" Soldier

Britain Will Give Him a Chance.

The British General Staff plans to give even the commonest kind of a common soldier a chance to attain any rank in the army.

Napoleon's saying that the simple soldier carried a marshal's baton in his knapsack is to be made a reality in Britain, if the common soldier can rise to the occasion. If he has the ability "Tommy Atkins" may become a general.

This country gives as poor a chance of advancement to the common every day soldier as any. Perhaps a way will be found to change that.

Tales That Are Told

Fell Flat

SHE was a good wife in most ways, but she had one great failing. Never could she be persuaded to sew a button on for him.

At last he made up his mind to see what effect sarcasm would have upon her.

"Oh, by the way, my dear," he said, when she was about to go out shopping next, "you might get me some needles and thread, will you?"

She turned to him with a benevolent smile.

"You silly, extravagant boy," she cooed, "you can always borrow mine, you know."

Quite Sure

ON his way to school one morning, Freddie saw a man repairing the grate over a drain. He stopped to watch him. Then he remembered something.

"Oh," he announced, "that's the drain where my brother dropped a dollar the other day."

The workman became interested.

"Is that so?" he said. "Well, run along, sonny, or you'll be late for school."

When Freddie passed again at lunch-time the man was still there.

"Are you sure it was in this drain that the dollar was lost?" he asked as he saw the lad.

Freddie nodded.

"Yes; I watched my father getting it out."

What He Was After

AN extremely successful business man was giving an address on "Commercial Acumen" to a class of students.

The business man, in speaking of his career, mentioned a certain company which had been wound up on account of its shady practices.

"Of course," he said righteously, "as soon as I realized that there were possibilities of dishonest profit being made, I got out of it."

One student rose with an air of interrogation. "Er—will you finish the sentence?" he asked. "How much did you get out of it?"

Mr. Fuggle Fixes It

THERE was no doubting the fact that Mr. Fuggle was angry. Felicity, his daughter, knew the signs.

"Once again, let me repeat," yelled her father, "I strongly object to your marrying this young Wuggle. He has no brains, is poor, and utterly without manners or backbone! The future of this country depends on men who do things. Remember, I'll not tolerate this ill-advised match."

"But, father, I had no intention of marrying Reggie. In view of what you've just said, however, I'd like to see you stop me from doing it. We'll elope this evening."

Later, Father Fuggle (to himself)—"Thank heaven, I've done it!"

Worst Story I Have Heard Today

By WILL ROGERS

A GUY that had had a fight with his girl was getting her to make it all up again. She said all right, that she wasn't going to badger him any more, and they might as well be good friends at least.

"And I'm awful sorry I was so dumb I wouldn't let you come to see me or take me out for 10 days," she says. "It must have made you feel terrible."

"Oh, I don't know," he says. "I'm right glad to be made up again, but still I did save pretty near a hundred bucks during them 10 days."

LISTEN, WORLD!

By Elsie Robinson

MOST people go through life with an increasing sense of futility and frustration.

Others fail them, their plans go astray, their dreams crumble. They find nothing permanent upon which to fix their faith and enthusiasm. Nothing endures—

But something DOES endure.

There is something upon which a man may always fix his interest, and to which he may always give his energy without being betrayed and that thing is Life itself.

Do not limit your existence by your own self—

And your family and friends—

And the things that happen to you—

For if you do you are at the mercy of each trivial change, each slight disaster. And with the passing of your little circle you will be left bankrupt.

Reach out rather and embrace Life itself.

Make yourself part of its movements and its mystery.

Whenever you feel yourself becoming hemmed in by petty, personal concerns turn deliberately and contemplate Life.

Think how diversified life is—how many different kinds of people there are—how many different codes of behavior—yet how all of it works, somehow, into a vast pattern of which your little existence is a part.

Stop thinking about the tiny world which you have created for yourself, and look at the world as it really is.

Study the good and bad in life, the pleasant and painful.

Do not get mad while you study. Do not take sides or judge things by your personal standards. Observe it as you would observe a great show. You do not get mad when you watch a great show. You do not want the actors to follow your code. You watch with interest, with detachment. And, as you watch you learn.

Accept Life in that same spirit. Open your heart to Life, receiving whatever lesson it may offer you. Ask not that it give you only gentle lessons. Ask, rather, that you shall learn all that it is possible to learn and experience all that it is possible to experience.

And then, when Life answers your prayer, do not flinch, or try to go back on your bargain.

Do not whine.

Do not demand explanations.

Remember that all things that happen in Life are mysterious. Birth is a mystery—love and death are mysteries. You yourself are the greatest mystery of all.

You cannot explain these mysteries, nor control them. But you can bear yourself gallantly under all circumstances. And the pride that comes from that will compensate you for much suffering.

Go out into Life!

Study it! Make yourself part of its vast movement. Ask for its abundance. Accept its challenge! And hold yourself gallantly. That is the secret of great living.

Only by this method can you keep your spirit from frustration.

Only through this method may you be FREED!

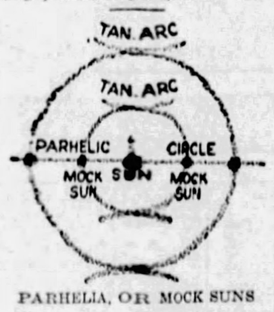
SIGNS AND OMENS

By Garrett P. Serviss

"Will you please inform us of the significance of the appearance, on November 5 last, at about 1:30 p. m., of one-half circle rainbow with ends pointing north and another semi-circle bow pointed south, both being near the sun, and with sun like spots at each end of the bow pointing south? The southern bow disappeared first, while the northern bow was seen to have little white streamers the length of it. There was no rain. Do you think it was a sign of extensive floods? I believe God hangs out signs to us by which he talks to us and we need to understand.—M. Page, Grand Rapids, Mich."



PARHELIA, OR MOCK SUNS

Inner halo 22 degress in radius. Halos red on inner sides.

THESE were not rainbows but halos, accompanied with the rather infrequent luminous phenomena caled "mock suns," or "parhelia." You may congratulate yourself on having been a witness of such a phenomenon.

As to the display having been a "sign" hung out in the heavens by the Almighty to give warning of unusual rains and floods, that is a matter of interpretation. Science assures us that there are no signs of that kind, and shows us how the phenomena are produced by the simple property of refraction of light. That the appearances you saw were indications of atmospheric conditions suited to produce rains, and incidentally floods, is unquestionably true; but no man of science would go with you in your belief that God hung these strange sights in the sky with the special intention that they should serve as warnings.

You are perfectly right in believing that we need to understand these apparent signs and omens, but we ought to do it as far as we can with the aid of our intelligence. We ought to trace their origin as far back as possible in the regular course of nature's laws—which you must believe to be either God's laws or the results of blind chance. For my part I prefer the God hypothesis. But that does not prevent me from trying to find out as well as I can how nature works, or from saying, when I think I have found out, that God has not done this or that thing specially for me or for my fellows. He has done it as a part of what we call nature. Some of the representatives of our race have bought egotism by wholesale, until they think they own the universe.

I have drawn here a little picture which shows the principal features of a double solar halo attended by a parhelic display.

The picture describes itself. The inner halo is the brighter and sometimes the only one evident to the eye. The parhelic circle passing through the sun is parallel to the horizon. The parhelia, or mock suns, may be four in number, placed at the points where the two halos traverse the parhelic circle. But ordinarily only one or two are noticed. The outer parhelia are much fainter than the inner ones. The tangent arcs sometimes produce remarkable effects, and there may be more than four mock suns visible.

Bible Passages

David Praiseth God

(Psalm 145)

I WILL extol thee, my God, O king; and I will bless thy name for ever and ever.

Every day will I bless thee; and I will praise thy name for ever and ever.

Great is the Lord, and greatly to be praised; and his greatness is unsearchable.

One generation shall praise thy works to another, and shall declare thy mighty acts.

I will speak of the glorious honour of thy majesty, and of thy wondrous works.

And men shall speak of the might of thy terrible acts: and I will declare thy greatness.

They shall abundantly utter the memory of thy great goodness, and shall sing of thy righteousness.

The Lord is gracious, and full of compassion; slow to anger, and of great mercy.

The Lord is good to all: and his tender mercies are over all his works.

All thy works shall praise thee, O Lord; and thy saints shall bless thee.

They shall speak of the glory of thy kingdom, and talk of thy power;

To make known to the sons of men his mighty acts, and the glorious majesty of his kingdom.

Thy kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, and thy dominion endureth throughout all generations.

The Lord upholdeth all that fall, and raiseth up all those that be bowed down.

The eyes of all wait upon thee; and thou givest them their meat in due season.

Thou openest thine hand, and satisfieth the desire of every living thing.

The Lord is righteous in all his ways, and holy in all his works.

The Lord is nigh unto all them that call upon him, to all that call upon him in truth.

He will fulfil the desire of them that fear him: he also will hear their cry, and will save them.

The Lord preserveth all them that love him: but all the wicked will he destroy.

My mouth shall speak the praise of the Lord: and let all flesh bless his holy name for ever and ever.

The Rhyming Optimist

Dead Leaves

DEAD leaves lie thickly down the forest ways
Where autumn tossed them with a gusty breath.
And there, through winter's ice-
crowned, storm-swept days,
They still have fluttered, restless
even in death.
The wind has heaped them up beside the brook
And piled them deeply by the willow-hedge,
Their vanquished hosts are scattered in each nook
Of hollowed earth along the rocky ledge.
Dead leaves! Poor skeletons of lovely things
That once danced lightly on the summer breeze
And, lifting up their emerald-tinted wings,
Lent joyous promise to the stately trees.
Dead now . . . but peer beneath,
against earth's mold.
In dead leaves' shelter spring's first flowers unfold!

Speaking of Ancestors

By Herbert Kaufman

NOBODY is certain of his lineage.

Monarchs, high priests and satraps have broadcast their seed through the ages, to flourish, wither and disappear in racial weed patches and social jungles.

There are no pure-breeds left on earth. All family trees finally hybridize. The lesser branches of royalty graft to inferior timber and, through cross-fertilization, drop identity and hereditary characteristics, then vanish from the ken of history and genealogical records.

Aristocracy and power emerge from the shadows, flaunt for a brief hour in the sun, and sink back to the levels from which they rose.

The Plantagenet line, founded by a pirate and blackmailer, produces William the Conqueror, Richard "Coeur de Lion," begins to wilt with John's accession, and is, today, without a single verified collateral.

The Tudors, spawn of a Welsh steward, produce Henry VIII and Elizabeth, hold the English throne for a few reigns, and retire into the veins of anonymity.

The Medicis, of God knows what origin, first appear as small traders, evolve into great merchants, monopolize Florentine finance, control its politics, place their brothers in the chair of St. Peter and promote their sisters to royalty, only to slip into the mob again, leaving research no forwarding address.

The bootblack at the corner, and the Unknown Soldier beneath the Arc de Triomphe, likely as not, trace from Lorenzo the Magnificent or Catherine the Implacable.

Any Bagdad baker or Manhattan barber may be a residual legatee of Alexander's blood.

And Caesar's random corpuscles rove from Stamboul waterfronts to the docks of Liverpool.

Saladin's folk and Archimedes' grandchildren haven't the slightest notion of their illustrious descent.

The precious lymph of Pericles and Constantine circulates in Fifth Avenue and Melbourne mews, alike.

You can't truthfully swear non-kinship with Darius. And your ashman isn't sure Ptolemy Philadelphus wasn't a relative.

There's a bit of thoroughbred in each mongrel, and a percentage of mongrel in every thoroughbred.

France has never yet learned what became of a third of the nobility scattered by the Revolution. Nor will half of Russia's noblesse conquer circumstance and regain the caste distinctions which exile and impoverishment deny them.

Many an Austrian Duke and German Prince, who yesterday shuddered at the mere thought of mesalliance, will live to see daughters marry peasant sons, and sons espouse women whose traditions crossed in the steerage.

War, persecution and degeneration have thus contributed alloys to the melting pot since the fall of Babylon and the razing of Troy.

Le sang pur is an empty myth. The beggar maid, when all is said and done, could probably have matched ancestors with Cophetua.

The lost heir of Montmorency, and legitimate claimants for a dozen obsolete titles in Britain, Spain and Italy will doubtless read these very lines.

And a Plantagenet may set them.

It's a wise man who can guess even a tenth of his forefathers —or their strains.

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, April 10.—Luncheon inspires more smart dressing these days than dinner. For some time dining out has been slumping. The annoyance in serving cocktails, wines and liquors had much to do with it. And what Mr. Hoover said added a dot to the restraint.

There was also the haste required to rush to the theater and opera even in the newly regulated traffic, to be considered. One may visit many of those erstwhile haunts where formal dress was almost obligatory and not find the dining rooms more than half filled.

By 9 almost every first class place in town is deserted. Those who used to entertain in public now entertain at home. The well-dressed lady these days parades the new frock between 12 and 3. Such places as the Ritz, Colony, Pierre's, Marguery, Sherry's, Crillon, etc., are packed then.

Luncheon has become leisurely—a two-hour affair with another hour to gossip in the coffee room. The biggest display of jewels used to flash at night, but are now often seen at noon. That is why the most popular places are dim with a seductive haze of light.

From a darkened corner a quick gesture scatters a thousand stars from a wrist of diamond bracelets. One sees the dark flame of black opals, novelties in carved and painted crystal, cold white pearls, velvety green jade and all the popular gems extolled in the jewelry ads.

The most famous fashion designers lend ther talents to the luncheon ensemble. Ladies are buying more mid-day costumes than they are for evening wear. And the prices are higher. There are luncheon costumes from $200 to $500 and the average is $300.

Fashionable luncheon places, too, have become a show window for those demure girls aching to get on in the world. They may display their fine feathers. Perhaps they fall under the appraising eye of a movie magnate. Or a theatrical producer. Or a rich blade chafing in single harness.

A block on East Sixtieth street offers a row of unique and highly specialized shops. They cater to the upper East Side's Gold Coast. One establishment is engaged in removing spots from expensive fabrics. It is not a dry cleaning place—just a spot remover. A shop deals exclusively in occult books and another in psycho-analytical tomes. A magnificent hand laundry has a reception room in modernistic style. There is a florist whose customers pay from $50 to $150 weekly to furnish flowers from table decorations to the gentleman's lapel flower.

I like the story—relayed by Chic Sale—of the New York girl, just married, keeping house on a farm near Scarsdale. Each morning she ties up the garbage with bright ribbons and brings it to town to deposit in a green tin street corner repository.

And a heckler drove a pretty vaudeville singer to eventual hysteria on upper Broadway. The lady's climatical song had a line ending: "But darling I'll be true to you!" And a piqued boy friend in the gallery would intone: "Also the Army and Navy and Seventh Regiment," until they threw him out.

Courtney Ryley Cooper, the celebrated young writer of circus stories, is as bald as the well known eagle and not at all sensitive about it. At a table at the Dutch Treat the other day they were giving him a gentle razzing about his lack of hair.

"You never saw bum furniture with a marble top," replied Cooper.

"Nor grass growing out of cement either," cracked Ray Long.

Add big hugs for Police Commission Whalen: New York policemen are no longer permitted to solicit ordinary citizens to buy tickets to benefits or rackets.

An observing young private secretary has discovered prominent New Yorkers may usually be found in their offices on Wednesday. "That's the day they get back from their week-ends," she explains.

At the big theatrical first nights they are called "the ermine wrap show offs." And if you attend you get the idea. If you don't, never mind. It isn't important anyway.

ONCE OVERS

By J. J. Mundy

DO YOU frequently ask persons in your establishment to buy tickets?

If you do you should realize that you are a great bore.

If you are a foreman, you place those under you at a disadvantage.

Very likely they don't want to buy tickets, feel that they cannot afford to purchase them, yet they dare not refuse their superiors.

Employes like to be considered liberal and want to do as fellow workmen ask them to do if they can.

Often they do not refuse to buy when they know they should refuse.

Then going about a workroom and offering tickets to some persons and not others, those who cannot afford to buy, is an unkind thing to do.

It emphasizes the fact that they are either not wanted or are considered too poor to buy tickets.

From many angles there are good arguments against offering tickets for sale in the place where you are employed.

The practice should be forbidden by those in charge of departments.

Those who sell tickets are not giving full attention to their jobs.

This fact and that of taking the time of the seller and the would-be buyer are other arguments against the ticket selling practice.
